MISCELLANEOUS.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1361 Mis.—The 28th August 1926.—In supersession of all previous rules issued on the subject the Governor in Council is pleased to make the following revised rules for the regulation of appointments in the clerical service of the Secretariat of the Government of Bengal and certain Government offices in future.

M. C. McALPIN,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal (Offg.).

Rules for the regulation of appointments in the clerical service of the Secretariat of the Government of Bengal.

The clerical service of the Secretariat of the Government of Bengal is divided into two divisions—the Upper Division and the Lower Division.

Upper Division.

2. The Upper Division of the clerical service in the Secretariat is graded as follows:—

(a) Rupees 125 a month on probation for two years.

(b) After confirmation a time-scale of pay, Rs. 150—10—250—15—400, with an efficiency bar at the stage of Rs. 250.

(c) Two selection grades, one of Rs. 325—25—400 alongside the above time-scale, and another of Rs. 425—25—500 beyond it. The former selection grade is limited to 15 per cent. of the number in the Upper Division.

Special pay of Rs. 100 per mensem attaches to certain of the posts of Head Assistants.

3. Vacancies which occur in the Upper Division of each department will be filled by the following methods:—

(a) Direct recruitment of candidates by means of a competitive examination which will be the same as that prescribed for the recruitment of the Bengal Civil Service (Executive) and other services in Bengal. The rules regulating the recruitment of these services will apply in the case of direct recruitment of the Upper Division of the Secretariat. These rules may be obtained on application from the Appointment Department of this Government.

(b) Selection of suitable Europeans or Anglo-Indians. The educational attainments required of such candidates will be the Intermediate Examination, the Senior Cambridge Local Examination, the Cambridge Senior School Certificate Examination or a certificate that the candidate has passed the final examination of the advanced Commercial Classes. In this case preference will be given to graduates.

(c) Promotion from the Lower Division.

No clerk in the Lower Division, however, has, as a matter of right, any claim to promotion in the Upper Division, which will be given strictly according to merit.

One-third of the vacancies in the Upper Division will be filled by method (c). So long as all the assistants in the Lower Division, who were recruited previous to April 1910 and are considered fit for promotion to the Upper Division, have not been provided for, this proportion of one-third may be exceeded. The relaxation of this rule of one-third will not, however, override the provisions of rule 14 as regards the appointment of Muhammadans, nor will it affect the appointment of Anglo-Indians to the special branch of the Political Department of this Government.

4. For the purpose of the selection of candidates under rule 3 (b), the Director of Public Instruction shall be asked to submit, in consultation with the authorities of European colleges and schools, the names of two or three candidates for each vacancy who possess the qualifications prescribed. From among these a selection will be made by the Secretaries at a meeting.

5. Candidates selected under rule 3 (a) and 3 (b) will be on probation for two years, during which they will draw pay at the rate of Rs. 125 per month. Candidates selected under rule 3 (c) will on confirmation commence at Rs. 170 in the time-scale of Rs. 150—10—250—15—400 for the Upper Division.

Lower Division.

6. The Lower Division of the clerical service of the Secretariat is graded as follows:—

(a) Rupees 60 a month on probation for two years.

(b) After confirmation a time-scale of pay, Rs. 65—4—145—145—150, with an efficiency bar at the stage of Rs. 105.

(c) Selection grade of Rs. 175—25—200 for clerk of special merit (limited to 10 per cent of the Lower Division in each Department) who have passed at least three years on the maximum of the time-scale.

The bar in the time-scale will apply in the case of those clerks who are employed on purely routine work, such as despatcher, sorter, recorder, indexer, diarist, inter-departmental clerk, file-keeper, etc.

7. The vacancies which occur in the Lower Division of the departments of the Secretariat will be filled up by means of a competitive examination. In special cases, as laid down in rules 13 and 14, appointments may be made by nomination.

8. The examination will be held in the month of August of each year. The arrangement for the examination will be made by the Central Examination Committee, Bengal, who will be assisted by paid examiners, and will act in communication with the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Finance Department.

9. Candidates will be required to produce evidence that they have been through a complete secondary school course. In the case of Europeans and Anglo-Indians, applicants may be accepted who have obtained the elementary school certificate and have taken the supplementary commercial course prescribed by the European Schools Code. Every candidate must submit before the 15th July a written application for permission to appear at the examination.

10. The application under the last rule shall be in the form given below, and must be accompanied by a treasury receipt for the sum of Rs. 10. This sum the candidate is required to pay into the treasury nearest his place of residence by way of examination fee and in no circumstances will this sum be refunded.

INDUSTRIES.

NOTIFICATIONS.

No. 3769 Ind.—The 24th August 1926. The following Rules for the grant of State Technical Scholarships from Bengal and Rules for the Guidance of the Government of Bengal Technical Scholars in Europe are published for general information.

G. S. DUTT,
Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RULES FOR THE GRANT OF STATE TECHNICAL SCHOLARSHIPS FROM BENGAL.

Prefatory Remarks.—Prior to the introduction of the Reforms, the Government of India controlled the grant of Technical scholarships tenable by statutory natives of India for study in Europe (which term also includes America) and four such scholarships were allotted to Bengal at one time. With the Reforms, these scholarships have been provincialised as far as they relate to provincial subjects as classified in the Devolution Rules. The Rules regulate the grant of such scholarships from Bengal and supersede all the previous Rules of the Government of India and this Government on the subject.

The following general principles will govern the grant of these scholarships:—

(i) Technical and practical training should be provided in India whenever possible, and training overseas should be reserved for students who have exhausted the facilities for such training in India and are in the best position to profit by further experience abroad.

(ii) Government scholars should only be sent out of India for a training in those subjects for which there is a real demand but no adequate provision in the country, and such scholars should be very carefully selected, only those being sent abroad who have been actually associated with practical industries in Bengal and are able to produce evidence that they have taken up such industries as their future career and, therefore, are likely to derive most advantage from such scholarships.

Rule 1.—The number of Technical Scholarships to be awarded by the Government of Bengal in a year will be decided with reference to the funds available during the year.

Rule 2.—The scholarships should ordinarily be for two years. This period may be extended up to five years, if the High Commissioner for India recommends that the extension is indispensably necessary for the completion of the scholar's training. The application for such extension should be made three months before the expiry of the existing scholarship. Where necessary, the period of scholarships will be preceded by a practical training in a Workshop, Factory or Mine in India, as the case may be, for not less than one year and succeeded, where feasible, by one year's practical work on return.

Rule 3.—The scholarships will ordinarily be tenable in Great Britain, but when necessary facilities for training in a particular subject cannot be obtained in that country, the scholarship may be made tenable elsewhere.

Rule 4.—These scholarships will not be given for Law, Medicine, Forestry, Veterinary Science, Agriculture, Civil Engineering (other than Sanitary and Municipal Engineering) or Geology. Enquiry should first be made from the office of the High Commissioner in advance as to the facilities available for training. Certain suggestions regarding the standard qualifications required for training in particular industries for which scholarships will be awarded are incorporated in Appendices I and IA to these Rules.

Rule 5.—The subjects for the award of scholarships will be selected by the Advisory Board of Industries, Bengal. After the subjects are approved by Government in consultation with the High Commisisoner, the scholarships will be advertised with a view to secure the best available candidates. The Board will also perform the following functions in this connection, viz.—

(i) selection and recommendation to Government of candidates for appointment as Technical Scholars;

(ii) making of suggestions to Government regarding the course of training to be followed by the scholars in Europe or elsewhere;

(iii) advising Government, where necessary, as to the nature of preliminary training which the selected scholars shall undergo for one year before their departure, and of the practical training which it is advisable that they should receive after their return; and, finally,

(iv) endeavouring, with assistance of local manufacturers and employers, to find employment for the scholars on their return.

Rule 6.—The object for which the scholarships are given is to assist in developing the industries of Bengal. A list of industries for the study of which scholarships will ordinarily be awarded are given in Appendices I and IA.

Rule 7.—The selected candidates must produce—

(i) satisfactory evidence of good character;

(ii) medical evidence of physical fitness to undergo a course of study abroad;

(iii) evidence of educational qualifications of the standard prescribed in Appendices I and IA to these Rules for particular industries or as may be prescribed from time to time for subjects not mentioned therein; and

(iv) satisfactory evidence of age (which must not exceed 25 years).

NOTE.—In the case of a candidate already resident in the United Kingdom who has applied for a scholarship, the High Commissioner should be consulted before a selection is made and, if necessary, his views should be obtained by cable.

Rule 8.—In special cases, a scholarship of a value to be fixed by Government, not exceeding Rs. 100 per mensem, may be given for preliminary training in India, and in special cases also a scholarship not exceeding Rs. 150 per mensem may be given to a scholar on his return to India, in order to assist him in commencing work in India. When a scholar has had a preliminary training in India, a report on his work and progress should be sent to the High Commissioner.

Rule 9.—As soon as the selection of a scholar has been made by the Government, the Director of Industries as President of the Advisory Board should communicate to the office of the High Commissioner, in the form laid down in Appendix III to these Rules, the notification of award of the scholarships with the names of the scholars selected, their qualifications and proposed courses of study, together with all necessary certificates and testimonials including the students' applications. The special intention of the scholarships should also be mentioned as closely as possible and whether a definite degree or diploma is regarded as essential or not should also be definitely stated, the exact arrangements to be made in each case being left to the discretion of the High Commissioner. Instructions about scholars who begin their training with manual work should reach the High Commissioner by the 1st December and the candidates should reach England by March or April, of the following year. Where the scholar is to commence training with purely academic work, the intimation should reach the High Commissioner by May and the scholar should reach England not later than the middle of September.

Rule 10.—The scholarships carry with them no conditions as to any subsequent career or service under Government, and no expectations of such employment are held out. The Advisory Board of Industries in selecting subjects should exercise care, in order to secure that scholarships are only given where there is some prospect of the scholar's obtaining employment in which it will be possible to utilise in India the experience and training he will have gained.

Rule 11.—When a scholar is given a scholarship after his return, the Board should settle the nature of his practical training while he is drawing the scholarship, and should, if they think this fit and practicable, obtain from the new employer a report on the way in which the scholar has progressed during his training, and his value as a technological specialist. In such a case, the scholar should at the end of his period of training receive from the Board a detailed statement of his training.

Rule 12.—The Local Government should receive an annual report from the office of the High Commissioner of the progress made by each scholar in his training.

Rule 13.—The Local Government should, in January of each year, send a return to the office of the High Commissioner, showing how all scholars from the province who have returned since 1910 are employed, and what salaries they are drawing.

RULES FOR THE GUIDANCE OF THE GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL TECHNICAL SCHOLARS IN EUROPE.

Rule 1.—All Government scholars are required to avail themselves of the information and advice which the High Commissioner and the local advisers at University centres are in a position to give them, and to apply to the High Commissioner or to the local advisers, as the case may be, for instructions as regards their studies and in circumstances of difficulty. The local advisers at Manchester, Edinburgh and Glasgow have charge of State scholars studying at those places, and the Secretary to the Delegacy for Oriental Students at Oxford and the Secretary to the Inter-collegiate Indian students' Committee at Cambridge (who, for this purpose, act as local advisers) have charge of scholars studying there. Scholars studying elsewhere than Manchester, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Oxford and Cambridge will be under the direct charge of the High Commissioner. The local advisers in the above centres are the proper persons to bring before the High Commissioner any matter requiring the sanction of the High Commissioner or of the Government of Bengal.

Rule 2.—Every scholar should, on reaching England, at once report himself to the office of the High Commissioner in London, 42 Grosvenor Gardens, S.-W. 1. Accommodation for new arrivals is provided at 21, Cromwell Road, South Kensington, S.-W. 7.

Rule 3.—Every scholar must obey all instructions which he may receive from the office of the High Commissioner—through the local advisers where scholars are under their charge—and must consult regularly the High Commissioner or the local adviser, as the case may be, in regard to his work. No course of study will ordinarily be sanctioned which does not provide for an adequate practical training. Any course which has received the sanction of the High Commissioner will not be changed without similar sanction. All scholars shall be required, at the discretion of the High Commissioner to join a suitable Technical or Professional Society or Institution, their entrance fees and subscriptions being defrayed by the High Commissioner.

Rule 4.—Every scholar must, from time to time, whenever the High Commissioner or the local adviser requires it, submit a certificate from the proper College or University authority or from any other auhority under whom he is working, showing that his conduct and progress have been satisfactory.

Rule 5.—Every scholar must give a written undertaking that he will at once, and without discussion of possible alternatives, devote himself exclusively to the course of training laid down for him, and to do whatever work it may involve and also that on return to India he will devote himself to the industry which he has studied. Any scholar who neglects his studies, or endeavours to study for any other profession concurrently, will render himself liable to forfeiture of his scholarship. If a scholarship be forfeited, or if it be resigned before completion of its term, or if the holder of it, on completion of its term, declines to return to India when instructed to do so, the scholar will lose his claim to a free passage back to India.

Rule 6.—Every scholar will be required to keep a concise diary of his work, to be submitted to the High Commissioner or local adviser at the dates laid down in the Rules for the keeping of such diaries.

Rule 7.—Scholars will be expected to continue their studies during vacations, with the exception of three weeks in each year. Vacation study should, as far as possible, take the form of practical work.

Rule 8.—Plans for vacation work, accompanied by a complete estimate of any extra expenses for fees or travelling involved, should be sent in to the High Commissioner or the local adviser six weeks before the end of any academic term. Scholars are not entitled to any subsistence allowance in addition to the scholarship allowance during the time spent on vacation work, but a scholar who receives permission to visit the continent, may, if the High Commissioner considers that the circumstances render it desirable, be granted a subsistence allowance calculated at such rates as the High Commissioner may decide.

Rule 9.—Subject to a due compliance with the above conditions, the scholar's allowance will be paid quarterly in advance by the office of the High Commissioner—through the local adviser when the scholar is under his charge. It will begin from the date of the scholar's reporting his arrival in England, and the High Commissioner or the local adviser will disburse it to the scholar, in such instalments as convenience may dictate. Three months after the date of arrival, the amount to the ensuing official Quarter Day will be paid to the scholar—through the local adviser when the scholar is under his charge—and subsequent payments will be made in advance on or after each official Quarter Day.

NOTE.—The official Quarter Days are the 1st of January, the 1st of April, the 1st of July and the 1st of October.

Rule 11.—The scholarships will be of the value of £200 per annum missioner in London, before his arrival in England, the sum of £40 for initial expenses. He will have no claim to payment of any instalment of his scholarship until this deposit has been made.

Rule 11.—The scholarships will be of the value of £200 per annum plus a bonus of £40 per annum. The amount of this bonus may be varied from time to time in consultation with the High Commissioner and will be held subject to the observance by the scholar of the Rules laid down for him by the Government of Bengal and the High Commissioner. A scholar, who not being disabled by illness or prevented by any other cause which the High Commissioner may consider sufficient, fails to comply with the Rules here set forth will forfeit his scholarship. A scholarship may be terminated at any time if a scholar fails in health or conduct. The scholarship may be withdrawn by the High Commissioner at the end of any year, and it may be reduced by him while the scholar is being trained if the employer recommends such a course.

Rule 12.—Charges for University and College fees, premiums for practical training and the necessary travelling expenses of scholars by second class, or by third class if no second class be available, will, if sanctioned, be defrayed by the High Commissioner. Applications for payment of all these charges should be made to the High Commissioner—through the local advisers when scholars are under their charge. But charges for private tution unless specially sanctioned, for books, instruments, hotel bills and medical attendance, must be paid by the scholar himself.

Rule 13.—No claim can be admitted for the payment of any expenditure, unless the scholar has obtained previous sanction from the High Commissioner.

Rule 14.—On the expiry of a scholarship a scholar should, without delay, apply for his passage back to India to the office of the High Commissioner—through the local adviser when placed under his charge. He is not entitled to make his own passage arrangement and to claim an allowance in lieu of it from the office of the High Commissioner.

Rule 15.—The scholar will be required to execute a bond in a prescribed form (see Appendix II) undertaking to repay the amount of scholarship he has received if he fails to return to India when instructed by the High Commissioner to do so.

Rule 16.—A free second class passage from Calcutta to England will be provided, and the cost of the overland journey from Marseilles will in no circumstances be refunded to a scholar unless he is expressly instructed by Government to travel overland, and is provided with a steamer ticket to Marseilles only. In the latter event the High Commissioner for India will refund the rail and baggage expenses on the direct instruction of the Local Government concerned. The same procedure will be followed in the case of return journey of a scholar, and unless the scholar has been provided with a ticket to Bombay only, his overland expenses from Bombay to Calcutta should in no circumstances be paid by Government.

A grant of £5 will also be made by the High Commissioner to each scholar to meet incidental expenses on his return voyage to India.

APPENDIX I.

Suggestions regarding Special Industries.

I. Engineering.—(i) All Engineering students of whatever branch should receive a year's preliminary workshop course in a mechanical engineer's shop in India.

(ii) Indians who come to the United Kingdom for their College Course should have taken the B. A., B. Sc., or B. Eng. degree and have received a training in Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry and Engineering Drawing of a sufficiently advanced character to enable them to join a second-year class at once; special instruction in Mechanical Drawing and Descriptive Geometry is required, and should be given in India.

II. Mining.—(i) Scholarships in Mining (as distinguished from Geology) shall only be given to men who intend to become Mine Managers or Mining Engineers.

(ii) In every case the candidate shall have actually worked for at least one year in an Indian mine—preferably in a paid position.

(iii) A specially strict test of physical fitness shall be imposed on candidates before selection.

(iv) The candidate shall have reached the B.A. or B.Sc. standard in Physics (Theoretical and Practical), Chemistry and Mathematics, Mechanics and Practical Geometry.

III. Mining Geology.—Candidates should possess a knowledge of Economic Geology and some experience of Surveying and Mining Methods.

IV. Metallurgy.—(i) Scholarships should be granted only to men who have had previous experience of metal industries, a knowledge even of primitive processes being valuable; and candidates who lack such experience should be sent for some months to metal works in India before coming to this country for their training.

(ii) If possible, notice should be given beforehand of the branch of Metallurgy that the scholar intends to take up on his return to India.

V. Spinning and Weaving.—Scholars should in all cases have had considerable experience in one or more Indian Mills, preferably through having served in a paid position.

VI. Bleaching and Finishing.—It is almost impossible for Indian students to obtain in England anything more than the training given in Technological Colleges and, in order that they may complete this by practical experience, efforts should be made to secure openings for a few carefully selected men in up-to-date bleaching establishments in India: but in the woollen industry facilities for practical training are now procurable to a limited extent in Europe.

VII. Dyeing.—No scholarship should be granted to a candidate who does not possess some knowledge of the dyeing industry as carried on in India, and who has not reached the B.Sc. standard in Chemistry.

VIII. Tanning.—(a) As regards students who aim at becoming owners or managers of tanneries—

(i) connection with the leather industry is desirable, and a knowledge of Indian methods is essential; and

(ii) where these conditions are satisfied, high academic qualifications need not for the present be insisted upon; a fair knowledge of Chemistry, Physics and some knowledge of Mathematics and acquaintance with the metric system of weights and measures will suffice.

(b) As regards those who intend to take up scientific research as applied to leather industries—

(i) the scholarship shall only be granted after the student has received the highest scientific training in India; and

(ii) he must have shown considerable aptitude for research work.

IX. Chemical Manufactures.—The grant of scholarships for the study of chemical industries in the United Kingdom is of doubtful utility; training in India would be preferable, and, before any such scholarship is granted, inquiry should be made as to the possibility of providing in Europe a complete training in the special branch of industry concerned, full particulars being furnished to the office of the High Commissioner as to candidates' qualifications and prospects of finding employment on their return to India.

4. The Auditor-General, on vacating his office, shall not be eligible to hold any other post under the Crown in India.

DUTIES AND POWERS.

General.

9. Subject to any general or special orders of the Secretary of State in Council, the Auditor-General shall be—

(i) the final audit authority in India ; and (ii) responsible for the efficiency of the audit of expenditure in India from the revenues of India.

He shall further be, to the extent authorised by these rules, the administrative head of the Indian Audit Department.

10. The Auditor-General shall have authority—

(i) to inspect, either personally or through any audit officer, any Government office of accounts in India ;
(ii) to arrange for test audit in any Government office of accounts;
(iii) subject to any orders of the Secretary of State in Council prescribing the nature and extent of the audit to be applied to specified classes of expenditure, to frame rules in all matters pertaining to audit, particularly in respect of the method and extent of audit and the raising and pursuance of objections.

Duties and Powers as regards Audit.

11. (a) The Auditor-General, without prejudice to his other audit functions, is responsible that audit is conducted with reference to the following canons, namely :—

(1) Every public officer should exercise the same vigilance in respect of expenditure incurred from Government revenues as a person of ordinary prudence would exercise in respect of the expenditure of his own money.
(2) Money borrowed on the security of allocated revenues should be expended on those objects only for which, as provided by rules made under the Act, money may be so borrowed. If the money is utilised on works which are not productive, arrangements should be made for the amortisation of the debt.
(3) No authority should exercise its powers of sanctioning expenditure to pass an order which will be directly or indirectly to its own advantage.
(4) Government revenues should not be utilised for the benefit of a particular person or section of the community unless—
  (i) the amount of expenditure involved is insignificant, or (ii) a claim for the amount could be enforced in a court of law, or
  (iii) the expenditure is in pursuance of a recognised policy or custom.
(5) No authority should sanction any expenditure which is likely to involve at a later date expenditure beyond its own powers of sanction.
(6) The amount of allowances, such as travelling allowances, granted to meet expenditure of a particular type, should be so regulated that the allowances are not on the whole sources of profit to the recipients.

(b) The Auditor-General, or any principal auditor should bring to the notice of the Governor-General in Council or the Local Government as the case may be, any breach of one of these canons.

12. The Auditor-General shall, if so required by the Governor-General in Council—

(i) arrange for the audit of the accounts of the receipts of revenue of any Government department, the accounts, of any public or quasi-public body, or any other accounts, although they may not relate directly to the receipt and expenditure of Government moneys ; and

(ii) arrange for the audit of stores or stock in the possession of an officer or a department of Government, and for the audit of grants of land and alienations of land revenue.

13. If the Auditor-General considers it desirable that the whole or any part of the audit applied to Government accounts shall be conducted in the offices in which these accounts originate, he may require that these accounts, together with all books, papers and writings having relation thereto, shall at all convenient times be made available in those offices for inspection by his audit officers.

14. When an objection taken in the course of audit cannot be adjusted by a principal auditor in consultation with the authorities concerned, the Auditor-General may either instruct the principal auditor to withdraw the objection or require the Governor-General in Council or the Local Government concerned to obtain the requisite sanction, or in default, to recover the amount under objection :

Provided that—

(i) if the objection to any expenditure is based solely on the ground that such expenditure contravenes one of the canons set out in Rule 11 above, the Auditor-General or principal auditor shall withdraw such objection at the request of the Finance Department of the Government concerned if the Finance Department states that the breach of the canon and the action taken thereon by the Government will be reported as soon as possible to the Committee on Public Accounts and

(ii) if the Governor-General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, orders in writing that the recovery of the amount under objection shall be foregone, the Auditor-General or principal auditor shall withdraw such objection, but may require that the action taken shall be reported as soon as possible to the Committee on Public Accounts.

15. (1) The Auditor-General shall, on such dates as he may prescribe, obtain from each principal auditor, and from any officers of the Indian Audit Department to whom he may entrust this duty, Audit and Appropriation Reports reviewing the results of the audit conducted by and under such officer during the past official year. Any officer of Government may be called upon to provide any information necessary for the preparation of these reports, which shall be in such form and shall deal with such matters as the Auditor-General may prescribe. On receipt of these reports the Auditor-General shall transmit them to the Governor-General in Council or to the Finance Department of the Local Government concerned with such comments as he may think fit.

(2) The Auditor-General shall forward to the Secretary of State through the Governor General in Council the several reports dealing with the total expenditure in India in each year with his detailed comments on each report, and may also offer such further comments of a general nature as he may think fit

16. (1) The Auditor-General may on his own motion, and shall on reference being made to him by the Governor-General in Council or by a Local Government, review any audit decision of any audit officer, and, if he thinks fit, overrule it.

(2) The Auditor-General may dispense with a previous reference to the Secretary of State in Council, otherwise required by the rules regarding sanction to expenditure from time to time in force, in cases where, in his opinion, the failure to obtain the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council involves a breach of the letter rather than of the spirit of the rules.

17. The Auditor-General shall have power to require that any books, papers or writings relating to the accounts audited by the Audit Department shall be sent for inspection by him or by any other officer of the Indian Audit Department : provided that—

(i) if the Governor-General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, certifies that the documents in question are secret, the Auditor-General or officer, as the case may be, shall accept, in lieu of such documents and as a correct account of the facts stated therein, a statement certified by the Governor-General in Council or the Local Government ; and

(ii) if the documents are confidential, the officer, to whom they are made over shall be responsible for preventing disclosure of their contents.

Duties and powers as regards accounts.

18. The Auditor-General shall compile the Finance and Revenue Accounts of India in such form as may from time to time be prescribed by the Secretary of State in Council and shall send them to the Governor-General in Council for transmission to the Secretary of State in Council. He may call upon any Government officer to furnish any information in such form as may be required for the completion of these accounts.

19. The Auditor-General shall have power to prescribe the forms in which accounts shall be kept in audit offices : provided that no change which will affect the form of the Finance and Revenue Accounts shall be made without the previous sanction of the Secretary of State in Council.

Minor changes of detail, such as the opening of new minor heads, alterations affecting minor or detailed heads, and the like, are not changes "affecting the form of the Finance and Revenue Accounts" within the meaning of this rule.

20. If a doubt or a dispute arises as to the major head under which a particular minor head, or as to the minor head under which a particular detailed head should be included, it shall be decided by the Auditor-General.

21. The Auditor-General shall prepare in each year a review of the balances in the books maintained by the audit departments and shall send it to the Governor-General in Council for submission to the Secretary of State in Council.

22. The Auditor-General shall have power to determine the form in which officers rendering accounts to the Indian Audit Department shall render such accounts and in which the initial accounts, from which the accounts so rendered are compiled or on which they are based, shall be maintained.

23. The Auditor-General shall supply, or shall arrange that officers subordinate to him supply, any information required by the Governor-General in Council or by a Local Government which can be derived from the accounts maintained in the offices under his control.

24. The Auditor-General shall arrange that such assistance as may be required shall be rendered by the officers of the Indian Audit Department to the Governor-General in Council, the Local Governments and other authorities in the preparation of their annual budget estimates.

25. If in any case the Secretary of State in Council has declared, that the maintenance of the provincial accounts of a specified province or of the accounts of any department of the central Government is transferred to an authority other than the Auditor-General, the duties and powers of the Auditor-General in relation to the accounts of such province or department shall be as follows :—

(i) The officers and establishments employed upon such maintenance shall not be subordinate to him.

(ii) He shall be responsible for the inclusion of the accounts in the Finance and Revenue Accounts of India.

(iii) He shall have power to prescribe the form in which and the time or times at which the accounts shall be submitted to him for audit and for inclusion in the Finance and Revenue Accounts of India.

(iv) He shall exercise the powers and perform the duties prescribed by Rules 20 and 21.

(v) He shall not be bound by the provisions of Rules 23 and 24.

Powers of Expenditure.

26. The Auditor-General shall exercise no powers of incurring expenditure without previous sanction other than such powers as may be delegated to him by the Governor-General in Council.

27. The Governor-General in Council shall arrange that sanctions to expenditure accorded by the Auditor-General shall be audited by some officer unconnected with the audit departments in India.

Administrative Powers over the Indian Audit Department.

28. The Auditor-General may—

(i) in the case of officers of the Indian Audit Department of any class lower than Class I, transfer, suspend or degrade any such officer, withhold from him any increment or increments of pay, and grant him any leave that may be admissible under rule, and may delegate to any officer of the Indian Audit Department the power of granting such leave ;

(ii) in the case of officers in Class I of the Indian Audit Department, grant any such officer any leave that may be admissible under rule, and, subject to the control of the Governor-General in Council, transfer any such officer.

29. The Auditor-General may sanction the grant to any officer of the Indian Audit Department of such pension as is admissible under section 96B of the Act and the rules in force thereunder.

30. The Auditor-General may dismiss from service any officer of the Indian Audit Department other than an officer appointed thereto by the Secretary of State in Council or the Governor-General in Council.

31. Nothing in this Part shall be deemed to affect any right of appeal which any officer of the Indian Audit Department may possess under the Act or rules made thereunder or under any general or special orders of the Secretary of State in Council or the Governor-General in Council.

The questions on Theoretical Geometry will consist of Theorems contained in the annexed Schedule B, together with easy extensions and deductions with numerical illustrations. Any proof of a proposition will be accepted which appears to the Examiners to form part of a systematic treatment of the subject; the order in which the Theorems are stated in Schedule B is not imposed as the sequence of their treatment. In the proof of the Theorems hypothetical constructions will be permitted.

(Candidates will be provided with squared paper.)

SCHEDULE A.

Bisections of angles and of straight lines.

Construction of perpendiculars to straight lines.

Construction of an angle equal to a given angle.

Construction of parallels to a given straight line.

Sample cases of the construction from sufficient data of triangles and quadrilaterals.

Division of straight lines into a given number of equal parts or into parts in any given proportions.

Construction of a traingle equal in area to a given polygon.

Construction of tangents to a circle and of common tangents to two circles.

Simple cases of the construction of circle from sufficient data.

Construction of a fourth proportional to three given straight lines and a mean proportional to two given straight lines

Construction of regular figures of 3, 4, 6 or 8 sides in or about a given circle

Construction of a square equal in area to a given polygon.

SCHEDULE B.

Angles at a point.

If a straight line stands on another straight line, the sum of the two angles so formed is equal to two right angles; and the converse.

If two straight lines intersect, the vertically opposite angles are equal.

Parallel straight lines.

When a straight line cuts two other straight lines, if—

(i) a pair of alternate angles are equal, or

(ii) a pair of corresponding angles are equal, or

(iii) a pair of interior angles on the same side of the cutting line are together equal to two right angles, then the two straight lines are parallel; and the converse.

Straight lines which are parallel to the same straight line are parallel to one another.

Triangles and rectilineal figures.

The sum of the angles of a triangle is equal to two right angles.

If the sides of a convex polygon are produced in order the sum of the angles so formed is equal to four right angles.

If two triangles have two sides of the one equal to two sides of the other, each to each, and also the angles contained by these sides equal, the triangles are congruent.

If two triangles have two angles of the one equal to two angles of the other, each to each, and also one side of the one equal to the corresponding side of the other, the triangles are congruent.

If two sides of a triangle are equal, the angles opposite to these sides are equal; and the converse.

If two triangles have the three sides of the one equal to the three sides of the other, each to each, the triangles are congruent.

If two right-angled triangles have their hypotenuses equal, and one side of the one equal to one side of the other, the triangles are congruent.

If two sides of a triangle are unequal, the greater side has the greater angle opposite to it ; and the converse.

Of all the straight lines that can be drawn to a given straight line from a given point outside it, the perpendicular is the shortest.

The opposite sides and angles of a parallelogram are equal ; each diagonal bisects the parallelogram and the diagonals bisect one another.

If there are three or more parallel straight lines and the intercepts made by them on any straight line that cuts them are equal then the corresponding intercepts on any other straight line that cuts them are also equal.

Areas.

Parallelograms on the same or equal bases and of the same altitude are equal in area.
Triangles on the same or equal bases and of the same altitude are equal in area.
Equal triangles on the same or equal bases are of the same altitude.
Illustrations and explanations of the geometrical theorems corresponding to the following Algebraical identities :—

$$k(a + b + c + \ldots) = ka + kb + kc + \ldots$$

$$(a + b)^2 = a^2 + 2ab + b^2.$$

$$(a - b)^2 = a^2 - 2ab + b^2.$$

$$a^2 - b^2 = (a + b)(a - b).$$

The square on a side of a triangle is greater than, equal to, or less than, the sum of the squares on the other two sides, according as the angle contained by those sides is obtuse, right, or acute. The difference in the case of inequality is twice the rectangle contained by one of the two sides and the projection on it of the other.

Loci.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two fixed points is the perpendicular bisector of the straight line joining the two fixed points.

The locus of a point which is equidistant from two intersecting straight lines consists of the pair of straight lines which bisect the angles between the two given lines.

The Circle.

A straight line drawn from the centre of a circle to bisect a chord which is not the diameter is at right angles to the chord ; conversely, the perpendicular to a chord from the centre bisects the chord.

There is one circle, and one only, which passes through three given points not in a straight line.

In equal circles (or in the same circle), (i) if two arcs subtend equal angles at the centres, they are equal ; (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal they subtend equal angles at the centres.

In equal circles (or in the same circle), (i) if two chords are equal, they cut off equal arcs ; (ii) conversely, if two arcs are equal the chords of the arcs are equal.

Equal chords in a circle are equidistant from the centre ; and the converse.

The tangents at any point of a circle and the radius through the point are perpendicular to one another.

If two circles touch the point of contact lies on the straight line through the centres.

The angle which an arc of a circle subtends at the centre is double that which it subtends at any point on the remaining part of the circumference.

Angles in the same segment of a circle are equal ; and if the line joining two points subtends equal angles at two other points on the same side of it, the four points lie on a circle.

The angle in a semi-circle is a right angle, the angle in a segment greater than a semi-circle is less than a right angle, and the angle in a segment less than a semi-circle is greater than a right angle.

The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary ; and the converse.

If a straight line touch a circle and from the point of contact a chord be drawn, the angles which this chord makes with the tangent are equal to the angles in the alternate segment.

If two chords of a circle intersect either inside or outside the circle, the rectangle contained by the parts of the one is equal to the rectangle contained by the parts of the other.

Proportion : Similar Triangles.

If a straight line is drawn parallel to one side of a triangle, the other two sides are divided proportionally ; and the converse.

If two triangles are equiangular, their corresponding sides are proportional ; and the converse.

If two triangles have one angle of the one equal to one angle of the other and the sides about these angles proportional, the triangles are similar.

In any right-angled triangle the perpendicular to the hypotenuse from opposite vertex divides the triangle into two triangles which are similar to the whole triangle and to each other.

The internal bisector of an angle of a triangle divides the opposite sides internally in the ratio of the sides containing the angle and likewise the external bisector externally.

The ratio of the areas of similar triangles is equal to the ratio of the squares on corresponding sides.

APPENDIX III

EXTRACT FROM THE REGULATIONS AS TO THE PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES FOR APPOINTMENTS UNDER THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

[These Regulations are published for the convenience of candidates and in order to enable them to ascertain the probability of their coming up to the required physical standard. But it must be clearly understood that the Secretary of State reserves to himself an absolute discretion to reject as unfit any candidate whom he may consider, after having the opinion of his medical advisers, to be physically disqualified for the public service, and that his discretion is in no respect limited by these Regulations.]

N.B.—As regards candidates who have been wounded, a candidate who has lost one hand, fore-arm, or arm, or one leg below the knee might be accepted, but the following classes of wounds must be regarded as disqualifications, viz., (1) Injury to head; (2) Loss of an eye ; (3) Loss of leg above or through the knee.

GENERAL PHYSICAL REQUIREMENTS.

I. A candidate must be in good mental and bodily health, and free from any physical defect likely to interfere with efficient performance of duty.

II. Measurements will be recorded of the candidate's height and chest girth.

III. Measurement of Height.—A minimum height of 5 ft. 4 ins. is imposed. The candidate will be placed against the standard with his feet together, and the weight thrown on the heels, and not on the toes or outside of the feet. He will stand erect without rigidity, and with the heels, calves, buttocks, and shoulders touching the standard; the chin will be depressed to bring the vertex of the head level under the horizontal bar and the height will be noted in parts of an inch to eights.

IV. Measurement of Chest.—The candidate will be made to stand erect with his feet together, and to raise his hands above his head. The tape will be carefully adjusted round the chest, with its posterior upper edge touching the inferior angles of the shoulder blades, and its anterior lower edge the upper part of the nipples. The arms will then be lowered to hang loosely by the side, and care will be taken that the shoulders are not thrown upwards or backwards so as to displace the tape. The candidate will then be directed to empty his chest of air as much as is possible. This is best done by continuous whistling with the lips as long as sound can be produced. The tape is carefully gathered in during the process, and when the minimum measurement is reached it is recorded. The candidate will then be directed to inflate his chest to its utmost capacity. The maximum measurement will likewise be noted. The girth with the chest fully expanded and the range of expansion between the minimum and maximum will then be recorded.

V. The candidate's weight will be taken and recorded in pounds.

VI. (A) The examination for determining the acuteness of vision includes two tests, one for distant, the other for near vision. Snellen's test types will be used for the test for distant vision, without glasses at a distance of 20 feet, and for the test for near vision without glasses, at any distance selected by the candidate. The standards of the minimum acuteness of vision which will be used for guidance in the examination of a candidate are as follows :—

STANDARD I.

Right eye.	Left eye
Distant vision—V=6/6.	V=6/6.
Near vision—Reads 0, 6.	Reads 0, 6.

STANDARD II.

Better eye.	Worse eye
Distant vision—V=6/6.	V, without glasses=not below 6/60; and after correction with glasses=not below 6/24.
Near vision—Reads 0, 6.	Reads 1.

STANDARD III.

Better eye.	Worse eye.
Distant vision—V, without glasses = not below 6/24* ; and after correction with glasses = not below 6/6.	V. without glasses = not below 6/24* ; and after correction, with glasses = not below 6/12.
Near vision—Reads 0, 8.	Reads 1.

Temporarily lowered to 6/60

(B) Each eye must have a full field of vision as tested by hand movements.

(C) Squint or any morbid condition of the eyes or of the lids of either eye liable to the risk of aggravation or recurrence, will cause the rejection of the candidate.

(D) Each eye will be examined separately and the lids must be kept wide open during the test.

(E) Inability to distinguish the principal colours will not be regarded as a cause for rejection but the fact will be noted in the proceedings and the candidate will be informed.

(F) The degree of acuteness of vision of all candidates for appointments will be entered in the proceedings in the following manner :—

V.R.= ; with glasses= ; Reads

V.L.= ; with glasses= ; Reads

(G) In cases of serious abnormality the opinion of an ophthalmic specialist should be obtained.

VII. The urine (passed in presence of the examiner) should be examined and the result recorded.

VIII. The following additional points should be observed :—

(a) that the candidate's hearing in each ear is good and that there is no sign of disease of the ear ;

(b) that his speech is without impediment ;

(c) that his teeth are in good order ; that he is provided with dentures where necessary for effective mastication (well filled teeth will be considered as sound) ; and that he is free from pyorrhœa or other morbid condition of the mouth or gums ;

(d) that his chest is well formed and his chest expansion sufficient, and that his heart and lungs are sound ;

(e) that there is no evidence of any abdominal disease ;

(f) that he is not ruptured ;

(g) that he does not suffer from hydrocele, a severe degree of varicocele, varicose veins or piles ;

(j) that there is no congenital malformation or defect ;

(k) that he does not bear traces of acute or chronic disease pointing to an impaired constitution ;

(l) that he bears marks of efficient vaccination.

When any defect is found it must be noted in the certificate and the medical examiner should state his opinion whether or not it is likely to interfere with the efficient performance of the duties which will be required of the candidate. If the condition is remediable by operation it should be so stated.

APPENDIX V.

[NOTE—Appendices V and VI are merely intended to show the principal leave and pension rules at present applicable to the Indian (Imperial) Police Service without going into minute details, and do not profess to deal with every case that may arise. The rules are subject to alteration, and any disputed question must be decided with reference to the authorised text of the Fundamental Rules in the case of leave, and of the Civil Service Regulations in the case of pensions for the time being.]

ORDINARY LEAVE RULES FOR OFFICERS POSSESSING NON-EUROPEAN DOMICILE.

I.

Leave is calculated in terms of "leave on average pay," and the amount of "leave on average pay" for which an officer is eligible is $\frac{2}{11}$ths of the period spent on duty.

Subject to certain maxima and minima and to the limitations noted below, an officer may draw, at his option, leave salary equal to the average pay of the last 12 months of completed duty or to half such average pay. All leave on average and half the period on half average pay is counted against the leave earned. An officer may take his leave on average pay or half average pay, or on a combination of the two, provided that his continuous absence from duty does not exceed 28 months, and that the amount of leave taken on average pay does not exceed four months at any one time. The maximum amount of leave admissible during an officer's career expressed in terms of leave on average pay for 2½ years plus $\frac{1}{11}$th of the period spent on duty, of which not more than $\frac{1}{11}$th of the period spent on duty may actually consist of leave on average pay.

II.—GENERAL.

Leave not due and carrying half average pay may be granted on medical certificate and within certain limits, for other reasons, but an officer will not again commence to earn leave until the expiration of a fresh period of duty sufficient to earn a credit of leave equal to the leave he has taken before it was due. After 28 months' absence from duty an officer of the Indian Imperial Police Service draws quarter average salary subject to certain maxima and minima.

Leave salary is ordinarily payable in rupees if the officer spends his leave in India or Ceylon, and in sterling if he spends it elsewhere. The rate of exchange for the conversion of leave salary is prescribed from time to time by the Secretary of State. At present it is the current rate of exchange subject to a minimum of 1*s*. 4*d*. during the first four months of leave and 1*s*. 6*d*. during the remainder.

It should be noted that leave can never be claimed as of right, but is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

APPENDIX VI—(See Note at commencement of Appendix V.)

PENSIONS.

1. The following is the summary of the pension rules applicable to officers of the Indian (Imperial) Police Service appointed by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom.

2. Subject to the absolute right, which will not ordinarily be exercised, of the Government of India to decline to permit any officer to retire before reaching the age for superannuation, should it be necessary in the public interest to retain his services, officers will be allowed to retire optionally after twenty-five or more years' service.

3. Retirement is ordinarily required at the age of 55 years, but for special reasons an officer is sometimes retained after attaining that age.

4. An officer becomes eligible for full retiring pension on completing 30 years' qualifying service.

5. If before completing this period of service an officer is permitted to retire voluntarily after completion of 25 or more years' qualifying service (paragraph 2) or is compelled to retire on attaining the age of 55 (paragraph 3), or through ill-health not occasioned by irregular or intemperate habits, he will be eligible for a pension on the following scales or, if invalided with less than 7 years' qualifying service, for a gratuity.

6. The amount of pension or gratuity is regulated as follows:—

(a) Retiring and superannuation pension—

Average emoluments are calculated over the last three years of service.

Pensions drawn in the United Kingdom are converted into sterling at a minimum rate of exchange of 1s. 9d. the rupee.

7. Government may retire any officer after he has completed 25 years' service without giving reasons, and without admitting any claim to compensation in addition to pension, and in that event the pension admissible to him will ordinarily be regulated on a scale not exceeding that laid down above. The right reserved to Government under this rule will not be exercised except when it is in the public interest to dispense with the further services of an officer. Government also reserves the general power to reduce the pension ordinarily admissible in all cases where an officer's service has been unsatisfactory.

ADDITIONAL PENSION.

8. The Government of India have classified certain high appointments into two grades, the lower comprising those posts which involve high but intermediate responsibility, the higher consisting of those which require a marked degree of independent administrative and professional capacity. Officers who have held appointments in the lower grade may be granted an additional pension at the rate of Rs. 300 per year for each completed year of effective service in any appointment included in that grade, provided that no officer may draw an additional pension in excess of Rs. 1,500 in respect of service classed in the lower grade. Officers who have held appointments classed in the upper grade will be entitled to an additional pension at the rate of Rs. 500 for each completed year of effective service rendered in any appointment included in that grade, provided that no officer may draw an additional pension in excess of Rs. 2,500 in respect of service rendered in the lower and upper grades combined or in the upper grade alone.

9. These additional pensions will be awarded only to officers who have given proof of special energy and efficiency, and will be subject to the condition that an officer must in the event of voluntary retirement have completed 28 years qualifying service.

The upper grade includes :—

Inspectors-General of Police (except Inspector-General, Railway Police, Rajputana).
Director, Central Intelligence Department.
Commissioners of Police, Calcutta and Bombay.

The lower grade includes :—

Inspector-General, Railway Police, Rajputana.

APPENDIX VII.

PROVIDENT FUND.

A General Provident Fund, to which contribution is compulsory in the case of Anglo-Indians or Domiciled Europeans and optional in the case of Indians, has also been established on the following basis :—

(1) The contribution is compulsory up to 6¼ per cent. on salaries, with voluntary contributions of not more than a further 9⅜ per cent. Subscriptions on leave of any kind are optional.
(2) Compound interest on such payments is annually credited by Government to each officer subscribing.
(3) The sum which thus accumulates to the credit of an officer is his absolute property, subject to the rules of the fund, and is handed over to him, unconditionally, on quitting the service; or in the event of his death before retirement, to his legal representatives or such other person or persons as under and subject to the rules of the Fund for the time being in force, may be entitled thereto.

Bills introduced in the Council of State and Legislative Assembly, Reports of Select Committees presented to the Council and Assembly and Bills published under Rule 18 of the Indian Legislative Rules.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of State on the 19th August, 1926 :—

No. 5 OF 1926.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1913, for a certain purpose.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Companies Act, 1913, for the purpose hereinafter appearing; it is hereby enacted as follows :— VII of 1913.

Short title

1. This Act may be called the Indian Companies (Amendment) Act, 1926.

Amendment of section 26, Act VII of 1913.

2. In sub-section (1) of section 26 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913, after the word "science" the word "religion" shall be inserted. VII of 1913.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to enable associations formed for religious purposes to be registered under section 26 of the Indian Companies Act, 1913. It is doubtful whether such associations are covered by the section as now worded, and it is therefore proposed to insert the word "religion" between the words "science" and "charity" in that section, as in the corresponding section 20 of the Companies (Consolidated) Act, 1908.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly on the 18th August 1926:—

No. 39 OF 1926.

A Bill further to amend the Indian Factories Act 1911, for a certain purpose.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Indian Factories Act, 1911, for the purpose hereinafter appearing; it is hereby enacted as follows:— XII of 1911.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Indian Factories (Amendment) Act, 192 .

Amendment of section 9, Act XII of 1911

2. To section 9 of the Indian Factories Act, 1911 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), after clause (d) the following clause shall be added, namely:— XII of 1911.

"(e) the temperature in any part in which any manufacturing process is being carried on shall not be such as to be injurious to the health of the persons employed therein."

Amendment of section 37, Act XII of 1911

3. In sub-section (2) of section 37 of the said Act, in clause (g) for the words "and artificial humidification" the words "artificial humidification and temperature" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Indian Factories Amendment Bill as introduced in the Legislative Assembly in September, 1925, contained a clause providing for the insertion in the Indian Factories Act, 1911, of the following section:—

"9A. (1) In every factory a reasonable temperature shall be maintained.

(2) In the case of any factory in which, in the opinion of the inspector, a reasonable temperature is not maintained, the inspector may serve on the manager of the factory an order in writing, specifying the measures which he considers necessary to maintain a reasonable temperature, and requiring him to carry them out before a specified date."

The Select Committee appointed to consider the Bill decided by a majority to delete this clause on the ground that in present conditions it would impose a real burden on employers with only a problematical advantage to the operatives. When the Bill as amended by the Select Committee was being considered by the Legislative Assembly, Mr. Joshi moved an amendment for the re-insertion of the original clause, and although the amendment was defeated, it was clear from the discussion that a number of members considered that the Factories Act should contain some provision enabling control to be exercised over temperatures in factories. With this view, the Government of India, who recognised the force of the criticisms directed against the proposed section, are in accord and the present Bill represents another possible solution of the difficulty. Clause 2 provides that the temperature shall not be excessive in those parts of the factory where manufacturing processes are being carried on. In order to assist in the determination of what constitutes an excessive temperature, it is proposed in clause 3 that Local Governments should have the power to prescribe standards. This clause will also enable Local Governments to prescribe the methods to be adopted to secure observance of the standards fixed.

The 2nd August, 1926.

L. GRAHAM,

Secretary to the Government of India.

[As introduced in the Council of State.]

A Bill to provide that partitions and separations of interest among the members of Hindu undivided families and other transactions among persons governed by Hindu law shall, in certain cases, be effected by written and registered instruments.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide that partitions and separations of interest among the members of Hindu undivided families and other transactions among persons governed by Hindu law shall, in certain cases, be effected by written and registered instruments, It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement

1. (1) This Act may be called the Hindu Family Transactions Act, 192 .

(2) It extends to the whole of British India, except to those districts or tracts of country which are excluded from the operation of the Indian Registration Act, 1908. XVI of 1908

(3) It shall come into force on the 1st day of January, 1929.

Certain transactions to be effected only by written instrument

2. (1) After the commencement of this Act, no partition of the whole or any part of the immoveable property of any Hindu undivided family owning immoveable property which exceeds in value one thousand rupees, and no separation of interest by reason of which the members of any such family or any of them cease to be undivided, shall be effected otherwise than by a written and registered instrument.

(2) The following transactions among persons governed by the Hindu law, namely :—

(a) a surrender by a widow or other person having a limited interest in property of such property in favour of a reversioner,

(b) a release by a member of a Hindu undivided family of his undivided interest in the family property in favour of the other members,

(c) a family arrangement among the members of a Hindu undivided family as to the mode of enjoyment of the family property, and

(d) a grant of maintenance to any member of such family charged on any immoveable property, shall not, where the property transferred or affected, as the case may be, by the surrender, release, arrangement or grant exceeds in value one hundred rupees, be effected otherwise than by a written and registered instrument.

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply to—

(a) any decree or order of a Court, or

(b) any award, or

(c) any instrument made by a Revenue Officer purporting or operating to effect a partition of any property of, or a separation among any of the members of, a Hindu undivided family, or

(d) any will.

Power to make rules for valuation of immoveable property

3. The Local Goaernment may, by notification in the local official Gazette, make rules to provide for the manner in which the value of immoveable property shall be determined for the purposes of section 2.

Amendment of section 17, Act XVI of 1908

4. In section 17 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), for sub-section (3) the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely :—

XVI of 1908.

"(3) The following documents shall also be registered, namely :—

(a) authorities to adopt a son executed after the 1st day of January, 1872, and not conferred by a will ;

(b) instruments which purport or operate to effect—

(i) any separation of interest by reason of which the members of a Hindu undivided family or any of them would cease to be undivided, or

(ii) a family arrangement among the members of any such family as to the mode of enjoyment of the family property, and to which the Hindu Family Transactions Act, 192 , applies ; and of 192

(c) instruments which acknowledge the receipt or payment of any consideration on account of any separation or family arrangement described in clause (b) ;

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to any decree or order of a Court, or any award, or to any instrument of partition made by a Revenue Officer."

Amendment of section 28, Act XVI of 1908.

5. In section 28 of the said Act, after the letters, word and brackets "(c) and (d)" the following shall be inserted, namely :—

"and sub-section (3), sub-clause (ii) of clause (b) and clause (c)."

Amendment of section 50, Act XVI of 1908.

6. In sub-section (1) of section 50 of the said Act, for the words and figures "of section 17, sub-section (1)" the following shall be substituted, namely :—

"of sub-section (1), and sub-clause (ii) of clause (b) and clause (c) of section (3) of section 17."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Bill gives effect to the following recommendations of the Civil Justice Committee :—

(1) that in the case of a joint Hindu family if the value of the immoveable property belonging to it exceeds Rs. 1,000—

(a) no separation of interest so as to make the members of the family or any of them cease to be undivided should be effected otherwise than by a registered instrument, whether any actual division of property be or be not made or agreed on in connection therewith ;

(b) no partition of the whole or any part of the immoveable property belonging to such family should be valid unless the same be made by registered instrument :

Exception from these requirements should be permitted in the case of any decree or order of a Court, and any instruments of partition made by a Revenue Officer ;

(2) that Local Governments should be empowered to prescribe rules for valuation for this purpose ; and

(3) that in the case of persons governed by the Hindu Law—

(i) surrenders by a widow,
(ii) release by a coparcener,
(iii) family settlements, and
(iv) grants for maintenance, should be effected only by a registered instrument, if immoveable property of the value of more than Rs. 100 is affected thereby.

When these transactions are not effected by registered instruments, they are dependent for proof on oral evidence which necessarily takes up considerable time of the Courts. The object of these recommendations is to place the transactions, as far as possible, beyond doubt, and thus to obviate delay in the disposal of suits by the Courts. The Local Governments and High Courts were consulted in the matter, and the Committee's proposals have met with considerable support.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Monthly Weather and Crop Report of Bengal for August 1926.

I. Character of the season.—During the month the rainfall was markedly in excess of the normal in the West Bengal districts; elsewhere the precipitation was below the average except in Darjeeling, Bakarganj and Chittagong. The usual rainfall statement is appended.

II. Progress of agricultural operations—Transplantation of winter paddy seedlings continued under favourable conditions and a good progress was made except in the water logged tracts of West Bengal. Cutting, steeping and washing of jute continued in full swing. Reaping of autumn paddy was approaching completion in North and East Bengal. A fair crop is anticipated.

III. State of standing crops.—Standing crops were thriving well except in Howrah, Hooghly and Midnapore, where excessive rain and flood caused damage in the low-lying tracts.

IV. Prospects and probable outturn.—The prospects of winter rice, sugarcane and other standing crops were reported to be fair, on the whole.

V. Damage to standing crops.—Due to late monsoon, jute semi-looper and hairy caterpillar appeared in the Deshi districts and Tosha jute districts (Rajshahi, Bogra and Pabna) and did considerable damage, but subsequently subsided. Considerable damage over wide areas by excessive rain and flood was also reported from Midnapore and parts of Hooghly and Howrah.

VI. Condition of agricultural stock.—Cattle-disease was prevalent in several districts. Rinderpest in an epidemic form continued in Khulna and Chittagong.

VII. Failure of pasturage and fodder.- Fodder was adequate except in the flooded tracts of West Bengal.

VIII. Prices of food-grains.—During the second fortnight of the month the price of common rice of the cheapest quality rose in eleven districts, fell in six and remained stationary in the rest of the province.

IX. Condition of agricultural population.—The condition of agricultural population was fair, on the whole.

I. The requirements of sections 68 to 75, 77 to 79, 87 and 88 of Chapter IV of the said Act shall be dispensed with and the following rules and conditions shall be observed :—

(1) The Association shall employ a local agent in each recruiting district or such larger area as may be prescribed by the local Government in which garden sardars are employed under its control for the purpose of representing the Association in all matters connected with the supervision of such sardars.

(2) Every local agent shall provide sufficient and proper accommodation in a suitable place for emigrants or intending emigrants engaged or assisted and their dependents, pending their removal to a labour district, and the provisions of clauses (2) to (4) of section 62 shall apply to such accommodation.

(3) Every local agent shall keep two registers in the forms contained in the appendix to this notification, the one containing the names and descriptions of all garden sardars working under his control, and the other the names and descriptions of all emigrants or intending emigrants engaged or assisted by such garden sardars, together with the names and descriptions of the dependents of all persons so engaged by the sardars. The said registers shall be open to inspection at any time by any Magistrate or any police officer above the rank of sub-inspector, before the emigrants or the intending emigrants are despatched to the labour district. The local agent shall submit to the District Magistrate a copy of the entries in the second register, with the certificate in the form prescribed for the register.

(4) Any local agent shall, if so required by a Magistrate or by a police officer above the rank of sub-inspector, produce before such Magistrate or police officer any person engaged or assisted by a garden sardar working under the local agent's control, or any dependent of any person so engaged or assisted who is in a place of accommodation provided under clause (2).

(5) Every local agent shall report for the orders of the Magistrate any case in which objection is made to the emigration of any person by any one claiming to stand in the relation of husband, wife, parent or lawful guardian of the emigrant or the intending emigrant.

(6) If so required by an order in writing of the District Magistrate, the local agent shall not, until after the lapse of three clear days, remove or allow to be removed from his district or area any woman who is to proceed to a labour district unaccompanied by her husband or lawful guardian.

(7) Every local agent shall satisfy himself that the names and addresses given by the garden sardars and by the persons engaged or assisted by them are correct and that the wages and other conditions of service are fully explained to, and understood by, the person so engaged or assisted.

(8) Every garden sardar shall be bound to give the local agent to whom he is accredited a true account of every person engaged or assisted by the garden sardars under him, and to correct any description of any such person given by that person which the sardar knows to be untrue or inaccurate.

(9) Every local agent shall be responsible for preventing to the best of his ability all misconduct on the part of the sardars accredited to him and for bringing all illegal acts committed by them to the notice of the District Magistrate.

(10) The license of any local agent who may be found not to have exercised due care in preventing misconduct on the part of the sardars accredited to him or to have failed to report any illegal act committed by any such sardar shall be liable to be cancelled by the District Magistrate of any district within which the local agent acts as such.

II. The provisions in Chapter IV regarding renewal of garden sardar's certificates are relaxed in the following manner :—

(a) An application under section 60, sub-section (1), may be made to the District Magistrate having jurisdiction over the recruiting district or area specified in the certificate, or to any other Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the District Magistrate, and the Magistrate to whom the application is so made may countersign a fresh certificate.

(b) In the case of fresh certificates countersigned under clause (a) the countersignature of the inspector or Magistrate of the labour district shall not be required.

(c) The countersignature under section 61 by the District Magistrate of the district in which the garden sardar is authorised to engage or assist emigrants is dispensed with.

III. The requirements of section 76 of the Act are relaxed to such an extent as to permit the adoption of the following rule :—

When emigrants who having completed their engagements in Assam and returned to their country present themselves to a local agent and express a wish to be returned to the places of their former employment, the local agent may send such emigrants to the labour district wherein they were engaged to labour in the company of an agency peon, should there be no garden sardar available for the purpose of accompanying them, provided that in all such cases the local agent shall certify on the copy of the register of persons engaged by garden sardars working under his control which is submitted every month to the District Officer, that the persons so forwarded are actually emigrants who, having completed their engagements in Assam, are desirous of returning to the places of their former employment.

IV. The orders in paragraphs I to III above are further subject to the condition that the provisions in the remaining sections of chapter IV of the Act shall apply to these garden sardars as if the words "persons engaged or assisted to emigrate" were substituted for "labourer".

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

RESOLUTION.

TARIFFS.

Simla, the 2nd October 1926.

No. 235-T. (14).—The present rate of duty on matches imported from abroad is Re. 1-8 per gross, which represents a duty of more than 100 per cent. ad valorem. The duty was raised to the above figure purely as a revenue measure, and the Government of India have consistently rejected requests from manufacturers in India that the duty should be declared a protective duty. Nevertheless, a high revenue duty naturally has a protective effect, and since 1922, when the present duty was imposed, numerous match factories have been established in India, some of them using indigenous woods, and others wood imported in the log from abroad. Concurrently there has been a progressive decline in the customs revenue derived from matches. This revenue amounted to Rs. 154 lakhs in 1922-23 and Rs. 138 lakhs in 1923-24, but in 1925-26 it amounted (inclusive of the revenue from splints and veneers) only to Rs. 118 lakhs. As the Indian factories overcome technical difficulties and attain their full production the decrease in customs revenue is likely to become more serious.

2. In these circumstances, the Government of India consider that the whole position requires investigation, and they have decided to entrust this task to the Tariff Board. The first point for enquiry is whether the three conditions laid down in paragraph 97 of the Report of the Indian Fiscal Commission are satisfied in the case of the match industry in India, and whether the industry should be protected. If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, the Tariff Board will report at what rate the import duty should be fixed in order to give the industry the protection it requires and whether alternative measures of protection could suitably be adopted. If the answer is in the negative, the Government of India theoretically will be free to lower the import duty on matches in the interests both of the consumer and their own revenue from this source. But the Tariff Board will report to what extent vested interests have been created in India as the result of the present rate of duty, how far those vested interests require consideration and what prospect there is of the match industry in India establishing itself, if the present rate of duty is maintained. If the Tariff Board decides that consideration must be paid to the industry brought into existence by the present rate of duty and that the duty should be maintained at the present figure, or approximately at the present figure, it will further report whether the loss of customs revenue can be made up in whole or in part by any other appropriate form of taxation of the industry. In this connection, the attention of the Board is drawn to the remarks of the Honourable Commerce Member on the 24th March 1924, in the Council of State. Generally the Tariff Board will investigate the whole question and make such recommendations as seem germane to the subject.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the above Resolution be communicated to all local Governments and Administrations, all Departments of the Government of India, the Director-General of Commercial Intelligence and Statistics, the Indian Trade Commissioner in London, and the Secretary, Tariff Board.

ORDERED also that it be published in the Gazette of India.

Secretary to the Government of India.

RESOLUTION.

ECCLESIASTICAL.

Simla, the 23rd October 1926.

No. 336/C. (2).—The following circular letter to certain Local Governments No. 336-C (2), dated the 15th October 1926, is published for general information :—

I am directed to refer to the correspondence ending with your letter No. 18, dated the 11th March 1924, No. 59, dated the 12th February 1924, No. 13118-A., dated the 29th November 1923, No. 194-L.-I. A. (Eccl.), dated the 4th March 1924, No. 1098, dated the 11th January 1924, No. 422-D-23, dated the 4th December 1923, No. 7012-2804-III, dated the 21st November 1923, regarding the Indian Church Measure. When this correspondence took place, the negotiations regarding the Measure were in a preliminary stage. It is true that the conception of the scheme dates back for many years. But it was not until 1922 that the Metropolitan was in a position formally to approach the Government of India. His proposals were embodied in a rough draft of the Measure, butt he Government of India did not subject that draft to any detailed examination. They contented themselves with expressing their general sympathy with the object in view, and they informed the Metropolitan that before they could recommend the proposals for the support of the Secretary of State for India, they must be satisfied that the Measure commended itself to the Anglican community of India as a whole. And their object in consulting local Governments was merely to obtain a preliminary and tentative expression of opinion on the principle of the proposals and the object with which they had been formulated. As the result of this action on the part of the Government of India, the Diocesan Councils were consulted during the course of the year 1923, and with two exceptions they pronounced themselves in favour of the draft Measure. The majority of local Governments also took a favourable view, though some criticism was directed against certain of the provisions, and the only two local Governments which found themselves unable to approve of the proposals, expressed their sympathy with the object in view. In these circumstances, the Government of India felt justified in subjecting the proposals to detailed examination, and the last two years have been occupied in negotiations regarding the draft Measure both in India and in England. As the result of these negotiations, certain provisional conclusions have been reached by the Secretary of State for India in Council and the Government of India on the one hand and the Bishops of Calcutta and Bombay as representing the Provincial Council of the Church on the other, and the Government of India now desire to have the views of the Government of . . . . on these conclusions. They are embodied in the documents forwarded with this letter as Appendices I, II and III. Appendix I is a statement of the principles which it is proposed to embody in a Bill to be presented to Parliament, Appendix II is a statement of the principles which it is proposed to embody in a measure to be introduced into the National Assembly of the Church of England, and Appendix III is a draft of the Rules which it is proposed to frame under the rule-making clause of the Bill, in the event of that Bill being accepted by Parliament. Certain details of the proposals contained in Appendix I and certain of the draft Rules are still under discussion. But the points at issue are not of major importance, and is thought that the documents forwarded with this lettar indicate sufficiently clearly the lines on which it is proposed to proceed and that they afford a suitable basis of discussion.

2. I am first to explain briefly what the general object of the proposed legislation is. It is to dissolve the legal union between the Church of England in India and the Church of England. The present position is that the Church of England in India is, in the eyes of the law, merely a part of the Church of England. It is bound by the ecclesiastical law of England; it can make no laws for itself; and it has no powers of self-government. Under section 115 of the Government of India Act, the Metropolitan is 'subject to the general superintendence and revision of the Archbishop of Canterbury,' and the Bishops of the more important Sees in India are appointed by the Crown on the advice of the Secretary of State for India. These arrangements for the government of the Church of England in India date back to the Acts of 1813 and 1833. Then the Church consisted almost entirely of British people temporarily resident in India, and was in actual fact the Church of England in India. Now the position has changed. British people temporarily resident in India form only a comparatively small proportion of the Church in India, and the existing régime is out of harmony with modern conditions. Moreover, it is full of legal anomalies and difficulties. Thus, while under the Government of India Act the Metropolitan is subject to the general superintendence and revision of the Archbishop of Canterbury, no machinery exists by which these powers of superintendence can be exercised, and they have not been exercised within living memory. It is claimed, therefore, that the Church in India should now be given the right to make its own laws, and that it is time that it should become an autonomous Church, no longer merely a part of the Church of England, but independent of, though in communion with, that Church. There is, moreover, a deeper and more fundamental reason for separation. The claim is made that it is entirely in harmony with the genius of the Church of England that the daughter Church, of India should develop into an autonomous Regional Church. For the Church of England has consistently maintained the principle that "local National Churches should exist within the Catholic Church, and should have power so to settle their own affairs as to give that expression to Catholic truth which is natural to their country and people". The Government of India recognise that these are legitimate aspirations, and they are confident that Local Governments will take the same view.

3. But the problem how to give effect to this object has proved to be one of great difficulty. The Government of India incur considerable expenditure in respect of the Church of England in India. They maintain an establishment of Chaplains, they make grants in aid of other Clergy, and they keep up places of worship. It is common ground that for a long time the Indian Church will not be able to dispense with assistance of this kind. Its resources will not enable it to do so. Nor again has it ever been the intention of the Government of India that the institution of an autonomous Indian Church should imply the discontinuance of this assistance. Ever since British rule began in India Chaplains and Churches have been maintained for the benefit primarily of British-born servants of the Crown who are members of the Church of England. It is true that in recent years the Government of India have felt it necessary to reduce the number of Chaplains and to restrict, as far as may be, their ecclesiastical expenditure. But this policy has no connection whatever with the Indian Church Measure, and it may be taken that as a matter of policy and long practice the Government of India will continue to appoint Chaplains belonging to the Church of England to minister primarily to British-born servants of the Crown in India and that they will continue to maintain a sufficient number of Churches. One of the main difficulties in the case, therefore, has been the problem how to graft on to legislation primarily intended to place the Church in India in an independent position provisions which will secure the continuance of the system whereby Chaplains belonging to the Church of England and paid by the Government of India will be sent out to minister in the Indian Church. The documents appended to this letter show how it is proposed to solve this problem. It will be seen that at the same time an attempt has been made also to solve another difficult problem, namely, how the interests of members of the Church of England resident in India in general and of the British army in India and British-born servants of the Crown who are members of that Church in particular can best be safeguarded. This is a consideration which throughout the negotiations has been prominently in the mind of the Government of India. For clearly a special responsibility lies on them in respect of British troops and British-born servants of the Crown in India. It is primarily for their benefit that Chaplains and Churches are and will continue to be, maintained. It is not impossible, however unlikely it may be, that the Indian Church may develop on lines that will prove uncongenial to them, and the Government of India have regarded it as their duty as well as their right to insist that this contingency, remote though it may be, should be provided for before they could agree to the institution of the legislation necessary for the constitution of an autonomous Indian Church. They desire to add that the difficulties to which allusion has just been made have also been recognised by the Metropolitan, and their acknowledgments are due to him, to the Bishop of Bombay and to the other Bishops for their cordial co-operation in the search for a satisfactory solution.

4. I am now to give a concise exposition of the legislation which is contemplated. It is proposed to proceed partly by means of an Indian Church Measure to be passed under the procedure provided by the Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act, 1919, and partly by means of a Bill which will be submitted to Parliament in the ordinary way. The Measure and the Bill will be complementary one to the other. The Measure will confine itself to the main ecclesiastical object in view, namely, the severance of the legal connection between the Church of England and the Church of England in India, and the conferment on the latter, under the name of the Indian Church, of the power to govern itself. The Bill will repeal sections 115, 117, 118, 119, 120 and 121 of the Government of India Act, and will deal with the relations between the Indian Church and the Government of India and with the property of the Church. It is not thought necessary to explain at length why it is proposed to legislate partly by means of a Measure and partly by means of a Bill. This is primarily a question of procedure, and it is perhaps sufficient to say that the Secretary of State in Council has decided in consultation with his legal advisers that the appropriate method is to proceed in the above way. Care of course will be taken to ensure that both enactments come simultaneously into practical effect, and with this object in view it is proposed that the date of severance, that is the date on which the legal connection between the Church of England and the Church of England in India will be dissolved, should be a day to be fixed by the Governor General in Council not less than two years and not more than three years after the coming into operation of the Measure and the Bill. Under the draft Measure, as from the date of severance, the Metropolitan will cease to be subject to the general superintendence and revision of the Archbishop of Canterbury; it will no longer be necessary to obtain a Royal Mandate for the consecration of a Bishop for a charge in India; and the Indian Church will have power to frame rules, in such manner as may seem appropriate for its own good government and for the general management of its property and affairs. The Bill is more complicated. For the purposes of this letter, the most important provisions are those numbered 4 and 5 in Appendix I read with the definitions of 'Maintained Church' and 'Chaplains,' but it is necessary first to deal briefly with certain legal consequences which will follow, as from the date of severance, from the passing of the Bill into law. As has already been mentioned, one of these legal consequences is that certain sections of the Government of India Act will be repealed, and the arrangements which it is proposed to make in respect of Church property are also important. Much of the property of the Church is now held by the Bishops and Archdeacons as corporations sole. These corporations sole will be dissolved, and it is proposed that with certain stated exceptions the property of the Church should be held either by Indian Church Trustees or by Diocesan Trust Associations registered either under the Societies Registration Act, 1860, or under the Indian Companies Act, 1913. The latter Act has recently been amended so as to enable Associations formed for religious purposes to be registered under section 26. It is also possible that as the result of the Bill passing into law, some existing trusts may fail, and accordingly provision* will be made in the Bill to enable new trust schemes to be settled. Some of the results of the repeal of sections 115 and 117 to 121 of the Government of India Act have already been mentioned, and it is necessary only to add that as soon as these sections are repealed, the Government of India will no longer be required by statute to pay the salaries of Bishops and Archdeacons of the Indian Church other than those in office on the date of severance. At the same time, the Bishops of the Indian Church will exercise episcopal supervision over Chaplains appointed by the Secretary of State, and the Archdeacons will also do much work for Government in respect of Maintained Churches and cemeteries, and there will be nothing to prevent the Government of India from making payment for such services. The Metropolitan indeed has already suggested that lump annual payments should be made to the Indian Church on this account, and the question is under separate consideration For the rest, the Bill will expressly authorise the continuance of the existing practice whereby the Government of India maintains an establishment of Chaplains, makes grants in aid of other Clergy, and keeps up places of public worship. It is not proposed to repeal sections 122 and 123 of the Government of India Act and the Bill, therefore, will not affect such expenditure as is now incurred in respect of the Church of Scotland and other Christian Churches. A passing reference may be made to the proposal numbered 3 in Appendix I. Doubts of a very technical character have been expressed whether sentences of consecration hitherto pronounced in respect of the Churches of the Church of England in India are valid, and it is proposed that the opportunity afforded by this Bill should be taken once and for all to remove these doubts.

5. I am now to revert to the important question of safeguards. The Government of India have already referred in general terms to the fears which have been expressed in certain quarters that the Indian Church, if placed in a position of independence of the Church of England, may develop on lines uncongenial to members of the Church of England resident in India. In so far as Articles of Faith are concerned, effective safeguards will be embodied in the Constitution of the Indian Church. A preliminary draft of this Constitution* has already been drawn up, and I am to forward a copy of it, as revised up to December 1924, for the information of the Government of................. Part I contains a series of Preliminary Declarations concerning the principles accepted by the Indian Church as governing its Constitution. The first of these Declarations formally accepts, on behalf of the Indian Church, the faith of the one Holy Catholic and Apostolic Church of which the Church of England is also a part, and the terms of this Declaration can be altered only in accordance with the procedure prescribed by Part (a) of Preliminary Declaration 19. It will be seen that a change can be made only with such deliberation and such general consent that the danger of any divergence from the faith of the Church of England is so remote as to be almost negligible. Nevertheless ex majore cautelâ provision has been made for the contingency in the draft Bill, and the Bill sets out the consequences that will ensue if at any future time the Archbishop of Canterbury should certify that the Indian Church has ceased to be in communion with the Church of England. In that event, the Government of India will be at liberty to resume all Maintained Churches whether consecrated or not, and the Church of England will be at liberty to re-enter India and resume possession of those Churches.

6. It is obvious, however, that this procedure can be adopted only in the event of what has been described as an ecclesiastical cataclysm, and the Government of India are aware that the apprehensions which are felt centre chiefly round what may be termed matters of practice. In particular, fears have been expressed lest members of the Church of England temporarily resident in India may be deprived of the use in Churches of the English Books of Common Prayer. Here again safeguards have been provided partly in the Bill and partly in the Constitution of the Church. It has already been explained, that one of the difficulties of the case has been now best to incorporate in legislation primarily intended to place the Indian Church in an independent position, provisions which will secure the continuance of the system whereby the Secretary of State sends out Chaplains to minister in India, and places of public worship are maintained at the public expense. This difficulty has been met by authorising the Secretary of State and the Government of India in the Bill to maintain Churches and to keep up an establishment of Chaplains. Churches so maintained will be called "Maintained Churches" and a list of such Churches will be shown in a schedule to the Bill. A clause in the Bill will also empower the Governor-General in Council, with the previous sanction of the Secretary of State and with the concurrence of the Bishop of Calcutta, to frame rules relating to these Churches and Chaplains, and it is proposed that such statutory safeguards as are thought to be necessary should be included in these rules. A preliminary draft of the rules has already been drawn up in consultation with the Bishops of Calcutta and Bombay and is reproduced in Appendix III to this letter. Special attention is invited to Rules 5, 10, 11 and 15. Under Rule 5 every "Chaplain (as defined in the Bill) will have the right to use the Book of Common Prayer whether he is ministering in a Maintained Church or elsewhere to a congregation which includes members of the Church of England temporarily resident in India. Rules 10 to 12 deal with the liability of Government to keep Maintained Churches in repair. They do not impose on the Government any liability beyond what it accepts at present, and Rule 11 provides a means whereby Churches which it is not desired to keep in repair at the cost of the State may be removed from the list of Maintained Churches. Under Rule 15, the Churches from time to time entered in the list of Maintained Churches shall be available for the services of the Church of England as contained in any Book of Common Prayer from time to time authorised in England. Thus the principal safeguards provided by the Bill will be that wherever there are Chaplains appointed by the Secretary of State or wherever there are Maintained Churches, the continuance of the services of the Church of England is secured by Statutory Rules. The list of Maintained Churches will include the great majority of Churches where members of the Church of England temporarily resident in India worship in any considerable numbers, and it is thought that the Rules should remove all reasonable apprehensions.

7. Before proceeding further, the Government of India desire to explain the form of the proposed rule-making clause. It is of course unusual that the law should require that rules framed by the Governor General in Council with the sanction of the Secretary of State must obtain the concurrence of a third party. Originally it was intended that the subject-matter of the Rules should be embodied in a statement of intentions which would have only moral, not legal, force, but it was eventually decided that the agreement which had already been arrived at with the Church should be embodied in Statutory Rules. On the other hand, the Bishops, while they were willing and indeed anxious to give all reasonable protection to British congregations, contended that the freedom to be given to the Indian Church should not be impaired by legislative restrictions imposed on it from outside. The form of the proposed clause, therefore, was decided on, after careful consideration, as the best way of reconciling these two conflicting considerations. The Bill itself is of so unusual a character that the precedent is not likely to prove incovenient, nor is the clause likely to prove inconvenient in practice. As has already been explained. a provisional agreement has already been reached as to the first draft of the rules to be issued under the clause, and the intention is that before the Bill is passed, the Rules will have been settled as a completed scheme. It is not expected that they will subsequently undergo any frequent or material changes.

8. Rule 25 deals with episcopal supervision. The Indian Church will provide episcopal supervision for Chaplains and episcopal ministrations for congregations worshipping in Maintained Churches. In this connection, however, Rule 26, which has been inserted with special reference to British troops in India, is important. Experience may show hereafter that other arrangements for the episcopal supervision of Chaplains ministering to the troops are desirable. For instance, it may be thought advisable that a Chaplain General with episcopal powers should be appointed or that a Bishop should be sent out from England as a Bishop of the Indian Church to exercise episcopal supervision over Chaplains ministering to the troops. Rule 26 accordingly provides that if the Bishop of Calcutta refuses to agree to an alteration of Rule 25 in this sense, the Archbishop of Canterbury, or failing him, some other person appointed either by him or by the Governor General in Council and the Bishop of Calcutta, may be called in as arbitrator.

9. Draft Rules 27 to 29 are intended to provide a remedy in the case of breaches of the Rules by the Indian Church. The main remedy provided is a reference to arbitration.in accordance with Rule 26. But in the very last resort Rule 29 provides that the Governor General in Council with the sanction of the Secretary of State may resume all Maintained Churches vested in the Crown. In that event the Rule states that 'such of them as are duly consecrated shall be held in trust for the purposes of the Church of England and shall be freed from any claim by the Indian Church or officials or members therefor'. The wording of this part of the Rule is still under consideration and may require alteration: as it stands at present, it is identical with that of clause 4 (3) of the Bill. At first sight it would appear, therefore, that the ultimate sanction for a breach of the Rules is precisely the same as that provided for a breach of communion between the Indian Church and the Church of England and that in the event of Rule 29 being put into operation the Church of England could re-enter India as a Church and take possession of the resumed Churches. But the Rules must be read in the light of the fundamental principle that the Church of England can re-enter India as a Church only if the Indian Church has ceased to be in communion with it. The practical result of putting Rule 29 into operation, therefore, would be that the Secretary of State would be able to introduce Army Chaplains into India, and these Chaplains would minister in military Maintained Churches. In the circumstances set up by the necessity of putting Rule 29 into operation, it would probably be also possible to arrange under Rule 26 for the special episcopal supervision of these Chaplains. As regards other Churches for which Army

Chaplains would not be available, the position would be more difficult. They would be withdrawn from the Indian Church, and would be held in trust for the purposes of the Church of England. But in view of the fundamental principle referred to above, it is doubtful whether the Archbishop of Canterbury would send out clergymen of the Church of England to minister in them.

10. This difficulty is inherent in the problem. If the Church of England can re-enter India as a Church only in the event of a breach of communion with the Church, clearly the ultimate sanction for a continued breach of the Rules by the Indian Church must be something short of re-entry by the Church of England. But the Government of India are satisfied that the continued breach of the Rules which Rule 29 contemplates is not in the least likely to occur. For the Indian Church will be bound to the Government of India by many ties, and there are many visible and invisible sanctions for the Rules. To begin with, Rule 29 itself is a considerable safeguard against any such continued breach of the Rules. For the Indian Church could not contemplate with equanimity the formal removal of many Churches in India from its control. The moral damage which it would sustain, if the Government of India were compelled to take this extreme step, would be very great. Moreover, the Church would forfeit all claim to financial assistance from Government, and in addition would alienate many of its most generous supporters. Moreover, apart from Rule 29, there are safeguards provided by the Church itself in its own Constitution. I am to refer in particular to Preliminary Declaration No. 15, to Canon I of Chapter XIII and to Canon II of Chapter XXI. One of the principles accepted by the Church as governing its constitution is that 'so long as it includes congregations of British-born people who desire the services and customs of the Church of their native land as well as others who in this country have always been accustomed to such services in the English language, it will provide that the worship in the Churches frequented by such congregations shall be, as nearly as circumstances permit, similar to that in use in the Church of England'. The Government of India understand that the Church is willing to make this Preliminary Declaration capable of alteration only by much the same procedure as that prescribed in Part (a) of Preliminary Declaration 19. Canon II of Chapter XXI again secures the use of the Book of Common Prayer in the English language not only in Maintained Churches but also in Churches 'where those congregations worship which consist wholly or predominantly of persons brought up in the Church of England or of other persons who are accustomed to the use of the Book of Common Prayer in the English language'. Finally, every Bishop before consecration will be required formally to declare his assent to the Preliminary Declarations and his willingness to be bound by the Canons and Rules of the Church. The cumulative effect of all these safeguards taken together is very great, and the Government of India are satisfied that the Rules and the Constitution of the Church between them provide every practicable safeguard against a contingency which in itself is exceedingly unlikely to occur.

11. Draft Rule 30 which provides that the Governor General in Council, with the sanction of the Secretary of State, may give five years' notice of his intention to terminate the arrangements embodied in the Rules, must also be read in the light of the observations made in the previous paragraphs. In the event of such notice being given, all military Maintained Churches may be resumed, and such Churches could then be manned by Chaplains of the Royal Army Chaplains Department. The Rule will operate in two ways. It will enable the Government of India to terminate the arrangements if they prove to be unsatisfactory, and further the mere fact that such power is reserved to the Government of India will facilitate the alteration of the Rules, if alteration is found to be necessary.

12. I am next to invite attention to the proposed clause 4 (4) of the Bill which excepts certain cathedrals from resumption of control. The clause is at present in a purely provisional form, and the arguments for and against its retention are evenly balanced. On the one hand, it might be said that as the great majority of persons attending services in these cathedrals are members of the Church of England temporarily resident in India, and since the cathedrals themselves have been regarded as embodying in a peculiar degree the connection with the Church of England, the sub-clause should be omitted from the Bill. Further, it must be remembered that this sub-clause will come into operation only in the event of a breach of communion between the Church of England and the Indian Church. If such a breach of communion occurs, therefore, it might be urged that these cathedrals should revert to the Church of England in India. On the other hand, it has been pointed that the loss of the cathedrals would constitute the most damaging blow to the prestige of the Indian Church. The practical importance of the sub-clause is small, since in the view of the Government of India it is most unlikely that it will ever be put into operation. At the same time, I am to ask for the opinion of the Government of......................whether the sub-clause should be omitted, or alternatively whether it should be retained with the addition of the word 'Calcutta'. If the cathedrals in Bombay, Nagpur and Madras are exempt from this resumption of control, it is not easy to see why the cathedral at Calcutta should not similarly be exempt.

13. There is one more point which ought to be mentioned. In paragraph 1 above the Government of India have said that in 1923 the draft Measure was approved by all Diocesan Councils except two. The proposals were again laid before the Diocesan Councils in 1925, and then they were approved by all Diocesan Councils without exception. They were also approved by practically the unanimous vote of the Provincial Council in January last, and it may be taken that the opinion of the Indian Church as expressed in the manner provided for by its constitution is solid in favour of the proposals. I am also to add that the proposals have received the approval and support of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

14. I am to apologise for the length of this letter. But in view of the extreme complexity of the case, the Government of India have thought it advisable to set out a full exposition of the proposals. I am now to ask that the Government of...................... will examine the documents forwarded with this letter in the right of these remarks, and will let the Government of India have their views as soon as possible. The Government of India would be very grateful if the Government of...... ....would make it convenient to send a reply with the least possible delay. If it is finally decided to proceed with the necessary legislation, it is very desirable that this should be secured from Parliament next year; and in this event the Secretary of State is anxious to have the matter before him in final form within the next 2 or 3 months.

(c) No appeal shall lie from the decision of the Court save by leave of the Judge of the Court, who shall grant such leave if he is satisfied that such appeal raises a substantial question of principle and not one of detail.

(d) Appeals from the decision of the Court shall be deemed for all purposes to be appeals from the Court sitting under section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, but no appeal shall lie to His Majesty in Council.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall affect the power of the Indian Legislature, with the previous approval of the Secretary of State for India in Council, to repeal or alter any of the provisions of this section.

Statement of principles to be embodied in a Measure to be introduced into the National Assembly of the Church of England.

Interpretation.

1. In this Measure—

The expression "Indian Church" means, in respect of the period before the date of severance, the Church of England in India, and on and after that date means the Church of England in India as severed from the Church of England notwithstanding the adoption by the said Church of any other name or names.

The expression "rule" includes canon, article, declaration, constitution and regulation.

The expression "the rules of the Indian Church" means the ecclesiastical law and the articles, canons, doctrines, rites, rules, discipline and ordinances of the Church of England in India existing at the date of the passing of this Measure with and subject to such modification or alteration, if any, as may after the passing of this Measure be duly made therein by the Indian Church.

The expression "Bishop of Calcutta" means the Bishop of Calcutta for the time being, whether called Bishop or Archbishop or by whatever name called.

The expression "General Council" means the body recognised as such by the Bishop of Calcutta.

The expression "date of severance" means such day not less than two years or more than three years after the coming into operation of this Measure as the Governor General of India in Council at the request of the General Council shall fix.

Dissolution of union between the Indian Church and the Church of England.

2. Upon the date of severance the union legally existing between the Indian Church or any part thereof and the Church of England shall be dissolved and—

(i) The enactment mentioned in the first column of the Schedule to this Measure shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the said Schedule.

(ii) The Metropolitan Bishop of the Indian Church shall cease in contemplation of law to be subject to the general superintendence and revision of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the obtaining of the Royal Mandate to consecrate shall not be necessary in the case of the consecration of a Bishop for a charge in India, nor shall the Bishops in Foreign Countries Act, 1841, apply to the consecration of any such Bishop, nor shall any Bishop of any Diocese in England have any jurisdiction over the Indian Church in India.

(iii) No ecclesiastical court or official of the Indian Church shall have or exercise any coercive jurisdiction.

(iv) No ecclesiastical law of the Indian Church shall cease to exist as law; and no proceeding by way of re-hearing or appeal from any decision, judgment, sentence, decree or other order of any ecclesiastical court or official of the Indian Church shall be entered, admitted, prosecuted, heard or determined in, by or before any of His Majesty's Courts of Justice in India or elsewhere, any Court of Commissioners Delegate in India or His Majesty in Council.

(v) The rules of the Indian Church shall be binding on the members thereof for the time being in the same manner as if they have mutually agreed to be so bound and shall be capable of being enforced in the temporal Courts in relation to any property lawfully held on behalf of the said Church or any members thereof in the same manner and to the same extent as if such property had been expressly assured upon trust to be held on behalf of persons who should be so bound.

As in the respects particularly in this section mentioned so in all other respects the Church of England and the Indian Church shall as from the date of severance be legally severed, separate and distinct and every law and custom shall, except as in this Measure expressly provided, be interpreted and applied accordingly.

Provisions for the constitution of the Indian Church.

3.—(i) From and after the coming into operation of this Measure nothing in any Act of Parliament, law or custom shall prevent the bishops, clergy and laity of the Indian Church from holding synods, councils or assemblies, or electing representatives thereto or from framing either by themselves or by their representatives elected in such manner as they think fit, rules for the general management and good government of the Indian Church and the property and affairs thereof, whether as a whole or according to provinces or dioceses or any other areas, and the future representation of members thereof in any general, provincial or diocesan synod, council or assembly or otherwise.

(ii) The General Council shall as from the coming into operation of this Measure have authority to make, amend, or repeals rules for the general management and good government of the Indian Church and the property and affairs thereof, and further to provide, as such General Council may think fit, for the future making, after the date of severance, of rules for the general management and good government of the Indian Church and the property and affairs thereof, whether in respect to the whole of the Indian Church or according to provinces or dioceses or other areas.

(iii) Any rule of the Indian Church made by any synod, council, assembly or officer thereof shall not after the date of severance be subject to any legal limitation in respect to scope or effect (whether arising from the operation of an Act of Parliament or otherwise) other than such as would apply to the like rule if made by a voluntary association altogether distinct from the Church of England which should have come into existence on the date of severance:

Provided always that nothing in this section shall be deemed to confer upon the General Council or enable it to confer upon any other person or body of persons any coercive jurisdiction without prejudice however to the operation of the law relating to obligations binding on persons who shall be deemed, in accordance with sub-section (v) of section 2 of this Measure, to have mutually agreed to be bound by any such rule.

Membership of the Indian Church, how proved.

4.—(1) If for any temporal purpose in connection with this Measure, or if in any proceedings in any temporal Court, it shall be necessary to determine whether any person is, or at any past date was, a member of the Indian Church or of any Church in communion therewith, a certificate under the hand of the Bishop of Calcutta stating that such person is or is not, or was or was not, on a named past date a member of the Indian Church or of a Church in communion therewith, shall conclusively determine the fact stated therein.

(2) A certificate purporting to be made and signed by the said Bishop shall be deemed to have been made and signed by him until the contrary be shown.

Recognition of General Council.

5.—(1) The recognition of the General Council as such by the Bishop of Calcutta shall be sufficiently proved for all purposes by an expression of that recognition in writing under the hand of such Bishop; and if any question at any future time shall arise as to whether any assembly was or was not the General Council for the purposes of this Measure, whether generally or on a particular occasion or at a particular time, such question shall be referred to the Bishop aforesaid and by him finally decided.

(2) (i) A document purporting to be a writing under this section and to be signed by the Bishop of Calcutta shall be deemed to be such and to have been made and signed by him until the contrary be shown.

(ii) No proceedings of the General Council in pursuance of this Measure shall be invalidated by any vacancy in the membership of that Council or by any defect in the qualification or election of any member thereof.

Saving rights of Bishops.

6. Nothing in this Measure or in any Act of Paliament shall prevent any person who is or has been Bishop of any diocese in India from performing episcopal functions, not extending to the exercise of jurisdiction, in any diocese or reputed diocese at the request of the Bishop thereof.

Date of coming into operation.

7. This Measure shall come into operation on a date to be fixed by His Majesty in Council being the date fixed for the coming into operation of the Indian Church Act, 192 .

DRAFT RULES.

(See paragraph 5 of Appendix I.)

Of Chaplains.

1. No Chaplain appointed by the Secretary of State in Council from among the Clergy of the Church of England or any Church in communion therewith shall minister in any Maintained Church in any diocease in India unless he has obtained and holds a licence to officiate (hereinafter called a licence) from the Bishop of the diocese concerned. Every such Chaplain as a condition of obtaining such license shall make the declarations required to be made by the Canons of the Indian Church before a licence is granted. Such licence when requested shall not be withheld except on account of the Chaplain's refusal to make any of the said declarations or for reasons for which under the law for the time being in force in England a Bishop of the Church of England may refuse to institute or admit a clergyman presented to a benefice in England (other than reasons concerning the transfer of the right of patronage). If any Bishop of the Indian Church withholds a licence for which request is made by a Chaplain either on first appointment as Chaplain or on transfer from one diocese to another, the Chaplain may appeal either to the Bishop of Calcutta or, if the Bishop of Calcutta is the bishop who has withheld the licence, to the Bishop of Madras or the Bishop of Bombay, whichever is senior by consecration. If any such appeal is allowed, the Bishop who has withheld the licence shall thereupon grant it. Provided that a Chaplain working in India at the date of severance and holding a licence from the Bishop of his diocese shall not be required to obtain a new licence unless and until he is transferred to another diocese.

2. Every Chaplain shall be under the episcopal supervision of the Bishop whose licence he holds, and his successors.

3. No Chaplain shall undertake any work other than that of ministering to His Majesty's troops and the servants of the Crown and their families if either the Bishop or the Governor General in Council objects to his undertaking such work.

4. Subject to the provisions of Rule 5, no Chaplain shall officiate as a minister of the Indian Church except in so far as he may be authorised so to officiate in accordance with the rules for the time being of the Indian Church; nor shall any Chaplain administer or perform any sacrament, rite, ceremony, solemnisation of marriage, service or religious ministration of any kind purporting to be a sacrament, rite, ceremony, solemnisation, service or religious ministration of the Indian Church except in conformity with the rules for the time being of that Church.

5. Every Chaplain shall have the right to use the services contained in any Book of Common Prayer from time to time authorised in England when ministering in a Maintained Church or elsewhere to a congregation which includes members of the Church of England temporarily resident in India and which worships in the English language, and no Chaplain shall, by reason of exercising this right, notwithstanding anything in the constitution, Canons or Rules of the Indian Church, be liable to any ecclesiastical penalty, censure or disability whatsoever, nor shall any authority of the Indian Church hinder any Chaplain in the exercise of such right.

6. Subject to the provisions of Rule 1, Chaplains shall be posted by such person or persons as the Governor General in Council after consultation with the Bishop of Calcutta shall appoint.

7. The Governor General in Council shall facilitate the attendance of Chaplains at Diocesan Councils when summoned by the Bishops.

8. Before commencing proceedings or allowing proceedings to be commenced against any Chaplain before any Ecclesiastical Court, the Diocesan Bishop concerned shall notify the Local Government concerned of his intention so to do, and shall give the fullest consideration to any representation on the subject that may within four weeks of such notification be made to him by the Local Government.

9. Before withdrawing the licence of any Chaplain the Diocesan Bishop concerned shall communicate in confidence in such way as he thinks fit with the head of the Local Government concerned, and shall, if desired, discuss his intention privately with such head.

Of Maintained Churches.

10. The Churches entered for the time being in the Second Schedule to the Indian Church Act shall be maintained and repaired at Government expense, provided that nothing in this rule shall impose any liability on Government to repair any Church when before the passing of the Act such Church was not repaired at Government expense.

11. The Governor General in Council may remove any Church from the list contained in the Second Schedule to the Indian Church Act by agreement with the Bishop of Calcutta or by twelve months' notice expiring with the end of a financial year, provided that such notice shall not be given unless he has notified his intention to do so to the Bishop of Calcutta and allowed him a reasonable opportunity of showing cause against such removal.

12. The Governor General in Council may with the concurrence of the Bishop of Calcutta add any Church to the list, transfer any Church from one subdivision of Part I of the list to another, or replace on the list any Church which has been removed in accordance with Rule 11, and such addition or replacement shall take effect from the beginning of a financial year.

13 The Governor General in Council shall, before the end of March in each year, send to the Bishop of Calcutta a correct list of Maintained Churches for the ensuing financial year.

14. If the Governor General in Council removes a Church from the list for the time being of Maintained Churches, such Church if at that time vested in the Crown shall vest in the Indian Church Trustees, provided that if the Governor General in Council shall so require, the Indian Church Trustees shall hold it upon the trusts following, namely :—

(1) Upon trust to permit the services of the Church of England as contained in any Book of Common Prayer from time to time authorised in England or any of them to be performed in that Church for any congregation which includes members of the Church of England domiciled in the British Isles, (a) if a majority of the members of the congregation so domiciled or a majority of the members of the congregation worshipping in that Church in the English language desire such services, and (b) if and so long as the congregation is willing to contribute an equitable sum to be determined by the Bishop of the Diocese towards the cost of such services and towards the maintenance and repair of the Church ;

(2) Upon trust to arrange for such services to be held at such times as are convenient to the congregation :

Provided further that if during a period of seven consecutive years, which period may include any period previous to the date of severance, no service has been held in any such Church, such Church shall be held freed and absolved from the trusts (if any) above specified.

15. Subject to the provisions of these Rules the Churches from time to time entered in the list of Maintained Churches shall be available for the services of the Church of England as contained in any Book of Common Prayer from time to time authorised in England.

16. The services mentioned in Rule 15, when performed in a Maintained Church, shall be performed in such manner and according to such rules and by such persons as may be agreed as being in accordance with the practice of the Church of England by the Governor General in Council and the Bishop of Calcutta, or, failing agreement, as may be determined by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

17. Subject to the provision of Rules 15 and 21, a form of service or a form of part of a service authorised in India but not in England may be used in a Maintained Church, if the Chaplain or Minister in Charge of that Church and the Church Committee desire it.

18. (1) Forms of service authorised by the Bishop of Calcutta or the Bishop of the Diocese either (i) for special occasions at the request or with the consent of the Government of India or any Local Government or (ii) for troops at the request of the Commander-in-Chief in India, may be used in Maintained Churches either in addition to the Church of England services or in substitution therefor.

(2) Special Collects for occasions or subjects peculiar to India may, on the appropriate occasions, be either substituted for prayers in the Church of England services or be added to those services.

19. Subject to the provisions of Rule 18, no service or part of a service which is not either contained in any Book of Common Prayer from time to time authorised in England or authorised by the Indian Church shall be used in a consecrated Maintained Church except when the Church is lent to some other Church or denomination.

20. No sacrament, rite, ceremony, solemnisation of marriage, service or religious ministration of any kind purporting to be a sacrament, rite, ceremony, solemnisation, service or religious ministration of the Indian Church shall be administered or performed in any Maintained Church except in conformity with the rules for the time being of the Indian Church.

21. The services of the Church of England shall, in every Maintained Church, have the first claim to the hours of service on every Sunday and Holy Day, and the times at which they shall be held shall be those most convenient to the congregation attending the Church of England services which are conducted in the English language in that Church. The hours shall be fixed by the Chaplain or Minister in Charge in consultation with the Church Committee, and, in the case of services for troops, the Officer commanding the station.

22. No congregation which at the date of severance had a customary right to worship in a Maintained Church shall be prevented from so doing.

23. The practice or practices followed by the Church of England in India with regard to the marriage of persons in Churches during the 20 years preceding the date of severance, including those relating to the marriage in Church of divorced persons and to marriages between persons within the prohibited degrees, shall continue to be followed in Maintained Churches unless and until they are modified by the Indian Church, but no person whose domicile is outside India shall be debarred by any rule made by the Indian Church from being married in a Maintained Church who would have been entitled to be married in such Church by the rules as followed before the date of severance.

24. The arrangements made for the loan of Churches which have been consecrated for the use of the Church of England which are in force at the date of severance shall be carried out by the Church in India unless varied by mutual consent of the Governor General in Council and the Bishop of Calcutta.

Of Episcopal Supervision and Ministrations.

25. The Indian Church shall provide episcopal supervision for Chaplains and episcopal ministrations for the congregations worshipping in Maintained Churches, and the Governor General in Council shall make such grants as he may think fit to the Church in consideration of such episcopal supervision and ministrations.

Alteration of Rules.

26. If the Bishop of Calcutta refuses to concur in an alteration of these rules proposed by the Governor General in Council, with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council, as regards the episcopal supervision of Chaplains ministering to troops, the Governor General in Council may, if he thinks fit, require the matter to be referred to arbitration of the Archbishop of Canterbury, or, if he be unwilling to act, some person appointed by him, or, if he fails to make such appointment, a person appointed by the Governor General in Council and the Bishop of Calcutta, and in the case of such reference the decision of the arbitrator shall be final.

Breaches of the Rules.

27.—(1) If it shall appear to a Local Government that any officer of the Indian Church has committed a breach of these rules, it shall report the same to the Bishop, who shall take such steps as he thinks fit to ensure their observance, and if a Local Government considers that a Bishop is permitting or himself taking action contrary to these rules, or has failed to ensure observance of the rules, the Local Government may request the Governor General in Council to bring the matter to the notice of the Bishop of Calcutta, who shall thereupon take such steps as he thinks fit to ensure the observance of the rules.

(2) In like manner the Governor General in Council may of his own motion bring any alleged breaches of the rules to the notice of the Bishop of Calcutta, who shall thereupon take such steps as he thinks fit to ensure their observance.

(3) The Governor General in Council, whether acting of his own motion or at the request of a Local Government, shall give the Bishop of Calcutta an opportunity of taking action with regard to such alleged breaches, before he proceeds to act under the next following rule.

28.—(i) If after bringing alleged breaches of these rules to the notice of the Bishop of Calcutta, the Governor General in Council shall be of opinion that such breaches continue to be committed, whether with the knowledge of the authorities of the Indian Church or through their default or neglect, or otherwise, or (ii) if he shall be of opinion that the Indian Church is so administered that the general intention of these rules is frustrated, and if, in either case, the Bishop of Calcutta differs from the opinion of the Governor General in Council, the matter or matters in question shall, with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council, be referred to arbitration in the manner provided by Rule 26, and the decision of the arbitrator shall be final.

29. If the arbitrator shall find that a breach of these rules has been and is being committed or that the Indian Church is so administered that the general intention of these rules is frustrated and that the default is such as to justify the Secretary of State in Council in terminating the arrangements with that Church embodied in these rules, then the Governor General in Council, with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council, after considering any suggestions of the arbitrator for remedying the default, may at his option either at once declare that all the Churches entered at that time in Part I of the Second Schedule to the Act shall at the expiration of twelve months from the date of the arbitrator's award vest in the Crown or such person or persons as the Governor General in Council may appoint for an absolute estate in possession, and such of them as are duly consecrated shall be held in trust for the purposes of the Church of England and shall be freed from any claim by the Indian Church or officials or members thereof, or give notice to the Bishop of Calcutta that unless action to remedy the default is taken to his satisfaction within twelve months from the date of his notice, the Churches shall, at a date to be fixed by him after the expiry of those twelve months, vest as above provided.

Special Provision for Termination of the Arrangements embodied in these Rules by the Secretary of State.

30. The Governor General in Council, with the sanction of the Secretary of State in Council, may at any time give five years' notice to the Bishop of Calcutta that he intends to terminate the arrangements embodied in these rules, and in that case the Churches included at the date of the notice in Part IA of the Second Schedule to the Act shall vest forthwith on the expiration of the notice in the manner and under the conditions prescribed in Rule 29.

Secretary to the Government of India.

In addition to the details required on the reverse, clear information should be given below under the followinp heads :—

(a) If the ordinary surplus is insufficient to meet the charge of the proposed loan, the particular steps which the Municipal Board has taken or has agreed to take to make good the deficiency.

(a) With a view to increase the income of water-rate fund the Municipal Commissioners resolved that water rate at 6 per cent. of the annual value of holdings be imposed on all holdings situated within a radius of 500 feet from the nearest stand-pipe or reservoir or other sources of municipal water-supply and at 5 per cent. (instead of 4 per cent. formerly imposed) of the annual value of those holdings situated beyond 500 feet but within a radius of 1,000 feet and at the rate of 3 per cent. of the annual value of those holdings situated beyond 1,000 feet but within a radius of 2,500 feet from the nearest stand-pipe or reservoir or other sources of municipal water-supply for which Government sanction has been obtained.

(b) Possible means of income in the revenue of the Municipal Board.

(b) The Municipal Commissioners are in contemplation to introduce tax on holdings in place of tax of persons now in vogue and thereby expects a substantial increase in their income from next year.

(c) A statement of all outstanding loans as well as the annual charges involved on their account.

(c) (1) Loan of Rs. 8,000 was taken on the 28th March 1906 and the full amount was paid up in March 1926 by 40 equal instalments at Rs. 292-7-1 per instalment.

(2) Loan of Rs. 5,000 was taken on the 2nd January 1912 out of which twenty-nine instalments at Rs. 182-12-5 were paid up to date leaving a balance of Rs. 1,789-0-10.

(d) Any explanation in regard to receipts and expenditure to show the true financial position of the Board when such is otherwise than the ordinary surplus would indicate.

(d) The major portion of the surplus now remains under head latrine fund. A sufficient surplus is now expected under water-rate fund after the completion of the scheme, as the fixation of radius from the nearest stand-pipe or reservoir or other sources of municipal water-supply for the imposition of water-rate has been extended from 1,000 feet to 2,500 feet as has been stated in paragraph (a). If this loan is granted there would be not difficulty in meeting the charges of repayment of loan out of the income from the water-rate fund.

Election Petition.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF INDIA, GOVERNMENT HOUSE, SIMLA.

Petitioner.

Pandit Santi Sekhareswar Roy, M.A., son of Raja Sasi Sekhareswar Roy Bahadur, post-office Tahirpur, district Rajshahi, Bengal.

Respondents.

1. The Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri, Teota, district Dacca. (Returned candidate.)
2. Rai Bahadur Keshab Chandra Banerjee, Walter Road, Dacca.
3. Mr. J. Choudhuri, Haripur, Pabna, at present 3, Hastings Street, Calcutta.
4. Raja Mahendra Ranjan Roy Choudhuri, Kakina, police-station Kotwali, post-office Kakina, district Rangpur.
5. Dr. Jatindra Nath Maitra, M B., Sukdebpur, post-office Khanganj, district Faridpur.
6. Mr. Indubhusan Dutt, Comilla. (Withdrawn.)

May it please your Excellency—

The humble petition of Santi Sekhareswar Roy, M.A., Tahirpur, district Rajshahi, a candidate in the bye-election for the East Bengal Non-Muhammadan Constituency for the Council of State held in July-August 1926, most respectfully sheweth :—

1. That the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri was declared duly elected as a member of the Council of State on the 16th August 1926, by the Returning Officer, the Commissioner of Dacca.

2. That the aforesaid Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri filed his return of election expenses on 17th September 1926.

3. That your Excellency's humble petitioner, a candidate in the bye-election, by this election petition calls in question the election of the returned candidate the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri and claims a declaration that your humble petitioner has been duly elected. A sum of one thousand rupees in cash is deposited herewith as security for the costs of the petition.

4. That the nomination of the returned candidate the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri was improperly accepted by the Returning Officer. The nomination paper of the aforesaid Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri was not duly completed in the form prescribed in Schedule III of the Council of State Electoral Rules. The following entry in his nomination paper in respect of the constituency on the electoral of which the aforesaid Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri is registered as an elector is incorrect : East Bengal Non-Muhammadan Constituency of the Council of State, Dacca district.

5. That the returned candidate the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri, though a member of the Indian Legislative Assembly at the time, published the following false statement of fact in relation to his candidature in his printed letter sent to the electors and which was also published in the Forward newspaper of Calcutta on the 7th July 1926, and other subsequent days : "During the last election, when the late Deshbandhu C. R. Das wanted somebody to keep a seat safe for him in the Legislative Assembly so that he might go there later on, I offered myself temporarily for the seat to which I was elected by the kindness of my constituents and I continued there only because Deshbandhu later on decided to go to the Bengal Council. So long as I was in the Assembly as a representative of the Rajshahi and Chittagong Divisions I looked after the interests of my constituency as best as I could, and it was somewhat due to my interpellations that the traffic surveys of the Pabna-Sadhuganj and the [illegible]-Dacca Railways were expedited." He has thereby committed a corrupt practice specified in Part I of Schedule V of the Council of State Electoral Rules.

6. That the Returning Officer improperly accepted the nomination of Rai Bahadur Keshab Chandra Banerjee.

The nomination papers of the aforesaid Rai Bahadur Keshab Chandra Banerjee were not correctly completed in the form prescribed in Schedule III of the Council of State Electoral Rules.

(a) The address of the candidate as stated in the nomination papers does not tally with the address printed in the electoral roll.

(b) In two of the nomination papers delivered to the Returning Officer on the 10th July 1926, a description of the subdivision of the electoral roll in which the name of the candidate, the proposer and the seconder is entered is not given.

(c) The third nomination paper delivered to the Returning Officer on the 16th July 1926 was signed by the proposer and the seconder on a date subsequent to the date on which the candidate Rai Bahadur Keshab Chandra Banerjee is said to have subscribed his assent to the nomination.

7. That your humble petitioner prays that on the grounds stated above the election of the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri may be declared void and that your humble petitioner to whom the largest number of votes has been given among the candidates validly nominated may be declared elected. And for this act of kindness your Excellency's humble petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray.

(Sd.) SANTI SEKARESWAR ROY.

The 22nd September 1926.

I, Santi Sekhareswar Roy, the above-named petitioner, do hereby verify that the statements contained in the above petition are true to my knowledge and information which I believe to be true, and I sign this verification at my residence at Kedarghat Benares City, on 22nd September 1926.

List under Rule 33 (2) of the Council of State Electoral Rules.

The returned candidate the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri, Teota, district Dacca, sent on or about the 7th July 1926, from 41 European Asylum Lane, Calcutta, a printed letter to the electors which contains the following false statement of fact in relation to his candidature. The letter was also published in the Forward newspaper of Calcutta, on the 7th July 1926, and other subsequent days :—

"During the last election, when the late Deshbandhu C. R. Das wanted somebody to keep a seat safe for him in the Legislative Assembly so that he might go there later on, I offered myself temporarily for the seat to which I was elected by the kindness of my constituents, and I continued there only because Deshbandhu later on decided to go to the Bengal Council. So long as I was in the Assembly as a representative of the Rajshahi and Chittagong Divisions I looked after the interests of my constituency as best as I could and it was somewhat due to my interpellations that the traffic surveys of the Pabna-Sadhuganj and the Aricha-Dacca Railways were expedited."

In the above statement the Hon'ble Mr. Kumar Sankar Roy Choudhuri used expressions signifying that he had ceased to be a member of the Legislative Assembly, though he was as the time a member of the Legislative Assembly representing the Chittagong-Rajshahi Divisions (Non-Muhammadan) Constituency.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Delhi, the 14th December 1926.

No. 459-26-G.—The following Interim Report of the Delegates of India to the Seventh Assembly of the League of Nations is published for general information :—

To the Right Honourable the EARL OF BIRKENHEAD, His Majesty's Secretary of State for India.

MY LORD,

We beg to submit our Interim Report on the Seventh Ordinary Session of the Assembly of the League of Nations held at Geneva from the 6th to 25th September, at which we had the honour to represent India. Following the precedent established by our predecessors at the Sixth Assembly, we have included in our Interim Report a brief account of the more important questions discussed at this year's Assembly, particularly those of special interest for India, and we propose to submit to Your Lordship a Final Report, with a fuller description of the work of the session, including the text of the Resolutions adopted by the Assembly and of certain reports and speeches.

The Indian Delegation and the British and Dominion Delegations.

2. The Indian Delegation this year was numerically stronger than any previously sent to the Assembly. No delegate except Sir Edward Chamier had previously attended a session of the Assembly. On the arrival from India of Khan Bahadur Shaikh Abdul Qadir and Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar, towards the end of August, a meeting of the delegation was held in London for a preliminary discussion of the Agenda and other documents distributed by the League, and of the method of dividing the work to be done at the Assembly between the members of the delegation. His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala, who was unable to be present at this meeting, had already agreed to undertake responsibility for certain subjects. When the delegation met at Geneva on the 5th September, a further meeting was held at which the arrangements provisionally made in London were confirmed, opportunity having been taken by all members of the delegation in the interval to study in detail the subjects assigned to them, with the instructions and memoranda prepared by the Government of India and the India Office for their guidance. On the same day we met our colleagues representing Great Britain and the Dominions at the Assembly at an informal meeting convened by Sir Austen Chamberlain

Subsequently, other meetings were arranged between individual members of the British Empire Delegations, as occasion required, for the exchange of views on subjects under discussion with which they were specially concerned. The experience and knowledge of procedure derived by the British Delegation from its association with the work of the Council of the League were at all times freely placed at the disposal of the Indian and Dominion Delegations. By means of these informal meetings we were able to learn in advance the views likely to be expressed by our British and Dominion colleagues on questions under discussion. It was thus possible, as a general rule, to establish a working agreement on matters affecting inter-Imperial relations, although no attempt was made to fetter the independent action of each delegation. A list of the members of each delegation will be found in our Final Report. The British Delegation, like our own, was composed of three representatives, viz., Sir Austen Chamberlain, Viscount Cecil and Sir Cecil Hurst, and three substitute representatives, the Earl of Onslow, the Right Hon'ble E. Hilton-Young and Dame Edith Lyttelton, but was also accompanied by a large number of experts. The Delegation of Australia was headed by Mr. Latham, Attorney-General of the Commonwealth; that of Canada by Senator Sir George Foster; that of New Zealand by Sir Francis Bell, Minister without portfolio and a former Prime Minister; that of South Africa by Mr. Smit, High Commissioner in London; and that of the Irish Free State by Mr. Desmond FitzGerald, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Organisation of the League of Nations, and Procedure of the Assembly.

3. We have reproduced in the Appendix to this Report the introductory paragraphs to the Interim Report of the Indian Delegation to the Sixth Assembly, which gave a brief account of the organisation of the League of Nations and of the procedure of the Assembly. It is important to realise that decisions of the Council and Assembly to be effective have to be unanimous. The decisions of the Assembly are therefore often the result of a compromise arrived at in private negotiations. Our Report is intended only to give an account of the public proceedings in which we participated. It would be impossible to describe in a short compass the various stages of negotiations carried on outside the Assembly and its Committees, in order to secure unanimous approval of the resolutions proposed for adoption.

Opening of the Seventh Session.

4. Proceedings at the Assembly were opened on the 6th September by M. Benes (Foreign Minister of Czecho-Slovakia), acting as President of the Council of the League. The credentials of the delegates were verified by a Committee on which His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala served. Forty-eight States were represented out of a total number of 55 States, Spain, Brazil and certain other South American States being absentees. In addition to Sir Austen Chamberlain and Mr. Desmond FitzGerald, the Foreign Ministers of Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Esthonia, Finland, France, Hungary, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Serbia, Sweden, Switzerland, Czecho-Slovakia and Uruguay were present. Besides Dame Edith Lyttelton, women representatives were sent by Australia, Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway, Roumania and Sweden. Most of the South American States, as well as Japan and other more distant countries, were represented by their diplomats accredited to various States in Europe.

5. M. Nintchitch, Foreign Minister of the Serb-Croat-Slovene Kingdom, was elected President of the Assembly by 42 votes. Like his predecessor at the Sixth Assembly, Senator Dandurand (Canada), M. Nintchitch set himself to conclude the business of the session in a period of three weeks. This object was achieved despite vigorous protests from Dr. Nansen and M. Hambro (delegates of Norway), supported by Viscount Cecil. The applause which greeted the remarks of these delegates indicated that they expressed the general opinion in holding that the time allowed for discussion of many difficult questions was insufficient, and that the methods adopted for expediting the procedure involved in some cases serious departures from the rules of business.

6. After the election of the President, six Vice-Presidents and a Committee to examine supplementary items of the Agenda were chosen. The items of the Agenda already circulated were adopted and assigned for discussion to six Committees, in which each delegation was invited to be represented. The six Chairmen elected by these Committees formed, with the President, the six Vice-Presidents and the Chairman of the Agenda Committee, the General Committee of the Assembly, by which the order of proceedings was regulated.

7. Most of the questions which appeared on the provisional Agenda, or were placed on the Agenda during the Assembly, were referred, in the first instance, for examination and report by the Committee to which their subject-matter related. For convenience of record, we have dealt with the action taken on these items, whether in the Committee itself or in the Assembly, and the part played by individual members of the Indian Delegation in the discussions, under the separate sections assigned to the work of each of the Committees in the Report. Detailed discussion of the various items was only possible in Committee, the report stage in the Assembly being curtailed, to save time, in most cases to the formal presentation of the reports and draft resolutions adopted by each Committee.

Admission of Germany to the League, and Composition of the Council.

8. These two questions outweighed in importance any others before the Seventh Assembly. In order that the connection between them and the proposals adopted by the Assembly in regard to the latter may be clearly understood, it is necessary to review briefly the history of each.

Application of Germany for Admission to the League.

9. The Security and Arbitration Agreements concluded in December 1925 between the Powers represented at the Locarno Conference were really dependent on the admission of Germany to the League of Nations. Germany had stipulated, and the other Powers had agreed, that if admitted to the League of Nations she should also become simultaneously a permanent member of the Council.

Germany's application for admission to the League was received in February 1926, and an Extraordinary Session of the Assembly was convened in March to consider the application. Just before the Assembly met it became known that Poland, Spain, Brazil and China also demanded permanent seats on the Council simultaneously with Germany's election. When the Assembly met it appointed a Committee, which unanimously recommended Germany's admission to the League. The Assembly, however, was unable to adopt this recommendation because the Council failed to reach a unanimous decision (as required by Article 5 of the Covenant) to make Germany an additional permanent Member subject to the approval of the majority of the Assembly. Eventually it was announced in the Assembly by the Representative of Brazil that he had been instructed by his Government to withhold his assent in the Council to the proposal to make Germany a permanent member of that Body, as his colleagues were unable to agree to recommend the simultaneous election of Brazil. The Assembly thereupon dissolved, and the Council immediately nominated a Committee, including representatives of the States Members of the Council, and in addition of the Argentine, China, Germany, Poland and Switzerland, to "make a thorough study of the problems connected with the composition of the Council and the number and election of its Members". Meantime the application of Germany for admission to the League was to stand over till the meeting of the Seventh Assembly.

Composition of the Council.

10. The composition of the Council is determined by Article 4 of the Covenant, the relevant portion of which is as follows:—"The Council shall consist of the Representatives of the principal Allied and Associated Powers" (i.e., the United States of America, the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, as specified in the preamble to the Treaty of Versailles), "together with Representatives of four other Members of the Assembly. These four Members of the League shall be selected by the Assembly in its discretion. Until the appointment of the Representatives of the four Members of the League first selected by the Assembly Representatives of Belgium, Brazil, Spain and Greece shall be Members of the Council.

"With the approval of the majority of the Assembly the Council may name additional Members of the Council whose Representatives shall always be Members of the Council. The Council, with like approval, may increase the number of Members of the League to be selected by the Assembly for representation on the Council."

11. In 1920 the First Assembly, at the first election of non-permanent Members, chose China in place of Greece, but confirmed the other original appointments. In 1922, the Third Assembly approved, on the proposal of the Council, the creation of two additional non-permanent seats, in order to make the non-permanent portion of the Council more fully representative. Sweden and Uruguay were elected to these seats. In the election of 1923 China was replaced by Czecho-Slovakia. In other respects the non-permanent Members of the Council, viz., Brazil, Spain, Uruguay, Belgium, Sweden, and Czecho-Slovakia, remained unchanged in the succeeding elections held in 1924 and 1925.

The Principle of Rotation.

12. The First Assembly (1920) discussed at some length the best method of securing fair representation of all States among the non-permanent Members of the Council. In particular it recommended that three seats should be accorded to Europe and America, and one seat to Asia and other parts of the world. The Second Assembly (1921) adopted an amendment of Article 4 of the Covenant, to insert, after the second paragraph (i.e., at the end of the extract above-quoted) the following paragraph:—"The Assembly shall fix, by a two-thirds majority, the rules dealing with the election of the non permanent Members of the Council, and particularly such regulations as relate to their term of office and the conditions of their re-eligibility." This Assembly also resolved that the non-permanent Members of the Council should in future be elected according to a system of rotation for a fixed period. Rules for this purpose were drafted by the Third and adopted by the Fourth Assembly. These Assemblies also recommended, and the Fifth and Sixth Assemblies have reiterated, that "it is desirable that the Assembly, in electing the six non-permanent Members of the Council, should make its choice with due consideration for the main geographical divisions of the world, the great ethical groups, the different religious traditions, the various types of civilisation, and the chief sources of wealth." The reiteration of this resolution at successive Assemblies was specially urged by the Chinese Delegation, China having forfeited in the election of 1923 the non-permanent seat previously held by her.

13. The amendment of Article 4, which would permit of the application of the Rules of Procedure adopted by the Fourth Assembly, required to be ratified by a majority of the Members of the Assembly and by all States Members of the Council before it could come into force. At the time of Germany's application for admission to the League it had not been ratified by Spain as a Member of the Council.

Claims to Additional Permanent Seats on the Council.

14. It will be seen that when Germany's application for admission to the League and Council was received, the question of the proper composition of the Council had already aroused considerable discussion in the Assembly. However, this discussion had been inconclusive pending ratification of the amendment of Article 4 of the Covenant. The Representatives of Spain and Brazil had also in 1921 put forward claims in the Council to permanent seats, but no action had been taken by the Council to further their desires. The privilege claimed for Spain and Brazil was, in fact, that of equal political status with the principal Allied and Associated Powers. By virtue, however, of re-election since 1920 to non-permanent seats on the Council, these States had so far exercised the same privileges as the existing permanent Members of the Council. Moreover, so long as Spain withheld her ratification of the amendment to Article 4, the application of the principle of rotation, which would necessarily have deprived States holding non-permanent seats of those rights, was prevented.

15. Germany's request for an additional permanent seat on the Council precipitated the question of meeting the political claims of Spain and Brazil, and thus provoked the crisis which occurred in March 1926. The application of China for a permanent seat, which was ultimately not pressed, was of a similar character. Poland, on the other hand, preferred her claim for a permanent seat on the Council on different grounds. The Polish Government, supported by Poland's allies, considered it necessary to obtain Poland's election to a permanent seat simultaneously with that of her neighbour, Germany, in order to complete the guarantee of territorial security concluded on her behalf at Locarno. It thus was possible that a solution acceptable to Poland would not necessarily satisfy Spain, Brazil and China.

Proposals of the Committee on the Composition of the Council.

16. The task set the Committee on the Composition of the Council was to devise a scheme satisfying the desire, expressed in successive Resolutions of the Assembly from 1920 onwards, to make the Council more fully representative of States Members of the League, and at the same time to solve the immediate crisis in such a way as to secure Germany's unopposed election to permanent membership of the Council simultaneously with her admission to the League. In framing regulations to govern the election of non-permanent Members, the Committee was at once confronted with the difficulty that the amendment to Article 4, which would enable those regulations to be enforced, had not yet been ratified by Spain. The Committee appears to have proceeded on the assumption that this, or a similar amendment, would ultimately be ratified, and in fact Spain notified her ratification of the amendment just before the opening of the Seventh Assembly. At its first meeting in May the Committee decided to avoid making recommendations which would involve further amendment of the Covenant. It produced an Interim Report dealing exclusively with the number of and method of election to non-permanent seats. Its proposals were, briefly, to increase the number of these seats from six to nine, each seat to be held for three years from the date of election, after which date the vacating Member would be ineligible for re-election for a period of three years unless the Assembly should decide otherwise by a two-thirds majority. Similarly, by a two-thirds majority, the Assembly might proceed to simultaneous re-election of all the non-permanent Members. As a transitional measure in 1926 the Committee proposed that nine Members should be elected to non-permanent seats as early as possible after the opening of the Seventh Assembly, three for three years, three for two, and three for one year. It was claimed on behalf of these proposals that the increase of the number of seats would enable more adequate expression to be given to the principle of geographical distribution, and it was suggested that three seats should be accorded to Members States of Latin America, and that adequate representation should also be given to Asia. The question of the increase or otherwise of permanent seats were left over for consideration at a later meeting.

17. The Committee met again in August and prepared a new draft of the regulations. The essential difference in the new draft was to provide specifically that, of the nine States Members elected in 1926, a maximum of three might immediately be declared "re-eligible" for election by a two-thirds majority of the Assembly.

18. On the 12th June the Brazilian Government had notified their decision that Brazil would withdraw from the League, and had therefore ceased to be represented on the Committee. The Committee rejected the claim of Spain to an additional permanent seat, and decided not to submit to the Council proposals involving the creation of any fresh permanent seats, save the one allotted to Germany. This decision was accepted by the Polish and Chinese Representatives. The Committee held that the provision now made for re-eligibility would "enable the Assembly to give satisfaction to the special claims of certain countries to representation for an extended period on the Council.

Action by the Council.

19. The Council adopted, on the 4th September, a Resolution approving the Report of the Committee, and decided, in accordance with Article 4 of the Covenant, to recommend to the Assembly—

(a) the appointment of Germany as a permanent Member of the Council on her entry to the League;
(b) the increase in the number of non-permanent seats from six to nine.

The proposals of the Committee as regards the method of election and tenure of the non-permanent seats were also recommended for favourable consideration by the Assembly.

20. On the 8th September the Spanish Government notified Spain's decision to withdraw from the League. The withdrawal of Spain and Brazil showed that the scheme proposed by the Committee had failed to satisfy the claims of those countries to be treated equally with Germany as entitled to the privileged status of Great Powers. On the other hand, with the provision for re-eligibility the claims of Poland and her supporters were sufficiently met, as these provisions gave Poland a chance of securing a quasi-permanent tenure of a non-permanent seat on the Council.

Action by the Seventh Assembly.

21. On the 8th September, i.e., as soon as the formal business was concluded, the General Committee of the Assembly proposed that the Assembly should consider, without reference to a Committee,—

(1) the Report of the First Committee of the Extraordinary Assembly recommending Germany's admission to the League of Nations:
(2) the Resolution of the Council on 4th September, referred to above, deciding—

(a) the nomination of Germany as a permanent Member of the Council;
(b) the increase to nine of the number of non-permanent seats on the Council.

It was also proposed by the General Committee that the draft scheme for the method of election and tenure of the non-permanent seats should be referred for consideration by the First Committee of the Assembly (Legal and Constitutional questions), with the request that their report on the subject might be presented at the earliest possible date.

22. At the first meeting of the First Committee, M. Motta (Switzerland), who had been designated by the General Committee to present its proposals to the Assembly, explained briefly, on election as Chairman of the Committee, the reasons for the General Committee's proposals. In the ordinary course, the admission of Germany to the League and the attribution to her of a permanent seat on the Council, as well as the proposed increase from six to nine of the number of non-permanent Members, would have been referred for full consideration in Committee before being brought before the Assembly. However, the request of Germany for admission to the League had been thoroughly examined and favourably reported on by the Special Assembly in March, while it had only been possible to obtain unanimity in the Council for the attribution of a permanent seat to Germany on condition that it was connected with the increase of the number of non-permanent seats from six to nine.

23. In the Assembly, M. Motta, while admitting that the desirability of attributing permanent seats on the Council to any Power was an open question, argued that so long as such permanent seats existed there was no question as to the right of Germany, on admission to the League, to one of them. To the increase of non-permanent seats he admitted two objections :—

(a) That the powers of the Council, vis-a-vis the Assembly, might be held to be increased thereby;
(b) That its activity as an executive body might be impeded.

On the other hand, he claimed that the proposal would fulfil the wishes of the Assembly to give more adequate representation to Latin America and Asia. It was, moreover, necessary to combine with the principle of rotation the political claims of certain States for a longer tenure of their seats on the Council. The proposals before the Assembly were meant to be a solution of the serious crisis in which the League had been involved. Primum vivere deinde philosophari.

24. The arguments of M. Motta were not seriously challenged. M. Loudon (Netherlands) maintained that there was no connection between a permanent seat for Germany and the increase of the non-permanent seats. The connection claimed by the Council was apparently intended to force the hands of the Assembly, but he admitted that the Assembly must accept the decision in the form in which it was presented. He wished it to be remembered that the Netherlands had objected to the increase in the number of non-permanent Members decided in 1922, and still objected to the further increase. Dr. Nansen (Norway) argued that it was unconstitutional for the Council to decide to give Germany a permanent seat before her admission to the League had been voted. He also objected to a decision being taken on the connection between the increase in the number of non-permanent seats and the attribution of a permanent seat to Germany while 15 only out of 55 States had had an opportunity of discussing the question. Similar arguments were used by the Representative of Denmark. The Assembly, however, decided unanimously to take into consideration the admission of Germany and the joint proposals of a permanent seat for Germany and the increase of the non-permanent seats from six to nine in the form proposed by the General Committee, and these proposals were voted unanimously. The decision to admit Germany to the League was enthusiastically received.

Admission of Germany.

25. A separate meeting of the Assembly was held, on the 10th September, to welcome the German delegates. After a short speech of welcome by the President, Herr Stresemann (Foreign Minister of Germany) made an impressive speech on Germany's attitude towards the League. After first calling attention to the economic necessities of the world, he claimed that still more important was the moral reconstruction which the League was designed to carry out. It was necessary to develop in each nation, without any surrender of its individuality, moral and intellectual ideals which might overstep the national boundaries and serve the whole of mankind. The political outcome of these ideals was a moral obligation on the part of all countries to devote their efforts to peaceful co-operation. For the moment he held that the greatest tasks before the League were the development of an international legal order through the Permanent Court of International Justice, and the prosecution of general disarmament. Germany had also to bear in mind that the League was the creation of the Treaty of Versailles, and hoped that by her co-operation in the League the settlement of questions arising out of this Treaty would be rendered easier. M. Briand (Foreign Minister of France) replied to M. Stresemann in an eloquent impromptu speech. Germany's admission to the League meant the end of the historic methods of adjusting differences between those countries. Instead of the methods of war she would now use the methods of conciliation, arbitration and peace. But he pointed out that delegates might come to Geneva in two different spirits, viz., the objective spirit and the fighting spirit. If delegates who came to win prestige were egged on by the Press and public of their countries in the latter spirit, they would not achieve the object for which the League existed. Every country was obliged to make some sacrifice in order to secure agreement.

The welcome accorded by the Assembly to the German Delegation was genuine and spontaneous. It was generally felt that if nothing else were achieved at this session, at least it marked the end of a period of strain and anxiety and brought the hope of making the League world-wide appreciably nearer realisation.

Adoption of the Rules for Election of Non-permanent Members.

26. The first Committee, charged with the examination of the proposals of the Committee on the Composition of the Council for regulating the election and tenure of non-permanent Members, appointed a Sub-Committee after a short discussion to draw up a text of regulations for embodiment in the Rules of Procedure of the Assembly. These draft regulations were afterwards carefully reviewed by the First Committee and finally adopted with minor amendments, which it would be tedious to describe here. On the 15th September the Assembly met to consider the report of the First Committee. The rapporteur, M. Motta, emphasised that the work of the First Committee had been done carefully and at leisure, in circumstances which guaranteed the full liberty and dignity of the Assembly, and had resulted in a considerable improvement of the original scheme, though its main lines had been substantially preserved. The rules provided for a maximum of three States being declared re-eligible, but at the same time for complete renewal of the non-permanent portion of the Council at any election if the Assembly decided by a majority of two-thirds to exercise this right. For the election of 1926, which would cover not one-third but the whole of the non-permanent Members of the Council, it was necessary to nominate three States for a period of three years, three for a period of two years, and three for a period of one year. The declaration in regard to re-eligibility would this year follow the election, instead of, as in normal circumstances, preceding it. It would be necessary for a State which desired to be declared re-eligible to claim that privilege itself. Finally, M. Motta again reminded the Assembly that the scheme was intended to give a larger representation to Latin America and a more adequate representation of the Asiatic Continent. The delegates of Persia and of China had insisted at the First Committee that Asia and Africa should this year receive two non-permanent seats. While presenting this request with some reserve, he urged that neither in this year nor in future years was it possible to forget the immense population of the Asiatic Continent.

27. Sir George Foster (Canada), while commending the proposals of the First Committee, deprecated the Assembly binding itself at any particular moment to adopt a rigid geographical system of distribution. He reminded the Assembly that, though many communal and racial associations had been recognised in the League during the past six years, little had so far been heard of the Members of the League of Nations which comprised the Overseas Dominions and Possessions of the British Empire. These States Members were all on a basis of absolute equality, but had hitherto made no claim for precedence of any kind. This year he understood that the Irish Free State had declared itself a candidate for a non-permanent seat. Canada did not lay claim to a seat, but considered it pertinent to point out that she had equal rights to representation on the Council with the other Members of the League.

28. Mr. Desmond FitzGerald (Irish Free State) declared that he could not agree in principle to the proposals before the Assembly. To begin with, a Council of 14 was too large. Secondly, the provision debarring States in normal course from re-election after completion of their term of office, though possibly fair in practice, actually deprived the Assembly from exercising its free choice in electing representatives. Again, he did not agree with any principle of geographical distribution or election by groups, since the establishment of any kind of prescriptive right to a seat tended to limit the free choice of the Assembly. The power of election of representatives on the Council was the chief right enjoyed by the Assembly, which it was undesirable to curtail.

29. M. de Brouckère (Belgium) endeavoured to defend the proposals on the ground that they did in fact tend to secure a more representative Council than hitherto. He considered that the Assembly's liberty of choice so long as it was unorganised would be dangerous, and that the past absence of organisation had been the main cause of the Assembly's failure to execute its will. Finally, he claimed that re-eligibility was not necessarily contrary to democratic interests, for the mandate exercised by a State which had been declared re-eligible was not to be exercised in the interests of the mandatory alone, but in that of the whole League.

30. M. Chao-Hasin Chu (China) pressed China's claim to one of the non-permanent seats to be held for three years. The Assembly then adopted the articles regulating the election of the nine non-permanent Members, the text of which will be reproduced in our Final Report.

Election of Non-permanent Members of the Council.

31. The election under the new rules of the nine non-permanent Members was held on 16th September. Under the rules it was necessary that each State should obtain an absolute majority. The following eight States obtained an absolute majority and were declared elected on the first ballot:—Columbia, Poland, Chile, Salvador, Belgium, Roumania, the Netherlands, China. A supplementary ballot was taken for the election of the ninth non-permanent Member, as a result of which Czecho-Slovakia was elected. Persia had received the next largest number of votes, namely, 20, and the Irish Free State 10 in the first ballot. In the supplementary ballot, however, the next largest number of votes was cast for Finland.

At this stage in the proceedings a declaration was made by the Delegation of Uruguay to the effect that it was unable to recognise the adoption by the States of Latin America present in Geneva of a group of candidates for the election of non-permanent Members which could not be considered to be fully representative of Latin America as a whole, and that Uruguay had not, in consequence, maintained its candidature.

At a second ballot, the following States were nominated to serve for a period of three years:—Poland, Chile, Roumania. At the third ballot the following States were nominated to serve for two years:—Columbia, the Netherlands, China. The remaining States, Belgium, Salvador, Czecho-Slovakia, will serve for one year only.

32. A request having been received from Poland that she should be declared re-eligible, a vote on this application was taken by roll call, as a result of which 36 out of 48 States voted in favour of declaring Poland re-eligible, the necessary majority being two-thirds.

General Observations.

33. It would be inappropriate for the Indian Delegation to comment on the results of these elections further than to express the hope that the immediate crisis produced by Germany's application for a permanent seat on the Council has been satisfactorily overcome thereby. The past history of the question of the composition of the Council seems to indicate that further changes may occur before it can be regarded as finally settled. In our opinion it would have been desirable had Persia, rather than China, on this occasion secured election as a non-permanent Member, seeing that there is no direct representation of the Muhammadan world in the Council as at present composed, and that China is heavily in arrears in payment of her contribution to the League. In the course of the general debate on the work of the Council several speakers attributed the difficulties which had occurred to the undemocratic system permitting certain Great Powers to enjoy permanent seats on the Council, and M. Motta himself admitted that an occasion might occur hereafter to reconsider this system. M. Hambro (Norway) proposed, and the Assembly ultimately on the recommendation of the First Committee, to which the proposal was referred, agreed, that the systems of the single transferable vote and of proportional representation should be studied in regard to future elections of non-permanent Members. The adoption of these systems had been suggested by Lord Cecil in the course of the discussions of the Committee on the Composition of the Council. It is claimed that by their means a more equitable distribution of seats between States Members of the Assembly would be secured. As no definite proposals were placed before the Assembly, it is impossible to forecast how these systems would operate in the elections, but the results of the study which the Secretariat is being requested to make will be available before the next Assembly.

34. The above account is a long one and somewhat out of proportion to the rest of our Interim Report. But we felt that it was impossible to give a clear explanation in a shorter compass of the important decisions, coincident with the admission of Germany, which the Assembly approved. Their effect on the future life of the League is bound to be very great.

General Debate on the Work of the League during the past year.

35. The general debate on the work of the League ordinarily opens immediately after the formal business of the Assembly at the beginning of the session is concluded. This year, owing to the exigencies of the procedure connected with the admission of Germany and the composition of the Council, the course of the debate, which began on the 8th and ended on the 14th September, was frequently interrupted and no one subject took chief place in it. M. Benes in his speech at the opening of the Assembly reviewed briefly the chief achievements of the League during the past year. He mentioned the decision of Council in the Mosul frontier dispute between Great Britain and Turkey, and the successful intervention of the Council in the Greco-Bulgarian frontier dispute. He referred to the work of the League Preparatory Commissions for the Disarmament and Economic Conferences, on which the subsequent decisions of the Assembly will be mentioned later in this Report. Speaking of the agreements concluded at Locarno, he showed that they had been conceived in the spirit animating the decisions of the League of Nations at the Fifth and Sixth Assemblies, and that they embodied the principles of conciliation and arbitration and recognised the authority of the International Court of Justice and Council of the League.

In one matter he pointed out that the record of the League in the past year had not been satisfactory. Little progress had been made in the ratification of a number of technical Conventions concluded at Geneva on economic, transit, health, opium and other questions.

36. The Maharaja of Kapurthala intervened early in the debate in a speech which will be reproduced in our Final Report. He reminded the Assembly of the important part played by the Indian Ruling Princes in the administration of India, two-fifths of which was ruled independently by them under the suzerainty and protection of the King-Emperor, and expressed gratification at being included among the representatives of India at the Assembly where, as a Ruling Prince, he could speak as a practical administrator. India was awakening to a spirit of nationalism, and, with its own traditions and ideals and the friendly guidance and assistance of the British Government, he sincerely hoped it would one day, not in the far distant future, become a united nation and self-governing country like the British Dominions. Although geographically far removed from the headquarters of the League's activities, India had had some share in the work of reconstruction undertaken by it. Among prominent Indians associated in the work of League Commissions were Sir Jagadis Bose, of the Committee for Intellectual Co-operation; Sir Muhammad Rafique, of the Committee for the Codification of International Law; and Sir Atul Chatterjee, of the Preparatory Committee for the Economic Conference. In the international work in labour and social questions India had a more direct interest, and had been represented on the Governing Body of the Labour Organization since 1923, as well as on many special conferences. He showed by statistics that India's record in regard to the ratification of Conventions concluded at these conferences is most creditable. Many legislative and administrative measures had been enacted in India in execution of the agreements signed on her behalf, including important amendments of the Indian Penal Code to protect the community more effectively against sexual crime. He reminded the Assembly that, among other administrative changes, in pursuit of the progressive restriction of the cultivation, internal consumption and export of opium, India had decided to reduce its exports of opium by a fixed annual proportion during the next 10 years, with a view to their ultimate extinction within the period save for medical and scientific purposes. He spoke of India's co-operation in the work of the Epidemiological Bureau at Singapore and research into the causes of the diseases specially menacing the East, and mentioned recent progress in social legislation and in education in Indian States, including that of Kapurthala. He reminded the Assembly that India is a country with its own ancient civilization and traditions, deeply religious, and in many respects conservative, to which many of the theories and principles which have emerged from the rapid industrial, social and political developments during the last 100 years in Europe are entirely foreign. Nevertheless, India had accepted and carried out the greater part of the reforms in domestic and industrial life recommended from Geneva. If the influence of the League was to be universal, as intended by the authors of the Covenant, the policies adopted at Geneva must be truly international, taking account of the differences existing in mankind due to climate and traditions, and must be conceived in a form applicable, with allowances for those differences and with equally beneficial results, in all parts of the world. He asked the Assembly to consider what practical demonstration could be made to the peoples of India that their interests were appreciated and considered at Geneva as of equal importance to those of the West. He suggested one direction in which the sympathy of the West would be highly valued by all eastern peoples, namely, the prevention of epidemic disease. The Indian Delegation would refer in greater detail in the Committee discussions to the methods in which they considered that the work could be promoted.

37. The Maharaja's speech was sympathetically received. It will be seen from our record of the discussion in the Second Committee (Technical Organisations) that his appeal was followed up by Sir Ramaswami Ayyar in asking financial support for the Singapore Bureau, and that the Assembly approved the principle of making the work of this Bureau dependent on the budget of the League.

38. Viscount Cecil took up the point raised by M. Benes as regards the failure of many Member States to ratify Conventions concluded, and in many cases signed by their representatives, at Geneva. He pointed out that the commercial world was anxiously awaiting the early ratification and bringing into force of Conventions concluded on transit and communications trade in opium, and arbitration in commercial disputes. Eight commercial Conventions signed on behalf of 55 States at Geneva had been ratified only by 23. The Opium Convention, signed by 34 States, had been ratified only by six States, all of the British Empire. Lord Cecil originally proposed that the Council should appoint a Committee to consider how ratification of Conventions could be expedited. The matter was further discussed in the Sixth Committee (Political Questions), and on the recommendation of a Sub-Committee representing the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, a resolution was adopted and approved by the Assembly calling the attention of the Government and States Members of the League to the necessity for taking all measures in their power to facilitate and expedite the ratification in all cases of Conventions and agreements signed in their name. The Council of the League was invited to call for a report every six months on the progress of ratification and to consider methods for securing the more rapid bringing into force of these agreements and Conventions. It is sincerely to be hoped that the attention paid by the Assembly to this matter will be effective in stimulating other Governments to follow the good example which has been set by Great Britain and India.

39. Another important question raised in Lord Cecil's speech was that of the proper sphere of activity of the League. He mentioned various subjects under consideration, such as disarmament, slavery, health in which the League was undoubtedly competent under the terms of the Covenant, but instanced certain proposals of the League Committee on Child Welfare which he did not consider of international significance. He pointed out the dangers of spreading too widely the activities of the League, in that it might thus be diverted from its task of promoting peace, and also tend to infringe national sovereignty. We mention in our record of the discussions in the First Committee (Legal and Constitutional questions) the result of Lord Cecil's criticisms.

40. Mr. Latham (Australia) expressed the apprehensions felt in his country as to the scope and composition of the proposed Economic Conference. He considered that a Conference of Experts not appointed as the delegates of Governments might introduce discussion on matters interfering with the domestic sovereignty of the States Members. He instanced the subjects of tariffs, bounties, preference and migration, consideration of all of which appeared to be contemplated at the conference. The continuation of the discussion on this question will be found in the record of the work of the Second Committee (Technical Organisations) in our Report.

41. Count Moltke (Denmark), speaking early in the debate, had drawn attention to the recently concluded Danish-Dutch Arbitration Treaty, which provided for compulsory arbitration in all cases of disputes, and had mentioned the negotiations in progress between his country and Poland, Scandinavia, France and Germany for the conclusion of agreements involving compulsory arbitration on points of dispute. Mr. Latham (Australia), apparently with this declaration in mind, made some criticisms of the arbitration procedure. He said that the task of an arbitrator was to ascertain facts and enforce rights derived from an authority outside the procedure of arbitration. It was far more important to elaborate and strengthen the authority of international law. Where an arbitrator, instead of applying principles of law derived from another source than himself, was left to act according to his own view of the case, he tended to make the law himself. It had been found in Australia that a body set up to determine industrial disputes without any rules as to the law according to which they were to be determined was likely to create disputes rather than to settle them.

42. At the end of the debate the President read out a declaration received from the Delegations of England, Poland and Sweden, urging the importance of the study of alcoholism by the League in connection with the protection of women and children, the administration of mandated territories and prevention of smuggling. Resolutions passed by various international congresses were quoted in the declaration, and the Council was invited to study the problem. On the proposal of the Agenda Committee of the Assembly it was decided to adjourn this subject for consideration at the next session of the Assembly.

43. The above appeared to the delegation to be the most important of the subjects discussed in the general debate. We now turn to the discussion of those subjects which were remitted by the Assembly for preliminary consideration in the Six Committees.

Work of the Six Committees.

44. In accordance with precedent the following Six Committees were appointed, to which the members of the delegation were assigned as shown below :—

COMMITTEE I.

Legal and Constitutional Questions.

President: Monsieur Motta (Switzerland); Representatives of Indian Delegation: Sir Edward Chamier, Sir Basanta Mullick.

45. For the method of procedure in Committees we would refer to the description in the Appendix to this Report. In the brief account of the work of the Committees which follows we have not attempted to include all the subjects discussed. We have also grouped together under each heading the discussion in Committee and the decision ultimately reached in the Assembly. Our Final Report will contain the text of all the resolutions passed by the Assembly and of most of the reports of the Committees by which they were proposed, and also the text of the more important speeches delivered by members of the Indian Delegation on these subjects.

COMMITTEES I and III.—Legal and Constitutional Questions and Reduction of Armaments.

ELECTION OF NON-PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL.

47. We have already dealt with this question and with the proposal to introduce a system of proportional representation. Further remarks on these subjects must be reserved for our general Report.

LIMITS OF THE SPHERE OF ACTION OF THE LEAGUE.

47. The Assembly referred to the First Committee a proposal put forward by Lord Cecil (British Empire) that the Council should be requested to appoint a Committee to consider and report what questions are and what are not within the sphere of action of the League within the meaning of the Preamble to and Articles 3 and 4 of the Covenant, especially with reference to the questions which are now being dealt with by the organs of the League or are proposed to be so dealt with. Lord Cecil explained in the Assembly that the British Government had no desire to restrict or diminish the legitimate activities of the League, but it was felt in some quarters that there was a tendency, which should be checked, to encourage the League to take up subjects which were foreign to the purpose for which the League was founded, namely, to secure international co-operation making for the peace of the world. Lord Cecil's proposal met with determined opposition in the Committee. The British Delegation announced that they would be content with a statement by the Committee of the principles governing the competence and activities of the League, and they circulated to the members of the Committee a memorandum embodying their views on the subject. After a lengthy discussion, the Committee instructed a drafting Sub-Committee to prepare a resolution recommending that any organ of the League to which a proposal was submitted should satisfy itself that the question was within the sphere of action of the League. M. Barthelemy (France), who was appointed rapporteur to the Assembly, delivered a speech, in which he gave expression rather to the views of the French Delegation than to those of the First Committee. As it appeared that considerable differences of opinion still existed as to the action, if any, which should be taken, the question was, at the instance of M. Benes (Czecho-Slovakia) postponed for the consideration of the next Assembly.

ARBITRATION, SECURITY, AND THE PACIFIC SETTLEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES.

48. These subjects were referred to the Third Committee and in part also to the First Committee. M. Markovitch (Kingdom of the Serbs and Slovenes) took the leading part in the discussion. He was not satisfied with the suggestion in the report of the Council that certain recent international agreements for arbitration and security should be registered. He desired to draw from them general principles which might assist the different States to a solution of the problem of security. A Sub-Committee was appointed to draw up a comprehensive resolution dealing with the political aspect of the subject, and it was arranged that this should then be referred to the First Committee. The resolution, which consists of several paragraphs, notes with satisfaction the increasing number of arbitration conventions and treaties, emphasises the importance of the Treaties of Locarno, asserts the conviction that the ideas embodied in the Treaties of Locarno may well be accepted and put into practice by other States, and concludes by requesting the Council to recommend this course to all Members of the League and to offer its good offices for the conclusion of suitable agreements between nations. Upon the draft resolution being placed before the First Committee, some members of that Committee expressed the fear that the resolution might convey the impression that all the Members of the League endorsed the interpretation of Article 16 of the Covenant adopted by the signatories of the Treaties of Locarno. It was conceded on all hands that this was not intended, and the draft resolution was accepted on the rapporteur (M. Motta) undertaking to explain in his report exactly what was implied by the adoption of the resolution. In the course of the discussion M. Rolin (Belgium) proposed an amendment on the subject of the desirability of States adopting the compulsory arbitration clause in the protocol of the Court of International Justice. As this was a subject which was likely to come before the Imperial Conference, the proposal was resisted by the British, Indian, and other delegations. The resolution as approved by the First and Third Committees was passed by the Assembly.

PREPARATORY COMMISSION FOR THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

49. M. Loudon (Netherlands) made a statement to the Third Committee as to the present position of the work on disarmament. A discussion followed, which extended over several meetings, and in which a considerable difference of opinion was manifested on the question whether it would be possible to convene the Conference before the next Assembly. Ultimately the Committee adopted a resolution thanking the members of the Preparatory Commission for their work and requesting them to hasten the completion of the same so that they might be able to draw up a programme for the Conference early next year, and the Committee asked the Council to convene the Conference before the next session of the Assembly "unless material difficulties render this impossible." The resolution was approved by the Assembly.

SUPERVISION OF THE PRIVATE MANUFACTURE OF ARMS, AMMUNITION AND IMPLEMENTS OF WAR.

50. Several speakers in the Third Committee pointed out the close connection between the manufacture of arms and the general problem of disarmament and insisted upon the necessity of concluding a Convention on the subject of the manufacture of arms as soon as possible. In the result the Committee proposed that the Council should continue its enquiries on the subject in order that it might be included in the programme of the Disarmament Conference if that Conference could be convened before the next session of the Assembly, but if that proved to be impracticable the Committee proposed that a special Conference on the subject should be convened as soon as possible. The Assembly approved this proposal.

CODIFICATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

51. The discussion in the First Committee on the report of the Committee of Experts in connection with the proposed Codification of International Law elicited a great variety of opinions. Some delegates considered that the Committee had embarked upon too wide a range of subjects, others that it was dealing with subjects which were already under the consideration of international organisations, an unnecessary duplication of labour, while others complained that the Committee was putting forward the opinions of individual jurists instead of the opinions of the Committee as a whole, and that this was not likely to lead to any useful result. Others again were satisfied with the work that was being done and deprecated interference with the Committee. As it was clear that there was no prospect of securing unanimity the Chairman proposed that the minutes of the discussion should be sent to the Committee of Experts for their information, and this was agreed to.

PROPOSED COLLECTION OF INTERNATIONAL AGREEMENTS.

52. A proposal by the Norwegian Delegation that the Secretariat should be requested to prepare as complete a statement as possible of undertakings at present in force between States providing for obligatory resort to a judicial or friendly settlement of disputes was referred to the First Committee, but was withdrawn after it had been pointed out that the proposed compilation would entail immense labour and that the substance of the required information was already to be found in existing publications.

NUMBERING OF THE PARAGRAPHS OF THE ARTICLES OF THE COVENANT.

53. The first Committee adopted without discussion a simple but useful proposal made by the Australian Delegation, that the different paragraphs of the Articles of the Covenant should be numbered The proposal was accepted by the Assembly.

COMMITTEE II.—Technical Organisations.

GREEK REFUGEES SETTLEMENT COMMISSION.

54. The Commission, with the help of a loan of £10,000,000 raised with the assistance of the League and secured on Greek revenues, has established a total of about 687,000 refugees from Asia Minor and other Turkish territory in various parts of Greece at a cost of £100 per family, including housing. It has also housed between 100,000 and 200,000 urban refugees. At the time the migration began Greece had a population of 5,000,000. It is estimated that 1,400,000 refugees have since migrated into Greece.

Although the work of this Commission is of no material interest to India, it is right to record that Sir J. Campbell (I.C.S., retired) is a member of the Commission and shares in the credit due to the conspicuous success which has so far attended its labours. The Second Committee and the Assembly warmly commended the work of the Commission.

THE HEALTH ORGANISATION.

55. Speaking in the Second Committee at the Sixth Assembly Sir Atul Chatterjee had expressed approval of the recent establishment at Singapore of a bureau to collect and disseminate epidemiological intelligence in the East, and had suggested that the Health Organisation might profitably devote more attention in future to health questions in Eastern countries. The attention of the Seventh Assembly was directed again to this means of interesting the East in League work in the speech of His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala, to which we have already referred. From more than one point of view the development of the Singapore Epidemiological Bureau has a deep significance. Not only is the establishment of the bureau likely to produce valuable results from the health point of view but it indicates that the League, which had in its early years been obliged to devote its attention and its energies mainly to the problems resulting in European and adjoining countries from the Great War, is now able to carry its activities further afield, and is approaching the fulfilment of its original conception as a world-wide organisation.

56. The Singapore Bureau had now been in operation for more than a year, but the League itself had not contributed financially to its support. The Committee had before it a report by Dr. Rajchman, Medical Director of the League, which was of special value because he had recently visited the bureau in the course of a tour of the Far East. Tributes were paid to the value and the significance of the bureau, but the discussion chiefly turned on the question of its financial support.

57. The foundation of the bureau would not have been possible without the aid of a grant of 125,000 gold dollars from the Rockefeller Foundation, to be spread over a period of five years, but this sum is not sufficient for its maintenance. The deficit of about 1,500 gold dollars for 1926 has been met by contribution either actually made or promised from a number of the participating countries. The Government of India, in view of its large contribution to the League Budget, had been unable to contribute directly to the bureau, though it had supplied free wireless transmission from stations in India of epidemiological intelligence circulated from it. Japan, in promising a contribution, had expressed the view that the expenditure was a legitimate charge upon the funds of the League. The Council of the League had accepted the Health Committee's report on the understanding that the Singapore Bureau would be financed out of the Rockefeller grant and contributions from the participating States. In these circumstances there was a clear prospect of controversy.

58. In opening the discussion on the work of the Health Organisation, the delegate for Uruguay referred to the approval of the Singapore Bureau which had been expressed by His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala in his speech in the Assembly. The Japanese delegate spoke in support of the proposition that the time had come for part at any rate of the expenditure of the bureau to be incorporated in the budget of the League, and he moved that a sum for the expenses of the bureau should be included in the budget for 1927. Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar followed with a speech of great weight, in which he argued that the bureau was of international importance from the health point of view, that its existence was a token of the League's world-wide interests, and that India was already making as big a contribution as it could afford to questions of tropical hygiene. His speech, which will be reproduced in full in our Final Report, made a great impression on the Committee, and in effect settled the question of principle whether the bureau was wide enough in its scope to justify support from the funds of the League. Subsequent discussions turned on the question how much the League could afford to contribute to supplement the Rockefeller Foundation grants. It was eventually decided that the League should make such a contribution to the Singapore Bureau as would raise the total Health Budget to 1,000,000 gold francs, a maximum accepted last year. This leaves a certain sum of money to be found from elsewhere, either from other heads of the Health Budget or from independent contributions, but an important question of principle has been satisfactorily settled.

INTELLECTUAL CO-OPERATION.

59. The Committee heard an extremely interesting report from M. Luchaire, the Director of the International Institute of Intellectual Co-operation, which has lately been founded in Paris by the generosity of the French Government. He explained that there was no question of attempting to regulate intellectual labour through the Institute, such labour being by definition free and spontaneous. But it was hoped to improve the conditions in which it took place by promoting a better understanding between Governments, institutions and individuals.

60. Speaking first in the subsequent discussion, Khan Bahadur Shaikh Abdul Qadir mentioned with approval some of the objects of the Institute and referred to the connection of Sir Jagadis Bose and Sir Atul Chatterjee with it. He said that, as the home of one of the most ancient civilisations of the world, India had a profound faith in intellectual culture, and believed that the solution of the great problems of humanity lay in the recognition by the nations of the value of the contributions made by each of them to the progress of mankind and in a better appreciation of the merits of one another.

61. Later in the debate Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar, referring to proposals of a Committee, on which Mr. S. N. Chaturvedi served as an Indian educational expert, for educating the young in the ideals and objects of the League of Nations, mentioned the value from this point of view of such organisations as that of the Boy Scouts and the encouraging development of the movement in India.

PREPARATORY COMMITTEE FOR THE ECONOMIC CONFERENCE.

62. This Committee was constituted by the Council of the League in pursuance of a resolution framed by the Sixth Assembly. The Committee consists of a number of experts drawn from various nations, of whom Sir Atul Chatterjee is one. They are surveying the whole economic field with a view to isolating questions which the future International Economic Conference might be profitably invited to consider. The Preparatory Committee has not yet completed its task and is to meet again in November. The object of the conference is rather to ascertain what would be economically desirable within the international field than to draw up Conventions which Governments would engage to execute. Following on the remarks of Mr. Latham (Australia) in a speech in the Assembly to which we have referred, much of the discussion in the Second Committee turned on whether the members of the conference should be representatives of the participating Governments or economic experts. The opposing views were difficult to reconcile, and the resolution proposed by M. Loucheur (France), who initiated the proposal at the Sixth Assembly, and eventually adopted, left a wide field for the discretion of the Council and of the Governments, while stressing the importance of the Committee making active efforts to finish its work so that the Conference may be convened as soon as possible.

63. In the course of the debate Khan Bahadur Shaikh Abdul Qadir stated that India viewed the proposed conference with great interest and that she approved the policy of the Committee in proceeding to isolate specific problems from a general survey of the economic field. He stated that the experience of India since the war afforded much material for the consideration of the problems with which the Economic Conference would have to deal, and that she was seriously concerned with the difference between the levels of prices for raw materials and manufactured articles. He alluded also to the difficulties which producers experienced from the great fluctuations of demand and he expressed himself in favour of a conference of experts.

ECONOMIC COMMITTEE.

64. This body is one of the standing organisations of the League and deals with a variety of economic questions which are referred to it from time to time. Among other subjects it has drawn up a draft Convention for the abolition of those export and import restrictions which are believed to be a great obstacle to international trade at the present time. This draft has been referred to the various Governments, and the Committee had analysed and annotated the replies of the Government with a view to the consideration of the whole question by an international conference of representative delegates which is to be held in the near future for the purpose of arriving at an international agreement.

65. In the course of the discussion Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar stated that no measures were enforced in India which could on a reasonable definition of the terms be regarded as improper restrictions on imports, but that various matters of detail would have to be brought forward for discussion at the proposed conference. From the general point of view, however, he intimated that public opinion in India would not favour the adoption by India of any Convention that was not equally adopted by countries with whom India had important trade relations, and that consequently it would not be satisfactory to India that the condition on which the Convention should come into force should be its ratification by countries belonging exclusively to Europe, as was proposed in the draft. Having regard to what had already been said in the Assembly as to the importance of early ratification of Conventions concluded at Geneva, this comment came with especial force.

BULGARIAN REFUGEES AND AUSTRIAN FINANCIAL RECONSTRUCTION.

66. Khan Bahadur Shaikh Abdul Qadir intervened in the discussion on these two subjects to say that, remote as they were from the direct interests of India, India rejoiced with other countries in the work of amelioration that the League was carrying out. He thought that such work would do much to convince the world of the League's practical value, and that in these days no nation can be unconcerned as to the fate of another. He appositely quoted the words of the Persian poet Saadi :—

'All men are limbs of one body,
Because in their birth they are one essence ;
When one of the limbs is in trouble
The other limbs cannot remain unconcerned."

COMMUNICATIONS AND TRANSIT.

67. The Second Committee favoured, but the Fourth Committee was unable to recommend, sufficient budgetary assistance for holding outside Europe the Third General Conference on Communications and Transit, which will examine in particular the possibility of improving the liaison between the League organisation and the technical administrations of non-European countries. It was suggested that the Conference, which was first held in Barcelona and next in Geneva, should this time be convened in South America. The Indian Delegation did not intervene in the discussion, but considered that there were forcible arguments for holding outside Europe a conference which would mainly concern itself with the non-European countries' needs.

COMMITTEE IV.—Finance and Budget.

BUDGET.

68. The discussion on the budget was opened on general lines by Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar, who moved the following resolution :—

"That this Committee, noting the tendency of the budget of the League to increase and considering that in the present financial state of most countries of the world every effort should be made to resist that tendency, is of opinion that as a preliminary to the discussion of the details of the budget, and as a general guide to their consideration, it is desirable to keep in view a maximum limit of expenditure with the object of securing that the contributions of individual States shall not normally in future exceed their contributions for the current year ; that the maximum expenditure to be kept in view should in effect approximate to the total expenditure for 1926, with such adjustments as may be necessitated by additions to or withdrawals from the number of contributory States Members, and that copies of this Resolution should be communicated to other Committees concerned with measures involving expenditure."

This resolution had been drafted after previous consultation with members of the British Empire Delegations and other influential members of the Fourth Committee. It was carefully framed, as Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar explained to the Committee, in order to avoid the conception of a hard and fast limit. He held that the Fourth Committee would be justified in adopting such a principle, both for their own guidance in the discussion of the details of the budget and for the attention of other Committees which might be disposed to adopt proposals involving additional expenditure. The resolution made no attempt to impose a check on legitimate expenditure or to set limits to the normal development of the League's genuinely international activities, to which, in fact, India looked forward. He quoted a statement of the Secretary-General before the Supervisory Commission of 1925 that, "barring unforeseen political events, the League budget had now attained practical stability, and subsequent variations would be relatively small," in spite of which the estimate for 1927 showed an increase of over 7 per cent. If Germany's accession were financially a gain the Assembly could not ignore the possibility of other contributions lapsing after two years (i.e., those of Spain and Brazil, whose resignation from the League would then take effect). Many countries were under the obligation of exercising the most rigid economy, and the League might well set a good example.

69. The motion was followed by an interesting and valuable discussion which brought out some of the peculiarities of League finance. The Assembly being a body consisting of sovereign powers, and the Council not possessing those financial powers which are ordinarily vested in an executive, all States Members are free to propose measures involving expenditure, and there is no authority specifically charged with the responsibility of assigning priority to such measures. In these circumstances the growth of expenditure is specially difficult to control, and the voluntary acceptance of an arbitrary maximum may, in the end, be found the only effective solution. This principle is, for practical purposes, already in operation for the Health budget. It is not, however, practicable at the present time to attempt to apply the principle of a fixed maximum to the total budget, and the Indian resolution aimed rather at securing the avoidance of increased contributions than at preventing increased expenditure. The new contribution from Germany made this distinction possible. The passage of the resolution was secured, subject to certain modifications which did not seriously affect its aim and substance, in the following form :—

"The Fourth Committee,

"Noting the tendency of the budget of the League to increase, and considering that in the present financial state of most countries of the world, every effort should be made to resist this tendency,

"Is of opinion that, as a preliminary to the discussion of the details of the budget, and as a general guide to their consideration, it is desirable, without putting obstacles in the way of the development of the League, to keep in view a maximum limit of expenditure with the object of securing that the contributions of individual States shall not normally in future exceed their contributions for the current year.

"Copies of this resolution should be communicated to other Committees concerned with measures involving expenditure."

The discussion produced a considerable impression, and we venture to express the belief that it had some effect both in enhancing the prestige of the Indian Delegation and in inducing an atmosphere of economy in the scrutiny of the details of the budget and in the examination in the other Committees of new projects involving expenditure. The resolution was on various occasions referred to in the course of other debates. The report rendered by the Fourth Committee to the Assembly stated that "their intervention was facilitated by the adoption of the resolution submitted by the delegation for India"; it further described the resolution as "a serious warning likely to exercise influence on all concerned."

EMPLOYMENT OF INDIANS IN SECRETARIAT AND INTERNATIONAL LABOUR OFFICE.

70. This is a matter which has been often ventilated by Indian Delegations at previous Assemblies. The absence of facilities for the employment of their own nationals at Geneva is a source of concern to many delegations besides that of India. The Norwegian Delegation pointed out in the Assembly that delegates from countries speaking neither English nor French were much handicapped at Geneva by the lack of personnel at the Secretariat able to discuss matters with them in their own language. On the present occasion the Indian delegate in the Fourth Committee intervened when the subject was raised by others to remind the Committee that India also had claims on this account. Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar recognised the goodwill of the authorities and the difficulties of satisfying the claims advanced; he based the claim for Indian representation on the broad ground that it would serve to cultivate and spread the international spirit. This speech is reproduced in our Final Report.

Sir William Vincent also wrote personally to the Secretary-General and Director-General of the International Labour Office, inviting their attention to the remarks of Sir Ramaswami Ayyar and suggesting that impending vacancies should be notified some time in advance of the date on which they would actually occur in order that distant countries might be in as good a position to put forward candidates as those nearer the seat of the League.

BUILDING FUND.

71. The funds from which the building scheme is being financed have resulted from the excess of the contributions paid by Member States from the commencement of the League over the actual expenses of the League in the same period. In order to adjust on a proper basis the amounts which every Member will have eventually contributed to the cost of the new buildings, a refund has to be made to those States whose overpayments have provided the financial basis of the building scheme. The actual method of calculation is too elaborate to be described here, but it appears to be eminently fair. Under it a total sum of 1,400,000 francs will be refunded annually for a number of years, of which India will apparently receive about 6½ per cent. It is satisfactory therefore to record that the contributions due from India to the League will be reduced annually by a substantial amount.

ALLOCATION OF EXPENSES.

72. This year and next year, owing to the fixation of the scale of allocation of expenses of the League between its Members by the Sixth Assembly up to and including the year 1928, there was no discussion of the question of individual States' contributions. The contribution of Germany on admission to the League was fixed at 79 units, at which France is also assessed. It had been provisionally decided at the Extraordinary Session of the Assembly in March that these units would be added to the existing total of 937 units for other States of the League, thus reducing the monetary equivalent of the unit.

CONTRIBUTION OF INDIA FOR 1927.

73. The budget of the League for 1927, after taking account of all expenditure approved by the Seventh Assembly, balances at 24,512,341 gold francs (as compared with 22,930,633 gold francs for 1926). The value of the unit is 24,126·3 gold francs. India will pay 56 units or 1,351,072·8 gold francs, that is to say, roughly £54,000 for the year 1927, less the amount accruing under the Building Fund repayment scheme. For 1926 India has paid 1,370,454 gold francs. It will thus be seen that Germany's accession to the League has enabled additional expenditure, amounting to nearly 1,600,000 gold francs, to be incurred, while slightly reducing the individual contributions of other States Members of the League. It may be added that the principal destination of the additional expenditure is the creation of new posts, including that of an additional Under Secretary-General, to be filled partly by recruitment of German nationals.

ARREARS OF CONTRIBUTION.

74. A Sub-Committee was appointed to consider this somewhat delicate question and presented a confidential report. The Assembly adopted its proposal to write off a sum owing from Panama. It also requested China, which is heavily in arrears, "to propose effective and concrete method acceptable to the League of Nations, with a view to the payment of her contributions in arrear." The Council has been asked to study the legal position of States which do not pay their contributions for report to the next Assembly. We reproduce in our Final Report the Report of the Fourth Committee to the Assembly on the Budget, which explains fully its chief characteristics, and the various other decisions taken by the Committee which cannot conveniently be summarised in this Report.

COMMITTEE V.—Social Questions.

CHILD WELFARE.

75. The Child Welfare Committee of the Advisory Commission for the Protection and Welfare of Children and Young People has pursued its activities with a zeal which, in the opinion of certain authorities, has led it somewhat beyond the limits fixed by the Assembly. This view had in fact been expressed by the British representative on the Council of the League, and the Council had passed a resolution which implied a caution in this sense. It is true that its labours consist to a large extent of the collection and dissemination of information regarding the activities of various countries and that they do not always contemplate the eventual formulation and acceptance of international conventions; but there is some difference of opinion as to whether this purely informative procedure is a justifiable feature of the League's work in matters of this kind. A connection may be indicated between these considerations and the resolution submitted by Lord Cecil to the Assembly that the Assembly should be requested to consider and report what questions are and what are not within the sphere of action of the League.

76. His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala had indicated in his speech in the Assembly that he would take an opportunity in Committee to refer in detail to the proper limits of international action with special reference to the conditions of India, and the occasion for these remarks occurred in the discussion on the Report of the Child Welfare Committee. In his speech, which will be reproduced in our Final Report, he expressed the fullest sympathy with the work of the Child Welfare movement, and illustrated the remarkable and significant developments which are now in progress in India. But at the same time he emphasised the great and deeply-rooted differences of culture and tradition which exist between Asiatic and European communities, and gave reasons for doubting whether national conditions can be beneficially influenced by international activity where there is little in common between the different systems. He spoke in support of a resolution moved by the British delegate who proposed to postpone certain of the Committee's projects pending the issue of Lord Cecil's motion in the Assembly. This resolution was modified in the course of the discussion until it emerged in a form less satisfactory than the original from the Indian point of view. But it may be expected that His Highness's weighty and informative speech, reinforcing as it did that of His Highness the Maharaja of Patiala at the Sixth Assembly, will have its due influence upon the future course of these activities.

77. In the report to the Assembly on the subject adopted by the Fifth Committee a paragraph was added at the instance of Sir Basanta Mullick, drawing attention to the view of the Indian Delegation that caution should be shown by the League in approaching questions of this kind in connection with countries like India of very different traditions and ideas than those prevailing in Europe.

TRAFFIC IN OPIUM AND OTHER DANGEROUS DRUGS.

78. The Committee had before it resolutions adopted by the Opium Advisory Committee of the League [of which Sir John Campbell, I.C.S. (retired), is a member.] calling attention to the gravity of the present situation of the illicit traffic, especially in manufactured drugs, the lack of control over the conveyance of opium from the Persian Gulf on ships calling at its ports so as to prevent the diversion of such opium into the illicit traffic, and the failure to ratify the Geneva Opium Convention, 1925. Lord Cecil emphasised the importance of early ratification of the Geneva Convention, but the Italian delegate said that Italy considered that the present situation arose rather from the failure to apply the provisions of the Hague Convention, 1912. He criticised the constitution of the Advisory Committee as being unduly representative of the producing countries. He did not agree with the institution of a Permanent Central Board to supervise the traffic in drugs and thought that the Secretariat of the League alone was susceptible of a sufficient control by the Council to enable this control to be properly exercised. Apart from the Italian and Chinese delegates, the Committee as a whole agreed that it was extremely difficult to secure an effective control of the international traffic in opium and drugs until the Geneva Convention had been brought into operation, and the Resolution proposed by the Fifth Committee, which was eventually adopted by the Assembly, urged the Governments of all States Members to proceed to ratify or adhere to the Convention, so that, if possible, it might be brought into force before the end of the year. So far the only ratifications of the Convention which have been deposited are those of the States of the British Empire.

79. Sir Basanta Mullick, on behalf of the Indian Delegation, made a full statement of the measures which have been taken in India to bring the production and distribution of opium under full control. He informed the Committee that steps had been taken to introduce absolute prohibition of export of opium except for medical and scientific purposes by the year 1935. On the other hand, in India itself, where drugs with an opium basis only were manufactured for medical and scientific purposes under Government control for consumption in India or export to the United Kingdom, statistics which Sir Basanta Mullick quoted shewed that contraband imports of morphine and cocaine were increasing in alarming proportions. He drew attention to information in the Report of the Advisory Committee as to the seizure of illicit drugs made by the excise administrations of certain Local Governments. He supported strongly the ratification and bringing into force of the Geneva Convention and explained the measures which are taken in India to repress illicit traffic in drugs by notifying to the Governments concerned all cases where contraband products from their territories are smuggled into India for the purpose of identification and punishment of the offenders. Prior to the meeting the Indian Delegation had brought to the notice of the Japanese Delegation certain cases in which contraband drugs of Japanese origin had been smuggled into India, and had asked and received an assurance that these cases, regarding which so far no reply had been received from the Japanese Government, would be promptly investigated. In the course of the discussion the Persian delegate repeated a statement made by him at the Sixth Assembly that contraband opium reaches Persia from the North-West Frontier of India. Sir Basanta Mullick repudiated this suggestion. He informed Prince Arfa that very little opium is grown in the North-West of India, and that in any case it was wholly insufficient to account for the amount of contraband opium which was shown to be smuggled by ships from Persian Ports. He begged the Persian delegate to produce any proofs of his statement, in order that they might be forwarded to the Government of India for purposes of enquiry. The Report adopted by the Fifth Committee expressed appreciation of the efforts made by the Government of India towards diminishing the consumption of opium and dangerous drugs and the export of opium and, in particular, its decision to extinguish totally the export of opium for other than medical and scientific purposes within a period of 10 years.

ARMENIAN AND RUSSIAN REFUGEES.

80. In the course of the last year a Committee has been examining the possibility of establishing in the Republic of Erivan at least 25,000 Armenian refugees. It has reported that the scheme is workable but requires funds for irrigation work and settlement which should ultimately be amortised out of returns from the land when in cultivation. The Council of the League has not been able to agree to associate itself with a loan for this purpose, such as has been raised for financial reconstruction in Austria and Hungary, and for settlement of refugees in Greece and Bulgaria, but has expressed its willingness to nominate suitable trustees for the expenditure of money raised from private organisations, if desired to do so by those who provide the funds. The Fifth Committee recommended, and the Assembly decided to ask the Council to set up a small Committee to investigate the possibility of obtaining the sum required and, in the meantime, has allotted from the budget to the High Commissioner for Refugees, Dr. Nansen, a small sum to provide for the printing and distribution of literature regarding the proposed financial operation, in order to appeal for support in Europe or America.

81. The Committee also took note of reports of the work which is being done by the High Commissioner in conjunction with the International Labour Office for settlement of Russian and Armenian refugees in employment in the countries to which they had migrated. Statements were made on behalf of various countries where the refugees have settled as to the possibility of adhering to a scheme proposed by Dr. Nansen for the creation of a fund for the assistance of refugees by collection of surcharges on the Identity Certificates issued to them. The Government of India have accepted the principle of this surcharge in respect of the few Russian and Armenian refugees who have migrated to India, and a statement on the subject was made by Sir Basanta Mullick. Considerable discussion was aroused by a proposal that the organisation created to deal with this particular class of refugees should also concern itself with the assistance of other unemployed workers. Many delegates felt that unemployment as a whole is, in most of its aspects, a national and not an international question and demurred to this proposal being included in the draft Report to the Assembly on refugee question presented by the German delegate. Sir Basanta Mullick joined other representatives of the British Empire Delegations in supporting a vigorous speech by the Australian delegate resisting the proposal and calling attention to the proper scope of the League's activities. The Assembly, on the recommendation of the Fifth Committee, invited the Council to consider how far the measures already taken to protect, employ and relieve Russian and Armenian refugees could be extended to other analogous categories of refugees, but did not agree to the Refugee Commission concerning itself with unemployment problems generally.

GENERAL.

82. Both in regard to Child Welfare and Russian and Armenian Refugees questions, discussions in the Fifth Committee brought into prominence the undesirability of the League's occupying itself with matters which are primarily the concern of domestic legislation. This view, which was expressed in a Resolution moved by Lord Cecil in the Assembly and ultimately postponed for consideration at the next Assembly, was strongly supported in the discussions in the Fifth Committee by the delegates of the British Empire, the Dominions and India. It is possible that these discussions may have created in the minds of other delegations the impression that the representatives of the British Empire Delegations were attempting unduly to restrict and delimit the activities of the League. Yet various projects which had been approved by the Fifth Committee for financial support of charitable undertakings in the Near East were, no doubt as a result of the attitude taken up by the British Empire Delegations, adversely reported on by the Fourth Committee. from the budgetary point of view, and, as a result, abandoned. The Fifth Committee is apt to be moved by considerations which appeal to the heart rather than to the head. The attitude adopted by His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala and Sir Basanta Mullick towards proposals likely to be misinterpreted in India, however benevolently conceived, resulted in their modification to a more acceptable form.

COMMITTEE VI.—Political Questions, Slavery and Mandates.

THE SLAVERY CONVENTION.

83. Our predecessors at the Sixth Assembly gave an account in their reports of the previous discussions at Geneva regarding Slavery, which led up to the proposal in 1925 by the British Delegation of a new Slavery Convention. We need only say here that considerable information had been collected by the League from various sources showing that unfortunately the trade in slaves still goes on, especially between Africa and the Arabian coast, and that there are traces of slavery, or practices akin to slavery, in other parts of the world. The Sixth Assembly adopted for consideration by the Governments of States Members a draft Convention for conclusion at the Seventh Assembly, if approved, of which the following were most important features. Slavery and the slave trade were specifically defined. The signatory States were to undertake to suppress the slave trade and to bring about progressively and as soon as possible the disappearance of slavery in every form. Further, they were to take all necessary measures to prevent conditions analogous to those of slavery from resulting from compulsory or forced labour, and to tolerate forced labour for private purposes only under strict supervision and in exceptional circumstances. The draft Convention provided for separate accession, in respect of the whole or certain articles, in regard to the whole or any territories under the sovereignty, jurisdiction, or protection of the Signatory States.

84. Observations on the draft Convention were received by the League from many Governments and communicated to the delegates at the Seventh Assembly. It accordingly became necessary to re-examine the draft Convention with reference to the observations and amendments proposed. The Sixth Committee was fully occupied throughout the Assembly in conducting this examination. Sir William Vincent represented the Indian Delegation in the discussions. It was only on the last day of the Assembly that the Convention and four Resolutions, which are reproduced as an Appendix to this Report, were finally adopted. The Convention was immediately signed on behalf of about 21 States, subject, however, to important reservations by India and Persia, which are also reproduced in the Appendix. Apart from the Statute of the Court of International Justice, which was adopted and signed at the First Assembly (1920), and the Protocol for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes, adopted by the Fifth Assembly (1924), the Slavery Convention is the only international instrument which has been concluded in the course of an Assembly session without a special conference for plenipotentiaries. Our experience leads us to think that an Assembly session is an inapropriate occasion for the conclusion of separate international agreements of this character which are intended to be open for immediate signature. The preoccupations of the delegates at the Assembly are so various, and their attention to any one subject is so frequently interrupted, that it is difficult for the delegation to undertake the laborious and detailed study of the text which an international agreement demands. Had it been possible for the Governments of States Members to accept the draft Convention in the form in which it emerged from the Sixth Assembly, subject only to minor drafting amendments, there would have been no strong objections to the procedure adopted. But the observations of many Governments on the draft Convention and many of the amendments proposed at the Assembly were on questions of substance which had not been previously referred to Governments. Sir William Vincent reiterated frequently in the discussions the importance of adhering as far as possible to the original text which the delegations of many Governments were prepared to accept. He was strongly supported in this attitude by the delegates of Italy and Portugal. Nevertheless, some important changes had to be agreed to, though not without misgivings, in order to facilitate the acceptance of the Convention. The most important of them was the redraft of Article 3 of the Convention, which, however, provoked rigorous reservations as regards India and Persia.

85. While it would not be practicable, without unduly lengthening this report, to mention all the various points raised in the discussions, it will probably be of interest if we point out the more important questions of principle involved. The Government of India had informed the League that it was prepared to accept the provisions of the draft Convention adopted by the Sixth Assembly, subject to certain minor drafting alterations and a reservation, the reason for which its delegation would explain at the Assembly, in respect of certain unadministered territory and the Indian States. The Indian Delegation was instructed to state at the Assembly that it was necessary to exclude from the terms of the Convention certain unadministered territories on the frontiers of Assam and Burma, where insufficient authority is at present exercised to ensure the suppression of practices akin to slavery known or believed to exist. While prepared to bind India as a whole to the obligations of suppressing the slave trade and other general obligations to be undertaken vis-a-vis the other Signatories, the Government of India would not be committed to undertake warlike operations now or in the future in order to suppress the practices referred to in these unadministered tracts. For other reasons of a constitutional nature it was necessary to exclude the Indian States from certain obligations under the Convention. Some of these would involve direct interference with the domestic administration of the Indian States. Recent enquiries had satisfied the Government of India that slavery in the ordinary sense is not now practised in any Indian State, and that where conditions are present which may be held to amount to forced labour of the kind against which the Convention is directed, no serious abuses exist, and progress is, in fact, being made in the removing or mitigating of such conditions. The Government of India, we were informed, would be prepared to urge Indian Rulers to initiate measures of reform if they had reason to believe that gross abuses existed in their States, but did not consider that the conditions revealed by their recent enquiries would justify interference to secure full enforcement of the provisions of the Slavery Convention, seeing that in many States the standard aimed at by the Convention has already been attained, and that in all other States steady progress is being effected both by public opinion and by the spontaneous action of the Rulers. Apart from these reasonable reservations, the grounds for which Sir William Vincent explained to the Committee in a statement which we shall reproduce in our Final Report, the Indian Delegation was authorised to sign the Slavery Convention if concluded in a form similar to that already considered in India.

86. Certain of the observations of other Governments require to be mentioned. The British Government had proposed a number of drafting amendments tending to clarify the diplomatic provisions of the original draft, in particular as regards the maintenance of the previous international agreements regarding slavery. Its main proposals, however, were (1) that the slave trade should be recognised as piracy, or alternatively that the Signatory States should undertake to execute an agreement enabling their warships to proceed against any vessel on the high seas of any Signatory State and suspected of being engaged in the slave trade in areas where such trade may be expected to exist; (2) that the Signatory States should undertake to communicate to the League present and future laws enacted to control or suppress the slave trade, slavery or forced labour, for publication in the Report of the Assembly by the Council of the League. The Indian

Delegation was instructed to support these proposals. The German Government had commented at considerable length on various provisions. Its comments were chiefly directed towards strengthening the obligations as regards control of forced labour and various practices held to be akin to slavery, such as debt slavery, sham adoption, childhood marriage, etc. Similar observations and amendments were made in the course of the discussions by Dr. Nansen (Norway). The Portuguese and South African Governments had taken exception to the inclusion in the Convention of obligations as regards compulsory labour, which in the opinion of the Portuguese Government required to be defined if mentioned at all. The French Government brought up again a proposal made by its delegates at the Sixth Assembly, which proved to be the chief crux in arriving at an agreement. It wished to incorporate in the provisions for control of the slave trade by sea provisions based on the corresponding article in the Arms Traffic Convention for maritime supervision of the trade in arms. In the ensuing discussions, which were conducted in a Sub-Committee of the Sixth Committee, including representatives of the countries which had made observations on the draft Convention, the observations of Governments and amendments proposed by the various delegations were dealt with article by article. In this Report we propose only to comment on Articles 2, 3, 5 and 9, which are of special interest to India reserving for our Final Report such remarks as have to be made on the discussion of the other articles.

Article 2.

87. Sub-paragraph (b) of this Article read as follows in the draft adopted by the Sixth Assembly :—"to bring about progressively and as soon as possible the disappearance of slavery in all its forms, notably in the case of domestic slavery and similar conditions."

The German Delegation proposed to incorporate in the text other conditions besides domestic slavery which they considered to resemble slavery, such as debt slavery, slave adoption, child marriage, traffic in women, etc. It was argued by the South African delegate that domestic slavery is not necessarily in all cases the same as slavery. Where it is tantamount to slavery, as defined in Article I of the Convention, the Signatory Powers are undertaking in the first portion of the above-quoted sentence to abolish it. The German Delegation still pressed for the insertion of a special sub-paragraph undertaking to bring about the disappearance of all conditions of servitude resembling slavery. Sir William Vincent pointed out that the introduction of an additional clause of this character might have the unfortunate effect of causing Governments to reconsider the whole Convention before agreeing to its signature. The original text had been carefully considered in India, not only by the Central Government itself, but by all the Local Governments responsible for the execution of such an agreement among many peoples of diverse types. If the text of this important Article were materially altered, it would hardly be possible for him to sign the Convention, as he hoped to do, without further reference to the Government of India. Finally, the Sub-Committee agreed on the text which was ultimately adopted on the understanding that reference to the foregoing discussion should be made in the report of the Sixth Committee to the Assembly on the Convention. This report is reproduced in an appendix to our Final Report. The Indian Delegation considers that the drafting of Article 2 has been much improved by the omission of special reference to domestic slavery. The Sixth Committee interprets the Article in its present form as tending to bring about the disappearance from written legislation or from the customs of a country of everything which attempts the maintenance of a private individual of rights over another person of the same nature as the rights which an individual can have over things. Obviously, the detailed application of this provision must be left to the discretion of the Governments of each of the Signatory States.

Article 3.

88. The Indian Delegation came to Geneva prepared to support either of the two British proposals, which have been already explained, for rendering the maritime supervision of the slave trade more effective. The British proposal that the slave trade should be treated as piracy proved unacceptable to the French and Italian Delegations. It appeared that France and Italy were apprehensive of the effect of increasing the rights exercisable by warships on the high seas over their merchant vessels. The second British proposal, for an agreement between the Signatory States enabling the warships of each to proceed against the vessels of the others believed to be engaged in the slave trade, was also resisted. The Italian Delegation considered that separate agreements should be made between each of the Signatory States instead of one agreement, and that the zone in which special rights were to be exercised should be determined in the agreement as well as the type and tonnage of vessels liable to be visited. The French Delegation proposed, as an alternative, that the provisions for defining the type of vessel liable to be visited, the area in which that visit might take place and the rights to be exercised, should be as defined in the Arms Traffic Convention, 1925. The advantage from the French point of view of this proposal was that the Arms Traffic Convention provisions give no general right to search a vessel believed to carry arms, and restrict the right of visit to certain vessels of less than 500 tons (believed to carry arms) which are defined as

"native" vessels, that is to say, vessels manned, fitted out, commanded or owned by the natives of countries in an area bordering on the Indian Ocean bounded by the Arabian coast and the Persian Gulf on the north, the African coast on the west and the west coast of India on the east.

89. The Indian Delegation had been informed that the Government of India had not yet decided to ratify the Arms Traffic Convention because of the provision which involved Indian ships owned, manned or commanded by Indians being brought under the invidious description of "native" ships and being subjected to maritime supervision not applicable to the ships of other countries. Sir William Vincent endeavoured to persuade the French Delegation to drop its proposal. He pointed out that legislation by reference is always dangerous, and, in fact, some of the provisions of the Arms Traffic Convention which were quoted were quite out of place in the Slavery Convention, as they dealt with cargo and not with persons. He supported, in agreement with Lord Cecil, the proposals of the Italian Delegation. He said that most of the traffic in slaves appeared to be carried in Arab dhows, and it would be quite possible to confine the agreement to this class of vessel. After this discussion it was decided to refer the whole question to a small Sub-Committee, with instructions to present an agreed proposal. Lord Cecil kept the Indian Delegation informed from time to time of the course of the discussions. At one time it looked as though a formula might be found to define native vessels so as to exclude Indian vessels. Ultimately, however, the Italian Delegation refused to consider any new formula other than that in the Arms Traffic Convention, as this would involve further examination of the Slavery Convention by the Italian Government. Article 3, in the form in which it was ultimately adopted, was still open to the objections stated by Sir William Vincent when the discussion began. He, therefore, declared in the Sixth Committee when the Convention was adopted that he could not accept the Article as worded without further instructions. In the first place, the slave trade stood on an entirely different footing from arms traffic. Whereas, in certain circumstances, the latter was legitimate, the conveyance of slaves on a native or any other vessel was in any case criminal. Secondly, there was no slave trade off the coast of India, and Indian ships were not employed for such traffic. It would not be consonant with the dignity of India to accept a Convention which clearly places Indians in a position of inferiority, and suggests that Indian ships are not entitled to be treated in exactly the same manner as the ships of other Powers. The reservation which was ultimately made by Sir William Vincent in signing the Slavery Convention differed, in certain respects, from that which he originally proposed to make in the Sixth Committee. He therefore read out its terms when speaking on the Convention as a whole in the Assembly, although he made it clear that by so doing he did not commit the Indian Delegation to the acceptance of the doctrine that it is strictly necessary to announce before signature of a Convention the terms of a reservation subject to which it is accepted. The Article, in its final form, binds Signatory States to negotiate a separate Convention regarding maritime supervision of the slave trade. It is to be hoped that when this Convention comes to be negotiated, the strong protests of the Indian and Persian Delegations against the proposal to class vessels coming from those countries as "native," and thereby subject to certain disabilities, will have made it clear that these provisions are unworkable.

Article 5.

90. Sub-para. (1) of this Article as worded in the draft adopted at the Sixth Assembly read as follows:—"In principle, compulsory or forced labour may only be exacted for public purposes." The text adopted by the Seventh Assembly was the result of long discussion. The words "in principle" were objected to by Dr. Nansen (Norway). Sir William Vincent pointed out that if their omission and the substitution of the words "subject to the transitional provisions laid down below" were a mere change of language, it was most unwise to alter the original text. On the other hand, if they implied a change of meaning, it was now difficult to obtain the concurrence of Governments to the substitution. He did not believe that the Local Governments in India responsible for the regulation of labour questions would agree to enforce penal sanctions, if this was intended, against forced labour in cases where it still existed, though without legal sanction, in India. Similar objections were made by the Portuguese, Netherlands and South African Delegations, but Dr. Nansen's amendment was carried by a vote. A long argument also took place on the question whether the Convention should provide for adequate remuneration always being given for compulsory labour for public purposes. Ultimately it was decided that this provision could not be inserted in the Convention itself. Instead, Resolution 3, reproduced in the Appendix to this Report, was adopted, recognising that forced labour for public purposes is sometimes necessary, but expressing the opinion that, as a general rule, it should not be resorted to unless it is impossible to obtain voluntary labour, and that it should receive adequate remuneration. Sir William Vincent made it clear that it must be understood that remuneration in India also covered indirect benefit. Work on canals and forests, and service on the frontier against raiders was not always remunerated in cash, but was of direct benefit to those engaged upon them. It also had to be understood that voluntary labour could not always be substituted for forced labour when, as a matter of convenience for the labourer and for Government and also of economy, it appeared preferable to have carried out by local labour as a compulsory service what would otherwise involve the bringing of contract labour from a distance.

91. In sub-para 3 of Article 5, the word "competent" was inserted, with other minor textual alterations, in order to make it clear that responsibility for recourse to compulsory labour rests, not with the Government of India, but with the Local Government or such other competent central authority as may be determined.

92. Attention is also invited to Resolution 4, reproduced in the Appendix. The Governing Body of the International Labour Office has nominated a Committee, in agreement with the International Labour Conference, 1926, to conduct a general enquiry into the questions of forced labour and native labour throughout the world. Sir Charles Low, I.C.S. (retired), has been invited to serve as an expert on Indian labour questions on this Committee. Dr. Nansen (Norway) was anxious that the Seventh Assembly should take cognisance of the decision of the International Labour Organisation. The Director of the Labour Office favoured the adoption of a resolution to call attention to the rights of the Labour Organisation to institute international regulation of any labour question. Sir William Vincent joined the delegates of Italy and France in objecting to the Assembly being asked to adopt a resolution attributing such wide powers to the Labour Organisation. He held that the Assembly was not concerned with the ultimate results of the Labour Office enquiry so much as with the fact that it had been instituted, which was of special interest having regard to the mention of compulsory labour in the Slavery Convention. The form in which the resolution was ultimately adopted took account of Sir William Vincent's observations.

Article 9.

93. This Article was introduced in order to enable Signatory States to contract out of the whole or any of the provisions of the Convention in respect of some or all of the territories over which they exercised authority. The form of this Article was a matter of importance to the Indian Delegation, as it had been instructed to declare that the Convention would not be binding on the unadministered tracts in Northern India and the Indian States. Both in this Article and in Articles 2 and 5 the word "suzerainty" was inserted at the proposal of Sir William Vincent in order to ensure ex majori cautela that the authority exercised by the King as High Contracting Party for the Indian States was adequately expressed. It is to be observed that the Article provides for subsequent separate accession on behalf of any territory which, for the time being, is excluded from the application of the Convention. Sir William Vincent stated that the provisions of the Convention would be brought by the Government of India to the notice of the Rulers of Indian States.

94. The conclusion of the Slavery Convention was one of the most important achievements of the Seventh Assembly. The fact that it was immediately signed by some 24 States is most satisfactory. These States included the British Empire, Portugal and Belgium among the chief Colonial Powers. The signatures of France, Italy and the Netherlands had unfortunately to be withheld pending consideration of the Convention by their Governments. The South African delegate left Geneva before the Convention was opened for signature. The Indian Delegation considers that the Convention marks a practical step forward in the eradication of slavery and the slave trade. The opportunity was taken by Sir William Vincent to explain at the last meeting of the Assembly, when the Convention was adopted, that the reservations which he had been obliged to make on behalf of India were in no sense intended to impede its execution. He alluded to the important efforts made by the Local Governments, notably in Burma, to effect the eradication of traces of slavery and analogous conditions, and to the progressive abolition in India of the exaction of forced labour as a praedial obligation. He declared that India, if apt to scrutinise with jealousy the terms of such an agreement as this, was careful to enter into no solemn undertaking which she would not be prepared to implement, while her Government had to consider the effect of such an agreement on a vast population—one-fifth of the population of the world—living in very varying conditions.

MANDATES.

9 . In accordance with custom, the Assembly referred for consideration in the Sixth Committee the Reports of the Mandates Commission, on the administration of various territories by mandatory Powers. Dr. Nansen (Norway) drew attention to a recent discussion in the Council about the questionnaire prepared by the Mandates Commission for the use of the Powers exercising B and C Mandates, that is to say, mandates other than those over Syria, Palestine and Iraq. It had been said that if this questionnaire came into force government would no longer be vested in the mandatory Power, but in the Mandates Commission. Again, the Mandates Commission had asked the Council whether it would be desirable to draw up a procedure for the hearing in person of petitioners from mandated territories, and the Council had appeared to disapprove the introduction of such a procedure. Dr. Nansen, supported by the Swedish delegate, Mme. Bugge-Wicksell, a member of the Mandates Commission, proposed a resolution supporting the action of the Mandates Commission. Lord Cecil, who was supported by Mr. Smit (South Africa) and M. de Jouvenel (France), deprecated the view that the Assembly could properly judge between the Council and the Mandates Commission. He himself expressed the highest admiration of the Mandates Commission's work. Mr. Smit said the Mandates Commission must remember that it was dealing with sovereign States and had no power of initiation. M. de Jouvenel said that his experience as High Commissioner in Syria had enabled him to form a better judgment of the personality of some of the petitioners and of the value to be attached to their petitions than the Commission was able to do. He thought that the existence of the Commission was perhaps partly responsible for the prolongation of the Syrian revolt. These remarks provoked some resentment among members of the Mandates Commission, and M. de Jouvenel spoke again in a more conciliatory manner. The Chairman summed up the discussion with the hope that it would leave no impression that there was any kind of conflict between the Mandates Commission and any delegates on the Committee. Eventually a resolution was adopted, and ultimately passed by the Assembly, expressing confidence in the members of the Mandates Commission as well as in the members of the Council to ensure the application of the principles in the Article of the Covenant dealing with the exercise of mandates in a cordial spirit of co-operation with the mandatory Powers.

Concluding Observations.

96. We trust that this summary of our three weeks' work at Geneva will give a general indication of the wide range of subjects discussed at the Assembly and the attitude adopted by the Indian Delegation towards some of them. For a more detailed study of the conclusions reached by the Assembly, reference should be made to our Final Report. The outstanding event of this year's Assembly was the admission of Germany to the League. Her representatives at once made their influence felt in the course of the subsequent debates, and will certainly prove a valuable addition to the councils of the League. The effect of the Assembly's decisions in regard to the composition of the Council, which confirmed with little amendment the recommendations of the special Committee appointed to find a solution of the March crisis, will be more evident after one or more sessions of the enlarged Council have been held. It is at least a remarkable evidence of the democratic character of the League that States so small as Colombia and Salvador will now exercise equal rights on the Council with the Great Powers. The Assembly expressed its sense of the value of the Locarno Agreements in providing a measure of security in that part of Europe where peace has been most imperilled. For the time being it was content to point the way to other countries to enter into similar pacts without, this year, attempting to devise another agreement of universal application going beyond the terms of the Covenant in order to obtain by methods of arbitration, a general guarantee of security. The delegations of many of the smaller European countries showed anxiety to accelerate the pace of measures for reduction of armaments, while the representatives of the Great Powers expressed the need for caution and full investigation, in order that failure to reach agreement on this difficult question might be avoided. The position was somewhat similar in regard to the proposed Economic Conference, the ultimate success of which would seem likely to be in proportion to the thoroughness of the preparatory work now being undertaken. The need for cautious progress in these matters of world policy is shown by the unsatisfactory record in the matter of ratification of technical agreements already signed by representatives of Member States.

97. It was well that the British Empire Delegations undertook the unpopular task of reminding the Assembly of the danger of bringing within the range of League discussion and machinery matters of purely domestic concern unsuitable for international action. The conclusion of the Slavery Convention at the Seventh Assembly, in which the Indian Delegation played a conspicuous rôle, will, we hope, be regarded as a constructive act of real value. In another direction, it is gratifying to report that the financial reconstruction undertaken by the League in Austria and Hungary has been crowned with success, and that the results of the work on behalf of refugees in Greece have justified the making of a similar experiment on a smaller scale in Bulgaria; also that many Governments are prepared to co-operate in Dr. Nansen's scheme for finding employment for Armenian and Russian refugees by means of a contributory fund raised from the refugees themselves.

98. Turning to the work of the Indian Delegation itself, we desire in the first place to express our obligation and gratitude to the Secretariat staff deputed for our assistance by the India Office. Not only was our work greatly facilitated by the excellent briefs prepared for us, but their advice and knowledge of the subjects under discussion and of the procedure were of the utmost value to all members of the delegation. We hope that the results achieved at the Assembly by the delegates will be approved. The speech of His Highness the Maharaja of Kapurthala focussed the attention of the Assembly, in the midst of its absorption in the problem of the composition of the Council, on India's contribution to League work and her claims to fuller recognition in the decisions of the Assembly. More than one speaker referred in approving terms to this reminder that the policy of the League should be universal and not bounded by the needs of Europe. Opportunity for illustrating this thesis occurred in the discussions in the Second and Fifth Committees, of which advantage was taken in the speeches of various members of the delegation. It was a satisfactory result that the Assembly approved a moderate financial support of the Singapore Bureau, thus recognising the principle that more definite work needed to be undertaken by the League in Asiatic countries; also that testimony was given to the efficiency and value of the control in India of the production, consumption and distribution of opium and its products. At the same time the Indian Delegation undertook, not without success, the less agreeable task of urging the need for financial economy by the League at a time when the world generally requires to be set an example of rigorous scrutiny of public expenditure. We were also able to pay more than one tribute to the constructive work of the League in the countries heavily stricken by the war and in the sphere of international intellectual co-operation.

99. Our predecessors at the Sixth Assembly urged the need for a larger representation of India at Assembly sessions. The more numerous delegation sent this year found its time fully occupied in the lengthy Committee discussions, three at least of which were in progress on most mornings and afternoons simultaneously, and sometimes more, besides having to attend other informal meetings with our colleagues of other delegations. On more than one occasion it was also necessary to hold evening meetings of the Committees in order to finish their work in the time allotted. Nevertheless, opportunites also occurred for valuable social intercourse with members of other delegations. We met with much hospitality and ourselves had the pleasure of entertaining, together with some of the most prominent personalities at the Assembly, a number of our British, Dominions and Asiatic colleagues, as well as the Indians employed in the Secretariat of the League and International Labour Office. In our opinion there is plenty of work at the Assembly to occupy an Indian Delegation of moderate size, both in the formal proceedings of the Assembly and its Committees, and also in more informal surroundings, where we can do something to dispel the large amount of ignorance which still prevails as regards Indian institutions and public life among representatives of many foreign countries.

APPENDIX.

ANNEX 1.—Extract from Interim Report of Indian Delegation to Sixth Assembly.

THE COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The Covenant of the League of Nations was signed at the Peace Conference at Versailles, in 1919, by the late Mr. Montagu, His Highness the Maharaja of Bikanir, and Lord Sinha on behalf of India, together with the representatives of 12 other States signatories to the Treaty of Versailles. These States are the original Members of the League of Nations Before the First Session of the Assembly, which was summoned by the late President Wilson to be held at Geneva in 1920, the membership of the League had increased to 42 States. At the present time the membership is 55. The Articles of the Covenant define in general terms the constitution and functions of the League of Nations, but it has been left to the Assembly and the Council at their successive sessions to determine their respective methods and spheres of work. The central purpose of the League is the preservation of peace whether by provisions for security, arbitration and reduction of armaments or by economic reconstruction and the creation of technical organisations to facilitate friendly intercourse between the nations of the world. The main principles for the preservation of peace adopted in the Covenant are conference and delay. The States Members are pledged not go to war, at least until certain prescribed methods of peaceful settlement of a dispute have been tried, then not to go to war in any circumstances until at least three months after the result of the investigation of the cause of their dispute is known, and in no case to go to war against a unanimous decision of the Council (excluding the votes of the parties to the dispute). With a view to due investigation of the causes of disputes the States Members of the League undertake to submit them, when direct negotiations fail, either to the Permanent Court of International Justice for judicial settlement, or to some agreed form of arbitration, or, if either of these two courses is followed, to submit to an enquiry by the League itself: such an enquiry can be undertaken either by the Assembly or by the Council, but is ordinarily held by the latter. States in dispute, whether Members of the Council or of the League or not, may participate in the discussion of a dispute in which they are concerned. All States, therefore, have a choice between judicial settlement, settlement by arbitration, or mediation by the Council or the Assembly to secure settlement of a dispute which they cannot settle by direct negotiation. On the other hand, the League cannot impose its decisions upon States without their consent; it cannot intefere in matters declared to be of national domestic concern; no initiative within the League and no League decision can be taken except by the Government of States Members of the League; the penalties provided in the Covenant do not apply to States which fail to carry out the decisions of the League, but only to States which resort to war in positive breach to the Covenant itself.

The other work of the League, such as its direct administration of certain areas of Europe; its supervision of the administration of certain areas outside Europe by States Members of the League under mandate; its organisation of international co-operation in financial, economic, trade, transit, health, intellectual and moral questions, is directed towards the elimination of possible causes of disputes between nations, as well as to humanitarian and social development. In all these activities the League has to act as a composite association of States, each making due allowance for the situation and the desires of others. The League cannot impose a collective will, but must secure general consent to its decisions. It is not so much a form of government as a form of international co-operation between Governments.

THE ASSEMBLY AND THE COUNCIL.

The Constitution of the League itself secures continuity in this co-operation. In the Covenant the respective functions of the Assembly and the Council have not been strictly defined. In practice, however, the Assembly, consisting of not more than three representatives of each State Member and meeting in annual sessions in the month of September, has assumed the general direction of the work of the League. The Council, which meets once a quarter, consists of the representatives of 10 States Members, namely, four permanent Members, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan, and six non-permanent Members, elected annually by the Assembly, which are at present Brazil, Uruguay, Spain, Czecho-Slovakia, Sweden, and Belgium. It supervises the current work of the Secretariat and the various Commissions, and deals with special emergencies. It has, in fact, become the executive organ of the League. In this capacity the Council makes appointments to and supervises the work of the special organisations or commissions created by the decisions of the Assembly to conduct special enquiries or supervise administration. The administration of the Saar Valley and Danzig, the Permanent Mandates Commission, the Greek Refugees Commission (of which Sir John Campbell, I.C.S., retired, is a member), and the Financial Commissions in Austria and Hungary, are among the organisations concerned with direct administration. Among other organisations are the League Health Organisation, which supervises medical research, the publication of epidemiological statistics and the establishment of liaison between the public health services of different countries; the Economic, Financial, and Communications and Transit Committees, which study in meetings of experts the means of facilitating international co-operation in these matters; the Committee on Intellectual Co-operation (of which Sir Jagadis Bose is a member, and Sir Atul Chatterjee is a substitute member); the Opium and Dangerous Drugs Advisory Committee, which concerts measures to control the traffic in opium and drugs; the Financial Supervisory Commission (of which Lord Meston is a member), which performs the functions of a Budget or Estimates Committee, reviewing and controlling the expenditure of the League; and the Advisory Committee for the Protection of Women and Children. In addition, temporary organisations are created from time to time to study special questions. Among these may be mentioned the Committee for Allocation of the Expenses of the League between the Member States, the Committee to study the Development of International Law (of which Sir Muhammad Rafique is a member), and the Temporary Slavery Committee.

THE SECRETARIAT.

The administrative and clerical services of the Assembly, Council, and subordinate organisations are provided by the permanent staff of the Secretariat and by temporary staff recruited from time to time. Members of the staff are required to be proficient in at least French and English. They were largely recruited, if not locally, among the chief European States at the outset. India is at present represented by only two of her nationals at the Secretariat.

The whole expenditure involved in the meetings of the Assembly, the Council, and various Conferences and Commissions, the upkeep of the League Secretariat, as well as of the International Labour Office and Permanent Court of International Justice, is defrayed through the Budget presented annually to the Assembly. The Assembly also decides in what proportion the expenditure is divisible between the Member States. The total annual expenditure amounts on an average to £900,000 sterling, of which about £490,000 is spent by the League of Nations proper, £285,000 by the International Labour Office, and £80,000 by the Permanent Court, the balance being capital expenditure and working capital.

WORK OF THE ASSEMBLY.

Reports of the sessions of the Council and of the various technical organisations, as well as those of International Conferences summoned at Geneva to conclude agreements on special questions (e.g., the Customs, Opium, and Arms Traffic Conferences) are distributed, on publication, to the Governments of all States Members of the League, whether directly represented at such sessions or conferences or not. In addition, a General Report on the work of the Council and the Secretariat and the measures taken to execute the decisions of the previous Assembly is distributed shortly before the annual session of the Assembly. The provisional agenda for the Assembly session is prepared by the Secretariat, subject to the approval of the President of the Council, and is distributed four months before the Assembly meets. It includes discussion of the General Report and any Supplementary Reports, and the consideration of the work of each of the permanent organisations and of any temporary committees which have been required to submit a eport, also the audited accounts for the previous financial period and the Budget statement.

Items may be added either by the Council or by the preceding Assembly or by individual Member States. By a rule of procedure any Member State may, at least one month before the opening of the session, propose the inclusion of additional items in the agenda. But the Assembly has the right to decide if these additional items are to be discussed in the current session. This procedure secures some degree of notice to the Member States of the questions likely to be discussed at the Assembly: but the right to suggest supplementary items for discussion is freely exercised and many of the reports of the work of technical organisations are not available for distribution before the beginning of the session. It therefore is often the case that questions on which the delegates present have received no instructions or advice are brought up for discussion at the Assembly. In such cases the delegates of distant countries, such as India, find themselves at a disadvantage through being unable to obtain the views of the competent authorities in their own country before taking a decision. In order to give satisfaction to the more distant countries, the Assembly usually decides to postpone a decision on such questions until they have been examined by the Governments of the Member States. Except therefore in matters of routine and comparative unimportance or in case of great urgency, a final decision is rarely taken at the Assembly on any question until it has been considered by the Governments of the Member States. The Assembly, however, is sometimes able to approve a proposal in principle while requesting the Council to decide on the manner and time of its execution. As the decisions of the Assembly have to be taken with unanimity, there is little danger of its action being precipitate.

The Assembly at present meets in a hired building at some distance from the Secretariat. Four seats on the floor of the house are allotted to the representatives of each Member State, arranged in alphabetical order. The fourth seat is for the use of a substitute delegate or secretary. Facing the representatives is a dais, on which the President and officials of the Assembly sit, immediately behind the tribune. The Press and general public sit in the galleries surrounding the hall and other members of the various delegations occupy the corridors of the floor of the house.

THE COMMITTEES OF THE ASSEMBLY.

It has been the practice of each Assembly to appoint six general Committees, on which all the delegations are represented, for consideration of and report to the Assembly upon the items of the agenda referred to them. Each delegation has the right to be represented by one delegate or a substitute. The Committees elect their own Chairmen and Vice-Chairmen. Ordinarily, the Press and general public are admitted to their sessions. In the Assembly it is necessary to give the President notice if a delegate intends to speak. The procedure in Committees is less formal; set speeches are the exception rather than the rule and the proceedings are not reported verbatim. For each of the questions on the agenda a rapporteur is appointed, who initiates the proceedings by presenting a draft report on the basis of available documentary data with appropriate draft resolutions for the consideration of the Committee. After the discussion is finished a revised report, which is expected to include a brief account of the various opinions expressed in the Committee, is adopted and presented to the Assembly for the approval of the draft resolution appended to it. Whereas all decisions of the Assembly have to be unanimous, decisions can be taken in Committees by a majority vote. The rapporteur, however, endeavours, under the direction of the Chairman, to conciliate opposing views by modifications in his report and draft resolution in such a way as to enable the resolution to be carried with unanimity in the Assembly.

ANNEX II.—Resolutions and convention regarding Slavery and Forced Labour adopted by the Seventh Assembly on the Report of the Sixth Committee.

The Assembly:

1. Approves the Slavery Convention drafted by its Sixth Committee, and earnestly trusts that it will be signed and ratified as soon as possible by all the Members of the League of Nations:

Instructs the Secretary-General to take the necessary steps to bring the Convention officially to the knowledge of all States Members or Non-Members of the League of Nations which may not have signed it before the end of the present session of the Assembly, to the end that they may sign or adhere to it in accordance with the provisions of Article 11 of the Convention.

2. Desires that the League of Nations should continue to interest itself in securing the progressive abolition of slavery and conditions analogous thereto, and therefore requests the Council to prepare and communicate to the Assembly every year a document mentioning the laws and regulations which parties to the Convention on Slavery, in accordance with Article 7, will have communicated to the Secretary-General, and that the Council will include therein any supplementary information which the Members of the League may be disposed spontaneously to furnish with regard to the measures taken by them to this end.

3. While recognising that forced labour for public purposes is sometimes necessary:

Is of opinion that, as a general rule, it should not be resorted to unless it is impossible to obtain voluntary labour, and that it should receive adequate remuneration.

4. Taking note of the work undertaken by the International Labour Office in conformity with the mission entrusted to it and within the limits of its constitution;

Considering that these studies naturally include the problem of forced labour:

Requests the Council to inform the Governing Body of the International Labour Office of the adoption of the Slavery Convention, and to draw its attention to the importance of the work undertaken by the Office with a view to studying the best means of preventing forced or compulsory labour from developing into conditions analogous to slavery.

SLAVERY CONVENTION.

* * * * * * *

Whereas the signatories of the General Act of the Brussels Conference of 1889-90 declared that they were equally animated by the firm intention of putting an end to the traffic in African slaves;

Whereas the signatories of the Convention of Saint Germain-en-Laye of 1919 to revise the General Act of Berlin of 1885 and the General Act and Declaration of Brussels of 1890 affirmed their intention of securing the complete suppression of slavery in all its forms and of the slave trade by land and sea;

Taking into consideration the report of the Temporary Slavery Commission appointed by the Council of the League of Nations on June 12th, 1924;

Desiring to complete and extend the work accomplished under the Brussels Act and to find a means of giving practical effect throughout the world to such intentions as were expressed in regard to slave trade and slavery by the signatories of the Convention of Saint Germain-en-Laye, and recognising that it is necessary to conclude to that end more detailed arrangements than are contained in that Convention;

Considering, moreover, that it is necessary to prevent forced labour from developing into conditions analogous to slavery:

Have decided to conclude a Convention and have accordingly appointed as their Plenipotentiaries:—

* * * * * * *

Who, having communicated their full powers, have agreed as follows:—

Article 1.

For the purpose of the present Convention, the following definitions are agreed upon:—

(1) Slavery is the status or condition of a person over whom any or all of the powers attaching to the right of ownership are exercised.

(2) The slave trade includes all acts involved in the capture, acquisition or disposal of a person with intent to reduce him to slavery; all acts involved in the acquisition of a slave, with a view to selling or exchanging him; all acts of disposal by sale or exchange of a slave acquired with a view to being sold or exchanged, and, in general, every act of trade or transport in slaves.

Article 2.

The High Contracting Parties undertake each in respect of the territories placed under its sovereignty, jurisdiction, protection, suzerainty or tutelage, so far as they have not already taken the necessary steps—

(a) to prevent and suppress the slave trade;

(b) to bring about, progressively and as soon as possible, the complete abolition of slavery in all its forms.

Article 3.

The High Contracting Parties undertake to adopt all appropriate measures with a view to preventing and suppressing the embarkation, disembarkation, and transport of slaves in their territorial waters and upon all vessels flying their respective flags.

The High Contracting Parties undertake to negotiate as soon as possible a general Convention with regard to the slave trade which will give them rights and impose upon them duties of the same nature as those provided for in the Convention of June 17th, 1925, relative to the International Trade in Arms (Articles 12, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, and paras. 3, 4, and 5 of section II of Annex II) with the necessary adaptations, it being understood that this general Convention will not place the ships (even of small tonnage) of any High Contracting Parties in a position different from that of the other High Contracting Parties.

It is also understood that, before or after the coming into force of this general Convention, the High Contracting Parties are entirely free to conclude between themselves, without, however, derogating from the principles laid down in the preceding paragraph, such special agreements as, by reason of their peculiar situation, might appear to be suitable in order to bring about as soon as possible the complete disappearance of the slave trade

Article 4.

The High Contracting Parties shall give to one another every assistance with the object of securing the abolition of slavery and the slave trade.

Article 5.

The High Contracting Parties recognize that recourse to compulsory or forced labour may have grave consequences, and undertake, each in respect of the territories placed under its sovereignty, jurisdiction, protection, suzerainty, or tutelage, to take all necessary measures to prevent compulsory or forced labour from developing into conditions analogous to slavery.

It is agreed that :—

(1) Subject to the transitional provisions laid down in paragraph (2) below compulsory or forced labour may only be exacted for public purposes.

(2) In territories in which compulsory or forced labour for other than public purposes still survives, the High Contracting Parties shall endeavour progressively, and as soon as possible, to put an end to the practice. So long as such forced or compulsory labour exists, this labour shall invariably be of an exceptional character, shall always receive adequate remuneration, and shall not involve the removal of the labourers from their usual place of residence.

(3) In all cases, the responsibility for any recourse to compulsory or forced labour shall rest with the competent central authorities of the territory concerned.

Article 6.

Those of the High Contracting Parties whose laws do not at present make adequate provision for the punishment of infractions of laws and regulations enacted with a view to giving effect to the purposes of the present Convention, undertake to adopt the necessary measures in order that severe penalties may be imposed in respect of such infractions.

Article 7.

The High Contracting Parties undertake to communicate to each other and to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations any laws and regulations which they may enact with a view to the application of the provisions of the present Convention.

Article 8.

The High Contracting Parties agree that disputes arising between them relating to the interpretation or application of this Convention shall, if they cannot be settled by direct negotiation, be referred for decision to the Permanent Court of International Justice. In case either or both of the States Parties to such a dispute should not be parties to the Protocol of December 16th, 1920, relating to the Permanent Court of International Justice, the dispute shall be referred, at the choice of the Parties and in accordance with the constitutional procedure of each State, either to the Permanent Court of International Justice or to a court of arbitration constituted in accordance with the Convention of October 18th, 1907, for the Pacific Settlement of International Disputes, or to some other court of arbitration.

Article 9.

At the time of signature, or of ratification, or of accession, any High Contracting Party may declare that its acceptance of the present Convention does not bind some or all of the territories placed under its sovereignty, jurisdiction, protection, suzerainty or tutelage in respect of all or any provisions of the Convention ; it may subsequently accede separately on behalf of any one of them or in respect of any provision to which any one of them is not a party.

Article 10.

In the event of a High Contracting Party wishing to denounce the present convention, the denunciation shall be notified in writing to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations, who will at once communicate a certified true copy of the notification to all the other High Contracting Parties informing them of the date on which it was received.

The denunciation shall only have effect in regard to the notifying State, and one year after the notification has reached the Secretary-General of the League of Nations.

Denunciation may also be made separately in respect of any territory placed under its sovereignty, jurisdiction, protection, suzerainty or tutelage.

Article 11.

The present convention, which will bear this day's date and of which the French and English texts are both authentic, will remain open for signature by the States Members of the League of Nations until April 1st, 1927.

The Secretary-General of the League of Nations will subsequently bring the present convention to the notice of States which have not signed it, including States which are not Members of the League of Nations, and invite them to accede thereto.

A State desiring to accede to the convention shall notify its intention in writing to the Secretary-General of the League of Nations and transmit to him the instrument of accession, which shall be deposited in the archives of the League.

The Secretary-General shall immediately transmit to all the other High Contracting Parties a certified true copy of the notification and of the instrument of accession, informing them of the date on which he received them.

Article 12.

The present convention will be ratified and the instruments of ratification shall be deposited in the office of the Secretary-General of the League of Nations. The Secretary-General will inform all the High Contracting Parties of such deposit.

The Convention will come into operation for each State on the date of the deposit of its ratification or of its accession.

In faith whereof the Plenipotentiaries have signed the present Convention.

Done at Geneva the twenty-fifth day of September One thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, in one copy, which will be deposited in the archives of the League of Nations. A certified copy shall be forwarded to each signatory State.

The Convention was signed by Sir William Vincent on 25th September 1926 on behalf of India, subject to the following reservations :—

Under the terms of Article 9 of this Convention, I declare that my signature is not binding as regards the enforcement of the provisions of Article 2, sub-section (b). Articles 5, 6 and 7 of this Convention upon the following territories, namely :—In Burma, the Naga tracts lying west and south of the Hukawng Valley, bounded on the north and west by the Assam boundary, on the east by the Nanphuk River and on the south by the Singaling Hkamti and the Somra tracts ; in Assam, the Sadiya and Balipara frontier tracts, the tribal area to the east of the Naga Hills district, up to the Burma boundary, and a small tract in the south of the Lushai Hills district ; nor on the territories in India of any Prince or Chief under the suzerainty of His Majesty.

I also declare that my signature to the Convention is not binding in respect of Article 3 in so far as that Article may require India to enter into any Convention whereby vessels, by reason of the fact that they are owned, fitted out or commanded by Indians, or of the fact that one-half of the crew is Indian, are classified as native vessels, or are denied any privilege, right or immunity enjoyed by similar vessels of other States Signatories of the Covenant or are made subject to any liability or disability to which similar ships of such other States are not subject.

The following reservation was made by Prince Arfa-ud-Dowleh on behalf of Persia on signing the Convention :—

I declare that Article 3 cannot compel Persia to subscribe to any arrangement or Convention under which its ships of all tonnages whatever are included in the category of native craft referred to in the Arms Traffic Convention.

APPENDIX IV.

(See paragraph 14 of the Regulations.)

NOTE.—This Appendix is merely intended to show the principal leave rules in the Fundamental Rules and the Pension Rules at present applicable to Engineers appointed to the Indian Services from the United Kingdom without going into minute details, and does not profess to deal with every case that may arise. The rules are subject to alteration, and any disputed question must be decided with reference to the authorised text of the Fundamental Rules or Civil Service Regulations for the time being.

Leave.

(The following rules apply only to officers of non-Asiatic domicile.)

1. Leave is calculated in terms of "leave on average pay," and the amount of "leave on average pay" which an officer earns is five-twenty-seconds of the period spent on duty.

2. Subject to certain maxima and minima, an officer may draw, at his option, leave salary equal to the average pay of the last 12 months of completed duty or to half such average pay. All leave on average pay and half the period on half average pay is counted against the leave earned. An officer may take his leave on average pay, on half average pay, or on a combination of the two provided that his continuous absence from duty does not exceed 28 months, and that the amount of leave taken on average pay does not exceed eight months at any one time. The maximum amount of leave admissible during an officer's career is the equivalent of leave on average pay for three years plus one-eleventh of the period spent on duty, of which not more than one year plus one-eleventh of the period spent on duty may actually consist of leave on average pay. Leave not due and carrying half average pay may be granted on medical certificate, and, within certain limits, for other reasons, but an officer will not again commence to earn leave until the expiration of a fresh period of duty sufficient to earn a credit of leave equal to the leave he has taken before it was due. After 28 months' absence from duty an officer draws quarter average salary, subject to certain maxima and minima.

3. Leave salary is ordinarily payable in rupees if the officer spends his leave in India or Ceylon, and in sterling if he spends it elsewhere. The rate of exchange for the conversion of leave salary is prescribed from time to time by the Secretary of State.

4. It should be noted that leave can never be claimed as of right, but is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

Pensions.

5. The following is a summary of the pension rules applicable to Engineers appointed to the Indian Services by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom.

Ordinary Pensions.

6. An officer is entitled, on his resignation being accepted, to a retiring pension after completing qualifying service of not less than 20 years.

7. An officer is entitled to superannuation pension on attaining the age of 55 years, when retirement is ordinarily required, or on retirement thereafter. (An officer is sometimes, for special reasons, retained after attaining the age of 55 years.)

8. The rates of retiring and superannuation pension are $\frac{30}{60}$ths of average emoluments, subject to the following maxima:—

Completed years of qualifying Service	Maximum limit of Pension	Completed years of qualifying Service	Maximum limit of Pension
	Per annum.		Per annum.
	Rs.		Rs.
20 24	4,000	28	6,600
25	6,000	29	6,800
26	6,200	30	7,000
27	6,400

9 Government may retire any officer after he has completed 25 years' service without giving reasons, and without any claim for compensation in addition to pension, and in that event the pension admissible to him will ordinarily be regulated on a scale not exceeding that laid down above. Government also reserves the general power to reduce the pension ordinarily admissible in all cases where an officer's service has been unsatisfactory.

10. An officer who is compelled to retire through ill-health not occasioned by irregular or intemperate habits will be eligible for invalid gratuity or pension as follows —

(a) After qualifying service of less than 7 years a gratuity not exceeding one month's emoluments for each completed year of service (except in special cases and under the orders of the Government of India, who may sanction a maximum of 12 months' emoluments) If the emoluments of the officer have been reduced during the last three years of his service, otherwise than as a penalty, average emoluments may, at the discretion of the authority which has power to sanction the gratuity, be substituted for emoluments

(b) After a service of not less than 7 years, a pension not exceeding the following amounts.—

Completed years of qualifying Service	Scale of Pension	Maximum	Completed years of qualifying Service	Scale of Pension.	Maximum.
		Per annum.			Per annum.
		Rs.			Rs

Additional Pensions.

11 The Government of India have classified certain high appointments into two grades, the lower comprising those posts which involve high but intermediate responsibility, the higher consisting of those which require a marked degree of independent administrative and professional capacity. Officers who have held appointments listed in the lower grade may be granted an additional pension at the rate of Rs. 300 for each completed year of effective service in any appointment included in that grade, provided that no officer may draw an additional pension in excess of Rs. 1,500 in respect of service classed in the lower grade. Officers who have held appointments listed in the upper grade may be granted an additional pension at the rate of Rs. 500 for each completed year of effective service rendered in any appointment included in that grade, provided that no officer may draw an additional pension in excess of Rs. 2,500 in respect of service rendered in the lower and upper grades combined or in the upper grade alone.

12. These additional pensions will be awarded only to officers who have rendered approved service in the qualifying appointment, and will be subject to the condition that an officer must, in the event of voluntary retirement, have completed 28 years' qualifying service.

The upper grade includes the Consulting Engineer to the Government of India and Chief Engineers of the Indian Service of Engineers.

The lower grade includes Superintending Engineers, Indian Service of Engineers, and the Deputy Secretary to the Government of India, Department of Industries and Labour, Public Works Branch.

Provident Fund.

13. A General Provident Fund, to which contribution is compulsory, has also been established on the following basis :—

(1) contribution is compulsory up to 6¼ per cent. of pay, with voluntary contributions of not more than a further 9⅜ per cent. Contributions during leave of any kind are optional.

(2) Compound interest on such payments is annually credited by Government to each officer contributing.

(3) The sum which thus accumulates to the credit of an officer is his absolute property, subject to the rules of the Fund, and is handed over to him, unconditionally, on his quitting the service ; or, in the event of his death before retirement, to his legal representatives or such other person or persons as, under and subject to the rules of the Fund for the time being in force, may be entitled thereto.

APPENDIX V.

Passage Rules.

(The arrangements herein described are subject to the provisions of the authorised text of the rules relating to the grant of passages)
